When You Are 75.
Books and a Telescope.
Mr. Hoover Says Yes.
A Freight Train's Story.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 14.

THIS is written between Lamy and Albuquerque, New Mexico, on the Santa Fe bound for California. There is no finer stretch of country than this, with beautiful sky and sunshine, magnificent endless stretches of hills, 6,000 feet above the sea. The population is light, room for millions more. Wise providence reserved this land for a more highly developed race.

SENATOR FERRIS, of Michigan, 75 years old, tired of the same old speeches in the Senate, would like to "live" for a little while before he dies. Many younger than 75 have felt as Senator Ferris feels. Life's grind becomes tiresome. The mind is more active than ever, the body less active. Success that seemed so important has become trivial. The "divide" is passed, the path leads down hill, not far to go.

HOW can a man like Senator Ferris "live" during his last years of life of a thinking creature, and claim to be only a cog in the earth's machine of 1,600,000,000 struggling nonentities?

A SMALL stone house on one of these New Mexico hills, a telescope to study through clear air the universe in which this earth is a floating pellet, an automobile that would mean freedom to go toward the Pacific or the Atlantic, a small room with books containing the little knowledge that men have accumulated, and all they have said worth while, and time to think. That would be the program for a man grown old.

"LONESOME" some will say. Not as lonesome as the grave, close by. "Never less alone than when by myself," said Gibbon, in "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

"Multum incola fuit anima mea" ("My spirit hath been much alone"), said Bacon, greatest thinker since Aristotle. It's the crowd that is lonesome, not solitude.

SECRETARY HOOVER tells Republicans he will welcome their votes in the presidential primaries. He will continue to work in President Coolidge's cabinet and will not "make any personal campaign." Two wise decisions. The country needs his work, useful and thorough. Voters know what Mr. Hoover has done and plans to do. If they elect him President it will be because they know him now.

TODAY'S Albuquerque Journal says the majority of New Mexico's delegates will be for Hoover. The delegation is not instructed. It is not the business of this column to recommend candidates for any party. But one thing is certain, the President of the United States ought to know something about the business of the United States.

IN warlike countries or tribes it would be considered preposterous to choose for leader a man ignorant of fighting. In this commercial, industrial, engineering, scientific country, a man put in charge should know something about its problems and not merely know that he would like very much to be President.

"IF a drop of salt water could talk, it would tell the whole story of the Pacific."

One Santa Fe freight track going through the Kansas City yards to Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas grain fields, told the story of progress and prosperity in this country and promised a solution of its labor problem aggravated by immigration restrictions.

THAT train of 31 cars carried $250,000 worth of "combine harvesters" and will soon be followed by a thousand carloads of those labor-saving machines. They cut grain, thresh it, pile up the straw, delivering the grain in sacks or by spout to miniature grain elevators. In Kansas last year they saved the work of 40,000 men.

TO make machines do the work of men, especially hard, underpaid work, paying good wages to the man doing the work of a hundred or five hundred, such is the present problem.

THE real problem is to give all men education and ambition that will make them worthy of better times coming, when human intelligence and science shall have abolished poverty and worry.

ARE you interested in oil? The Marland Company will spend $2,500,000 "wildcatting" in southeast New Mexico. "Wildcatting" means digging speculative wells where oil has not yet been produced in paying quantities, and is no child's play. Wildcat wells cost $250,000 apiece, sometimes more. Nobody can guess how much oil there is under the ground in this country. One thing is certain, Americans will build enough automobiles to use it all and look around for a new and better power fuel.

NOOSE TO GET "FOX" APRIL 27

By ARTHUR L. MAREK.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTROOM, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14.—William Edward Hickman was sentenced today to pay with his life on the gallows for the kidnaping and murder of Marian Parker.

Friday, April 27, 1928, was set as the date of execution.

Previously "The Fox" had been denied a new trial.

"You shall incur the penalty of death," Judge Trabucco told Hickman in announcing he had found him guilty of murder in the first degree.

Judge Trabucco sentenced Hickman for the term prescribed by law for his conviction on the kidnaping charge, the first count in the indictment. The penalty for kidnaping is one year to life imprisonment.

"THE FOX" SERENE

Hickman stretched to the full height of his five feet four inches when ordered to stand before the bar.

He never as much as flicked an eyelash while Judge Trabucco meted out his fatal judgment.

"And may the Lord have mercy upon your soul," Judge Trabucco concluded.

Hickman was remanded to Sheriff William I. Traeger, who was instructed to take Hickman to San Quentin Penitentiary for execution.

Three armed deputies rushed Hickman out of the courtroom through a rear door to his "death cell" in the jail two floors above.

A death watch has been posted over the doomed youth.

Today's proceedings consumed less than 30 minutes.

After being taken out of the courtroom Hickman was brought back and posed with his attorneys for newspaper photographers.

SMILES FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS

He smiled as he stood between his youthful lawyers before the bench vacated by Judge Trabucco.

Obliging the photographers, Hickman posed for 15 minutes as the cameras clicked from every angle of the courtroom.

As he finally was led away, Hickman was manacled to his 195-pound bodyguard, Deputy Sheriff Claude Peters.

He was stopped at the doorway by Bailiff Ed La Fleur, who handed him a worn Bible which someone had sent to the courtroom for the condemned prisoner.

Hickman smiled as he took the Bible in his hands and carried it with him to his steel cage.

Following the denial of a new trial, Walsh entered an objection to Judge Trabucco's jurisdiction to pass judgment upon Hickman. The objection was denied.

Judge Trabucco then called upon District Attorney Asa Keyes to present the state's evidence to aid in determining the degree of punishment.

County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner was called to tell of his autopsy upon the Parker girl.

Hickman, still wearing his natty blue suit and with his curly black hair thickly greased, sat unmoved during the legal skirmishes to save him from the gibbet.

Cuts Son to Death

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 14.—A 7-year-old schoolboy was slain by his mother in the little schoolhouse at Mine No. 5, eight miles out of Mercer, this afternoon, according to reports obtained by Sheriff D. K. Callahan.

The mother, Mrs. Jack McCall, aged about 35, walked into the schoolhouse, butcher knife in hand, picked out her son, Lawrence, and slashed him across the throat. He died before medical aid could be furnished.

The mother was taken into custody by citizens of the small mining settlement and held pending the arrival of the sheriff.

St. Valentine Day Finds Romance Rift Mended

The spirit of St. Valentine pervaded the Courthouse today. Ten days ago John Maue, a city policeman, of Dearborn street, filed a libel in divorce against his wife, Hilda Maue, charging cruel and barbarous treatment. Today Maue instructed his attorney, Leonard A. Mazer, to file a discontinuance of the divorce suit, saying that he and his wife had patched up their differences and are together again. They were married last October.

"What Did You Eat?" Ruffles Lone Eagle

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—There is one sure way to obtain a sharp retort from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Lone Eagle—and that is to ask him what he eats on his non-stop flights. Apparently remembering the prodding he received after eating only a sandwich and a half on the New York-to-Paris flight, Col. Lindbergh was on the defensive yesterday when asked what he ate on his way home from Havana.

"What has that got to do with it anyway?" he asked in the hangar. Again at night when the same query was put to him he reddened and grinned and then replied:

"Well, I don't see what that's got to do with it."

Lindy Lands at Lambert

COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH

Here's the "Lone Eagle," back home after his strenuous "Good-Will" tour through nations to the south. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, two hours late, was caught by the photographer as he stepped from his beloved Spirit of St. Louis, at Lambert Field, St. Louis, last night at 6:01 Pittsburgh time, while a great crowd, fears of a crash dissipated, surged forward to greet him. "I was never lost," he said. "Fog and other climatic flying handicaps delayed me."

LINDY DOES STUNTS FOR CHILDREN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the idol of American youth, was to stage a one-man aerial parade today for the edification of 40,000 school children.

This gesture, incidentally, was to be the modest young aviator's official greeting to the "home folks of St. Louis," following his dramatic non-stop flight from Havana, Cuba, and the completion of one of the most famous aerial tours in history.

Lindbergh swooped down from a heavy sky here last evening just as dusk was settling over Lambert Field. Flares had been lighted to compensate for the waning daylight. He had been in the air approximately 16 hours.

NO PARACHUTE

He spoke highly of the behavior of his plane, saying:

"I think it is in almost perfect condition, although it will be overhauled here. Of course it is not in as good a condition as when I first left with it."

The manner in which the plane stood up, he said, seemed to him to be proof that airplanes will stand more use than most people believe. The plane eventually will be given to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

"No, I did not carry a parachute on the flight," he replied to another question. "Parachutes are necessary in military maneuvers but not in passenger transportation and also they are of no use on the type of plane I'm flying."

Thus, in a blaze of glory, the famous ambassador of American good will completed, with the clean-cut precision of his New York-to-Paris flight, a tour of 15 nations and dependencies in Central and South America.

9,000 MILES ON TOUR

Since leaving Washington, December 13, on his epochal non-stop flight to Mexico City, Lindbergh has flown approximately 9,000 miles, more than a third of the distance around the world—and all of this without a single mishap. The en-

1 DEAD 4 SICK BY FISH

Mrs. Mary Thaner, 60, of 404 James street, Verona, is dead and four members of her family are recovering from poisoning pronounced due to eating tainted fish.

Mrs. Thaner, who became violently ill last Friday afternoon, an hour after partaking of a white fish fillet purchased in a Verona store, died at 7 o'clock this morning in the Pittsburgh Hospital.

Mrs. Thaner's two sons, Gerard, 34, and Clement, 24; the latter's wife, Adelaide, and her nine-months-old baby, Raymond, also became ill, but suffered no serious effects.

Mrs. Thaner was seized with severe nausea, soon after eating the fish, it was said today at her home. A physician, who was summoned, diagnosed her illness as acute indigestion or ptomaine poisoning.

The hospital, this morning, in reporting the case to the coroner, gave "poisoning caused by eating fish" as the cause of death. Dr. W. B. McKenna, one of the attending physicians, said no definite diagnosis had been made.

Members of Mrs. Thaner's family indicated an autopsy might be performed to determine definitely the nature of the poison which caused death.

All of those who became ill, including the baby, who today was said to be critically ill, partook of the fish at the noon meal Friday. Clement Thaner was ill Friday night and yesterday.

Mrs. Thaner, a widow, was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Verona.

Shots Fly In Mine Orgy

Climaxing a night resounding with the rattle of gun fire in the "patch," a strikebreakers' settlement at mine No. 4 of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company, Horning, Clifton Greene, 35, a Negro, known as "Black Frank," was probably fatally wounded shortly before noon today.

Greene, a non-union miner, was shot by William Walker, 30, a Negro fellow-worker, during a drunken brawl in a company house, according to coal and iron police. The wounded man was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

More than 100 shots were fired in

COAL MERGERS MAY END STRIKE

By KENNETH CLARK,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The soft coal industry, faced with heavy financial losses, is beginning a quiet economic reorganization.

Reports reaching Washington officials say that some of the leading companies are planning widespread consolidations with smaller units, to eliminate high-cost mines and to curtail production.

Under present arrangements the industry is torn by fierce competition and price wars. Neither operators nor miners see any permanent relief unless co-ordinated measures to assure a steady but not too large flow of production are taken.

United Mine Workers' officials, here for the Johnson resolution hearings, declared today they would welcome any move by the operators to restrict production.

The Johnson resolution, calling for an investigation of mine conditions in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, is expected to be approved by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. The union demanded the inquiry.

The committee postponed its meeting, scheduled for today. Chairman Watson said the report probably will be made tomorrow.

Overproduction is admittedly one of the industry's sorest ills. De-

REDHEAD WANTS HUSBAND, HE CAN DRINK; BEARDS OUT

READING, Pa., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Any white man, no matter what age, who will be reasonably kind to her, who will give $10,000 to her mother and aged stepfather for their support, will be accepted as a husband by Miss Cathryn Williams, 22, a Stony Creek Mills girl. Miss Williams, who made public her leap year proposal today, says she can't earn enough to maintain her mother and stepfather, and that the latter, nearly 70, can't find work.

She is redheaded, but says she "Is easy to get along with" and doesn't care if the man with the $10,000 smokes and drinks, so long as he is "ordinarily kind." The only stipulation is that he must not have a beard.

"I can cook well, can keep a house clean and like house work, I will sign an agreement not to nag," she says.

COUNTY NOT 'BROKE,' AUDIT SHOWS

BORROWING MARGIN IN MILLIONS

First authentic figures on the county's indebtedness, compiled by Ernst & Ernst, hired for an audit of the county's fiscal affairs, were made public today.

The county is financially sound in its commissioners' borrowing power. The present margin is $14,172,912. The peoples' borrowing power is $102,580,984.

These were the outstanding inferences in the statement. The statement sets at rest all charges that the county is facing financial ruin.

Former Controller Charles C. McGovern, during his audit, had charged that the commissioners had about reached their borrowing limit, that the county's finances were in a precarious condition, and had refused to agree to the sale of over $2,000,000 worth of bonds authorized by the commissioners.

County Controller Robert G. Woodside explained that the statement today was not the debt statement required by law to be filed in his annual report. "This statement is the one required when an additional sale of bonds has been authorized," he said.

Search in Rain for Body

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Feb. 14.—Despite a downpour of rain since early morning, crews continued doggedly to drag the Tuscarawas River for the body of Viola May, 23, slain one week ago tonight by her brother-in-law, William D. Herron, 41, according to his own confession.

Although another rise in the river is imminent, the dragging operations will go on until the body is found, according to Coroner J. F. Lewis. Employment of a diver, an action under consideration, was deemed useless because of the muddy condition of the water.

Herron, subjected daily to questioning by County Prosecutor James E. Patrick, sticks to his story that he attacked the girl, choked her to death and threw her body into the river.

A woman clairvoyant, appearing at a local theater, was permitted to interview Herron in the Tuscarawas county jail today, after professing ability to read the confessed slayer's mind.

"Herron told the truth when he said he tossed the girl's body from the bridge and the body will be found in a hole near the bridge," was the medium's announcement after the interview.

The authorities placed no value on the woman's supposed occult powers.

CONFESSES HAMMER MURDER

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—"I killed her. She knew I was going to do it. I intended to kill myself, too,

"She was fully awake. We joined in a short prayer. Then I struck her over the head with a hammer.

"I walked to a window. I was going to jump out—but I lost my nerve."

In these words, Cecil Clyde Campbell, 43, a former army major, confessed here that it was he who beat his wife, Mary Lyle MacLean Campbell, to death in room 1108 of the Grand Hotel, Broadway and Thirty-first street, New York City, a week ago yesterday.

Campbell, a tall, powerful man with a ready smile, declared that he and his wife stayed at the Grand Hotel several days, all the while discussing their financial difficulties, and finally agreeing to "end our lives."

"She looked up into my eyes and smiled just before I struck her," he declared.

He made his amazing admissions eagerly. A few hours before he had taken part in a revival hymn service and had heard a sermon on "Those who live by the sword shall perish by the sword." He was captured in a hotel operated by the Volunteers of America. He was penniless and remorseful. He is being held without bail to await extradition to New York.

He said that on the day of the murder he and his wife went to their room on the eleventh floor of the Grand Hotel. He had procured a hammer at a 5 and 10-cent store. They prayed at length and asked forgiveness for the act "they" were about to commit. He brought out the hammer and, while his wife looked at him, he beat here over the head until she was unconscious, he told the authorities.

"We had agreed that I was to jump out of the window after killing her," he continued. "I went to the window, looked out, and lost my nerve."

Advices from Portland, Me., said that Campbell's first wife, a pretty, 32-year-old brunette, now employed as a night telephone operator in Portland, divorced him for cruel and abusive treatment several years ago. She has their one child. Campbell was then in business in Portland. He was later superintendent of the Maine State Reformatory for Men at South Windham, Me. She was quoted as saying he often threatened to shoot her.

MERGERS MAY END STRIKE

spite the 11 months' strike, stocks now above ground total about 50,000,000 tons, with weekly production running approximately 1,000,000 tons below normal. The price of soft coal at the mines is the lowest since the war, the average last year being $1.99 a ton, comparing to $2.21 the year before. The present weekly average is about $1.75 a ton.

Operators in Southern West Virginia have already announced a consolidation of about 40 companies. Northern West Virginia operators are now working on consolidation plans.

With production cut down, operators foresee a higher price for coal, correspondingly increased wages for miners and consequently a settlement of the bitter labor dispute gripping the industry.

The suggestion of curtailing production came from the recent moves in the oil industry, which found itself facing demoralization through an oversupply.

Secretary of Interior Work has been instrumental in selling to oil operators the idea of closing down needless wells to strengthen prices.

the "patch" at irregular intervals throughout the night, nearby residents charge. The only damage reported, however, was at the store of Steve Haskey, a bullet pierced a front window.

Walker used a single barrel 12-gauge shotgun in wounding Greene, the police say, firing one fusillade into the man's groin and another into his right shoulder and arm. Walker was arrested and held for county authorities.

With stab wounds in the chest and neck, Deputy Sheriff George MacCurry, 51, who has been working as a coal and iron policeman at the strike center in Repton, is in the Columbia Hospital, Wilkinsburg, in a serious condition.

Frank Wingard, 40, a strikebreaker, is under arrest for the stabbing.

Wingard, according to state police, attacked MacCurry after the latter had ejected the miner from a house owned by the Union Collieries Company.

There had been a brawl in the house, it is said, and MacCurry had been called to the place.

DON'T SELL, ADVICE OF C. OF C.

Neville Farm, the county-owned property on Bower Hill road, near Bridgeville, is included in "six or eight" sites being given careful consideration as the selection for Pittsburgh's new municipal airport, the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners was told today by Arthur E. Braun, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce airport committee.

Mr. Braun and John F. Casey, contractor and member of the chamber committee, appeared before the commissioners and asked that no move be made to dispose of the property "until our investigation can be completed." A sign on the property declares the tract of 243 acres is for sale.

Mr. Braun said that in the 150 sites submitted to the Chamber of Commerce committee, "six or eight" indicate possibilities and that the committee is planning an extremely careful investigation of this number from every angle. The United States Department of Commerce, aeronautics branch, will be asked to send representatives here to inspect each of the sites, he said.

The Neville farm property is 7.8 miles from the downtown section and is quickly accessible through Liberty Tunnels, out West Liberty avenue and Bower Hill road, a new concrete road from Mount Lebanon to Bridgeville. When the Liberty Bridge is opened in the spring it will be possible to escape most of the downtown traffic in going from the new postoffice section at Grant street and Seventh avenue to the Bridgeville section.

Neville farm is the scene of the whisky insurrection of colonial days. It lies on the bluff above the Vanadium Steel Corporation plant at Bridgeville. Preliminary investigation indicates that a flying field 6,000 feet in length and from 2,500 to 4,000 feet in width could be established there with a nominal amount of grading. A Martin bombing plane of the United States Army has already effected a landing there with 14 passengers.

LINDY DOES STUNTS

tire trip was made in his famous trans-Atlantic plane, the Spirit of St. Louis.

Owing to inclement weather, less than 1,000 persons were on hand to welcome Lindbergh at Lambert Field. It was just a year ago that Lindy "checked out" of the mail service here to prepare for his New York-to-Paris flight. Many of his old buddies were on hand to greet him.

After the usual round of back-slapping and hand-shaking, Lindbergh went directly to the home of Harry French Knight, the man who backed his trans-Atlantic hop. Lindbergh spent the night there in quiet seclusion.

The city was to be given an opportunity to add its plaudits to those of the rest of the world late today. The flier will take off from Lambert Field at 2:15 p. m. and will fly over St. Louis. Then, following the river's course, he will fly low, while the school children of the city, with small American flags, wave a welcome from the levee.

FLIGHT SMOOTH

Lindbergh said the flight from Havana to St. Louis was without incident.

"I stuck to my course steadily and sighted the Mississippi River about 20 miles below St. Louis," he said. "I followed the river north to the Missouri River, circled St. Charles, Mo., and came into the flying field from the west."

Lindbergh said heavy weather prevailed most of the way and that visibility was "very low." He flew straight for Key West, he said, and then followed the west coast of Florida to Cedar Key, where he took a direct compass course to St. Louis.

"The 'Spirit of St. Louis,'" he said, "is so constructed that it is possible to land without injury to the pilot or passenger in case of necessity. I believe a parachute should be carried where it is advisable and makes for greater safety, but when the gas tank is in front of the pilot he is in little danger of a forced landing."

"But what would have been the outcome," he was asked, "if you had been forced to land while over the water?"

"I guess the outcome would have been that I would be dead," he said, and laughed merrily.

Turning to his planned trip over the old air mail route which he abandoned exactly one year ago yesterday to go to San Diego, where the "Spirit of St. Louis" was being built, Lindbergh said:

"My primary object in going over the old mail route is to stimulate aviation and interest in it—although I do want to go over the old route. But I think the air mail will become more and more important, especially as the ground organization is developed. I expect to see all important mail sent by air in the future."

FIRES TWICE AT HOME OF JERSEY MERCHANT

CAMDEN, N. J., Feb. 14.—Staging his twenty-seventh attack since Thanksgiving day, Camden's "phantom sniper" last night made two unsuccessful attempts to shoot W. R. Scudder, commission merchant, of Westmont.

Homebound theater-goers, attracted by the commotion in the Scudder home, organized a posse and combed Haddon township for the mysterious gunman, but as in all previous attacks, the sniper left no trace.

Both missiles fired by the sniper pierced windows of the Scudder home, but no trace of them could be found.

Blackjack Thug Fells Girl

Beaten almost unconscious by a young thug who struck her on the head with a blackjack when she left a street car at Liberty avenue and Twenty-ninth street, early this morning, Mrs. Regina Slaughenhaupt, 21, of 2856 Smallman street, was saved from further assault when her assailant became frightened and ran.

The young woman was picked up by a pedestrian who sent her to the St. Francis Hospital. Her condition is favorable, it was said at the hospital. She suffered severe bruises on the head and also is suffering from shock. Further examination will be made this morning to determine the extent of her injuries.

Mrs. Slaughenhaupt told police that the man was standing behind a pole when she left the car and that he grabbed her arm as soon as the car had moved away. She screamed and fought, but was hit on the head with a blackjack and was dragged toward a side street. The attacker became frightened and ran, leaving her on the pavement.

Missing

HOWARD TIDWELL

Howard Tidwell, 29, of 17 Perrod street, North Side, one-legged locksmith, who has made keys at the north end of the Seventh Street Bridge since it opened, mysteriously disappeared January 19, according to his wife, Rose Tidwell, who yesterday applied to Miss Anna Gordon of the Missing Persons Bureau for aid in a search for the missing man. Mrs. Tidwell says that her husband had nearly $300 in his pocket at the time of his disappearance. The couple have been married since last April. Tidwell has three children by a former marriage.

Held Up, Detective Kills Robbers

2 OF GANG DEAD, 1 DYING

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Detective Sergt. Thomas Cooper, quick on the draw and of deadly aim, failed to "stick 'em up" in answer to a bandit quartet's commands last night, but when the smoke cleared away one robber lay dead, two were wounded, one fatally, while the fourth had fled.

The shooting took place in a South Side restaurant where the sergeant had stopped for lunch. While hanging up his hat and coat, the four men entered the place, one of them seizing Miss Blanche Wilson, proprietor, by the throat.

ONE ESCAPES

As she screamed, Sergt. Cooper wheeled around, drawing his pistol. The bandit leader dropped to the floor at the first shot. Two others, unarmed, attempted to rush the policeman, but they, too, fell. The fourth man ran.

About this time, Fred Kern, a customer, entered and a bullet, intended for the fleeing robber, passed through his coat.

The dead leader, identified by cards found on his person, was believed to be Charles Green, 26.

Edward Smith, 23, with four shots in his body, died a few hours later in a hospital, and Jack Gold, 30, was expected to die also.

Police records failed to show any information about Green, but both Smith and Gold are wanted, police said, in connection with a holdup of the Everett Coal Company, when Fred Matson was shot and killed February 7, 1927.

BELLEVUE BOARD FAVORS TOWN HALL

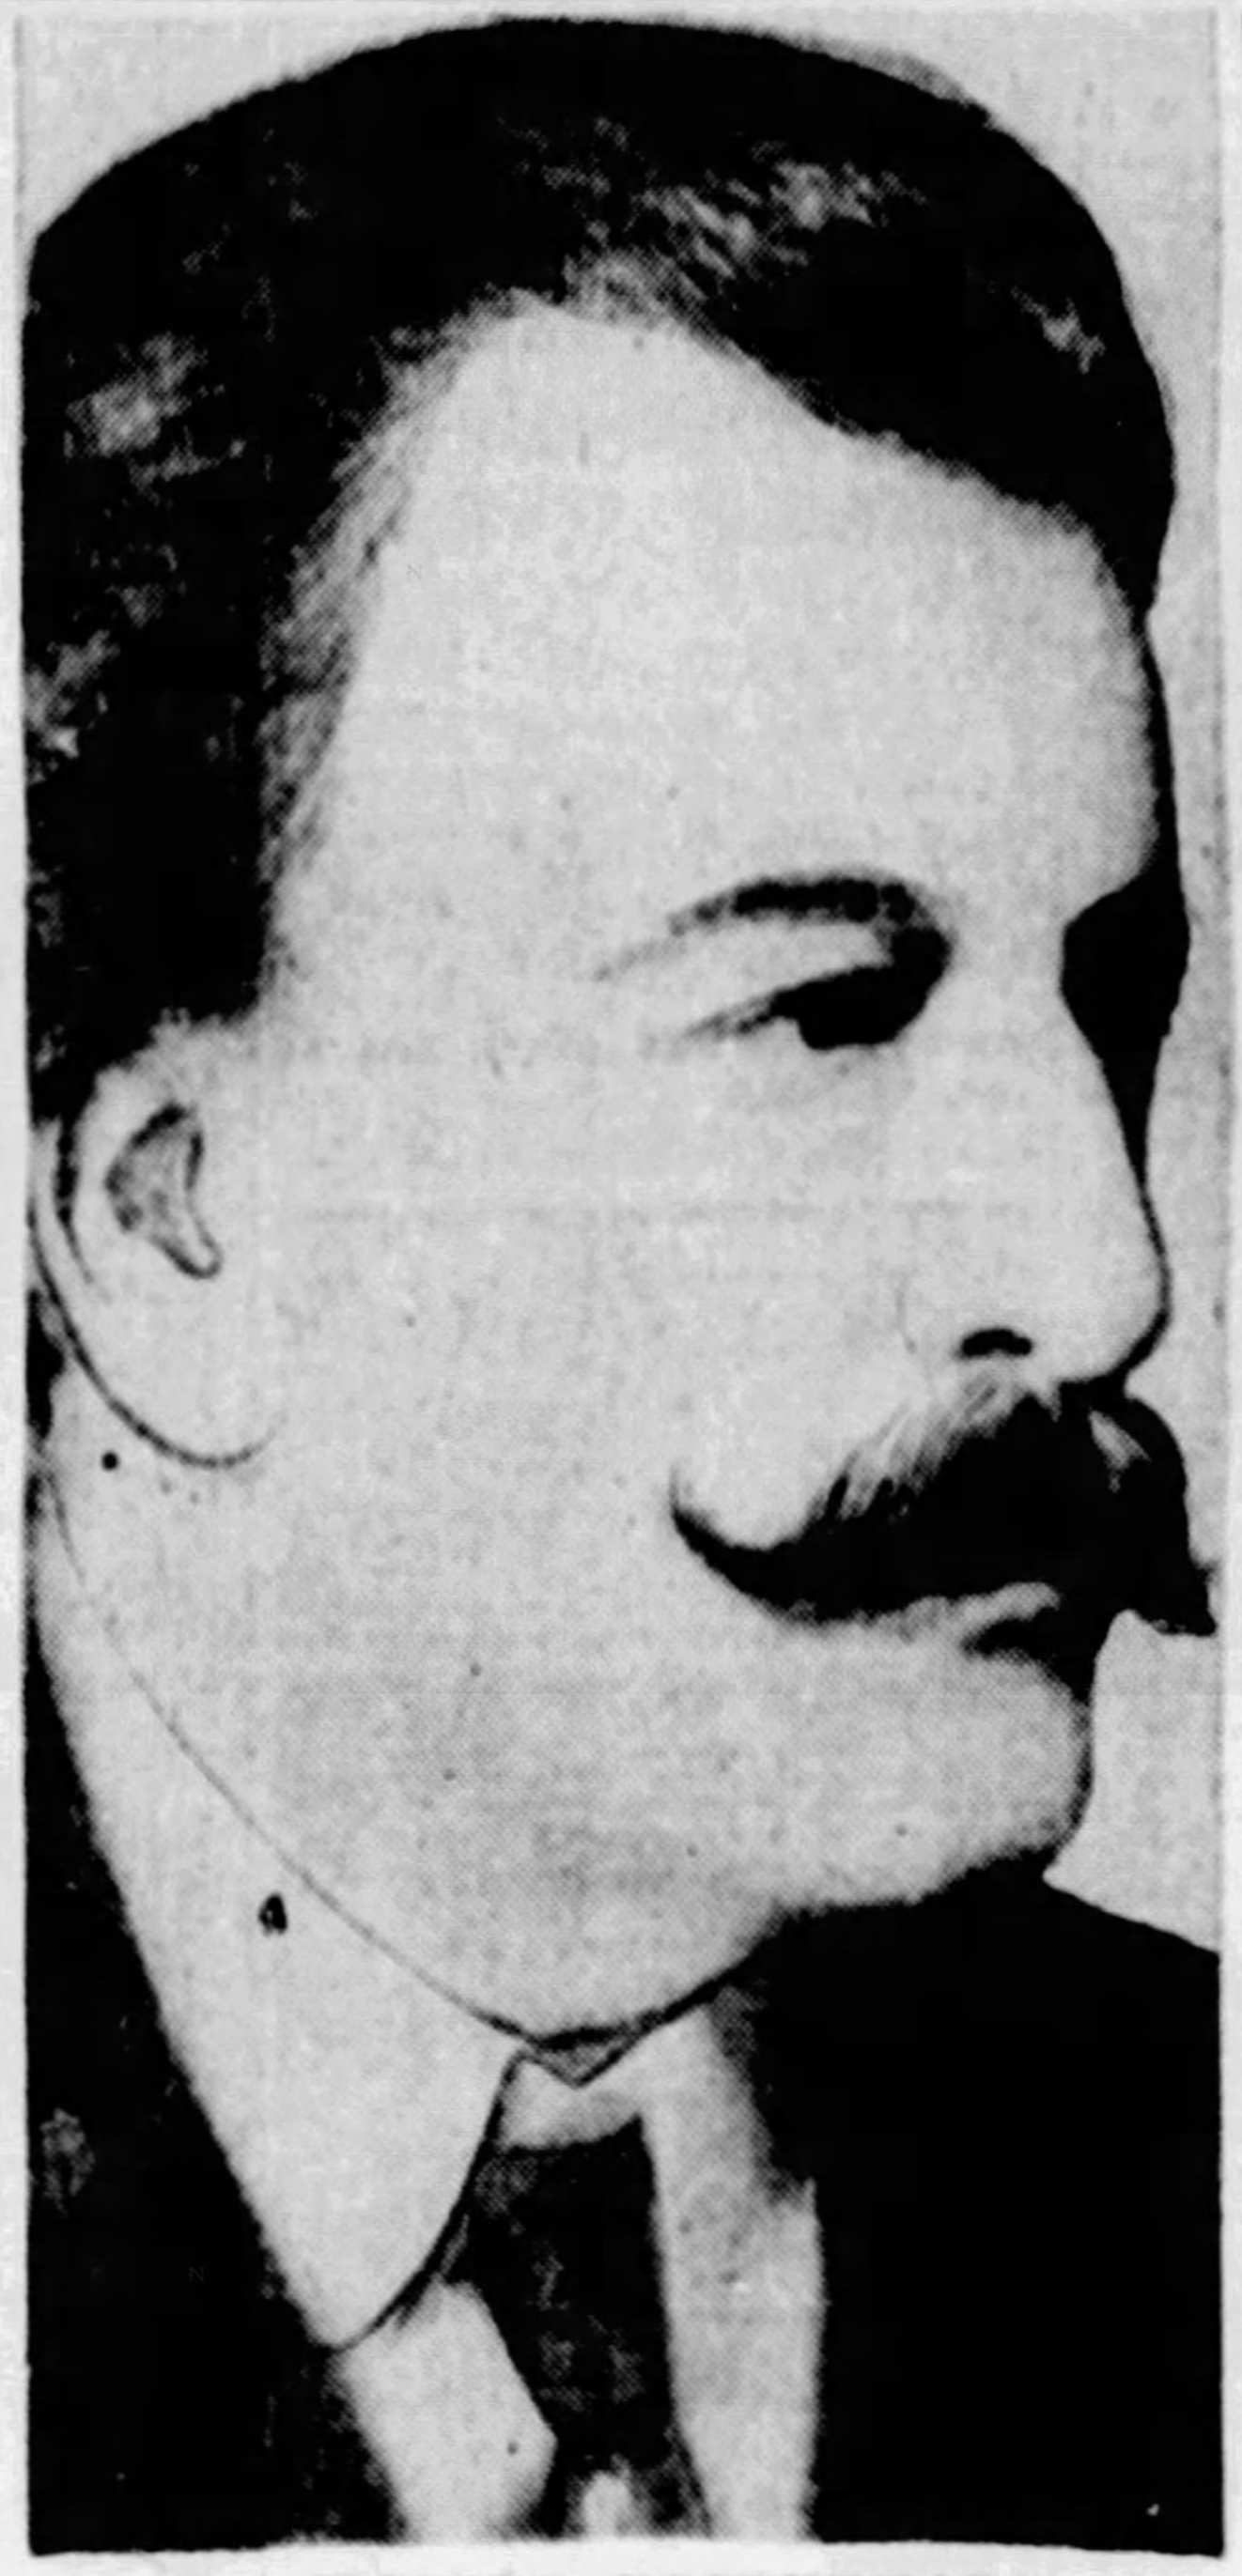
A resolution favoring erection of a Town Hall and commending the public improvement bond issues to be presented at the next election was adopted by Bellevue Board of Trade last night when it met in Bellevue Borough Hall.

Benjamin Moore, retiring president, was presented with a traveling bag.

ORCHESTRA PLANS -:- THREE SUNDAY CONCERTS

MARGERY MAXWELL

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, victor in "blue law" litigation, announces that it will give Sunday concerts on February 26, March 25 and April 22. Three hundred memberships are still available. Eugene Goosens will conduct the first performance and Margery Maxwell, Chicago opera soprano, will be soloist.



MORITZ ROSENTHAL

A world famous pianist, Moritz Rosenthal, will be soloist at the final concert. Richard Hageman, formerly with Metropolitan and Chicago Opera, will conduct.

MARGARET MATZENAUER

Margaret Matzenauer, leading contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be the soloist at the second concert, and Elias Breeskin will direct the orchestra. Tickets for the series, in five classes, may be obtained by enrolling in the society, whose headquarters are in Room 423, Bakewell Building.

PICKETS BEAT WRONG MAN

CANONSBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—Mistaken for a non-union miner, Martin Dickson, 57, a night watchman, was beaten early today by six men, whom he says were union pickets. Dickson was on his way home from work when, in Adams street, the men jumped on him and pounded him with their fists, apparently mistaking him for a worker at the Chartiers Coal Company mine, operating non-union.

CHURCH BURGLARS' EFFORTS WASTED

Burglars who entered the Fifth United Presbyterian Church, Irwin avenue and Creedmore street, failed to get money and passed up some silverware. Four locks were broken.

FRANKLIN BAKER'S TRADE HALTED BY RUSH FOR JOB

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 14.—Business was a total loss for an hour at a local bakery which advertised for a truck driver to apply in person. One hundred men answered the "ad" and crowded around the doors of the bakery to such an extent that patrons couldn't get in to make purchases.

IDENTIFY GIRL FOUND DAZED

Lillian Carson, 17, who was found in a dazed condition in Bryn Mawr avenue early yesterday, was identified in Montefiore Hospital today as a Sharon girl who had disappeared from her home February 14. The identification was made by telephone by Police Chief C. B. Steber, of Sharon. Dr. C. H. Pelton, superintendent of the hospital, said the identification had been definitely established, but he refused to go into further detail regarding the girl.

ARMED BANDIT ROBS EMPLOYE OF GARAGE

Held up by an armed bandit last night, F. R. Wilson, an employe of the O'Connell Auto Service Company, 6343 Penn avenue, was robbed of $55.

DRUG PATIENT, BALTIMORE GIRL

Gloria Sigman, 23, who since her collapse in a downtown street several weeks ago, has been a patient at St. Francis Hospital under treatment for a drug habit, yesterday was identified as Ruby Gardner, of Baltimore, a former dancer and actress, city detectives say.

When arraigned in Morals Court, the young woman asked that she be known as only Mary Martin, a college girl who had innocently developed the drug habit and then had been deserted by a movie actor with whom she had fallen in love.

Her story won her the sympathy of Magistrate A. D. Brandon who sent her to the hospital at the city's expense. Photographs of the young woman were sent to Baltimore police by the local sleuths.

TO TEST SANITY OF WELSH

Lester Welsh, slayer of his common-law wife, Anna Exline, who is now under sentence of death, will be examined by an alienist, Judge J. M. Swearingen, in court, ruled today. Dr. C. C. Wholey was named by the court to examine Welsh, who is under sentence to die during the week of February 20, on petition of Attorneys M. Paul Scollins and W. H. Coleman.

POLICE SHOTS ROUT ROBBERS

Two men on a ladder, attempting to force open a window in a North Side building, were the target of Patrolman Robert Foster this morning.

Patroling an alley in the rear of East Ohio street, the officer found two men attempting to open a window of the Northern Light Company, 219 East Ohio street. He opened fire and the men jumped from the ladder and ran. Although the patrolman emptied his revolver there was no evidence that he had hit either of the robbers.

ST. MARY'S SODALITY TO PRESENT PLAY

HELEN HOBSON, EDITH WALKER

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Mary of the Mount Church, Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington, will present "Sally and Company," a comedy in three acts, Friday night, February 17, in St. Mary's auditorium, 700 Webster avenue. Helen Hobson and Edith Walker are two members of the cast.

JAMES RAINEY, INEZ MADDEN

The performance will be staged and directed by Miss Mae Sweeney, and will be given for the benefit of St. Mary's home for working girls, 700 Webster avenue. The picture shows James Rainey and Inez Madden.

MARY WALSH

In the lead role is Mary Walsh, as "Sally," a milliner. The setting of the play is the hat shop conducted by "Sally." As a milliner "Sally" finds troubles other than making her company a success.

RUTH M'FADDEN MARY RAINEY HELEN HOBSON

The cast is composed of 14. The ladies of the Sodality borrowed five young men to help fill the cast of "Sally and Company." The performance was given Sunday afternoon to the school children. In the picture are Ruth McFadden, Helen Hobson and Mary Rainey.

MURRAY DEFENDS STRIKE BEFORE HUNGRY CLUB

U. S. REPORTS CITED TO AID CLAIMS

Facing an audience composed largely of employers and containing executive officers and directors of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation annd other operators, Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, defended the strike yesterday in an address before the Hungry Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel with an eloquence that created a profound impression. He talked for more than an hour and when he had finished was warmly applauded. Six hundred persons attended, and such was the interest in the address that to make sure of obtaining seats many came to the luncheon a half hour before the appointed time.

Murray's address was in its essentials the same that he delivered before the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate last week, and that led that body to recommend an immediate investigation of the strike. Apropos of the pending inquiry, Murray remarked that the operators who refused to attend the conference called by Secretary of Labor Davis last December were now confronted with the prospect of havinng to present their views in answer to a subpena.

ARRAIGNS OPERATORS

He vigorously arraigned the operators for staying away from the conference.

"Vice President Lesher of the Pittsburgh Coal Company," he cried, "slapped the government of the United States in the face when he said in a telegram to Secretary Davis that there was no trouble in its mines."

Lesher was sitting not far from Murray as he spoke.

Another of the union leader's astounding statements was that "the operators have no more use for each other than they have for the mine workers' union." There is no cohession among them, said Murray, no leadership.

He said that in Washington last week he asked Senator Copeland, author of a resolution authorizing coal operators to form associations to co-operate in marketing, pooling and distributing their product, what support he had received from the operators, and Copeland answered he had received none.

OPERATORS AT ODDS

Murray discussed at length the contention of the operators that they cannot pay the wages demanded by the union because they could not then compete with the non-union Southern mines. He said that at a conference of miners and operators last February, Frank Taplin, who holds the controlling interest in the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, said to him:

"Mr. Murray, I'm not so much afraid of Southern competition. I could pay the wages you ask if my principal competitor, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, would do so."

Murray presented a mass of statistics indicating that in 1926 the Pittsburgh Coal Company, paying wages from $1 to $2 a day below the union scale, lost $4,600,000, while the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, paying union wages the same year, had a profit of $362,000, or a return of about 7½ per cent on its investment.

Murray contended that union miners, by reason of their superior efficiency and steadiness, made for lower operating costs than unskilled and unreliable strikebreakers.

Citing Department of Labor statistics as his authority, the union leader asserted that the average gross earnings of bituminous coal miners in Pennsylvania in 1926 were $1,284 and their net earnings, after deduction of the cost of their tools and blasting powder, were $1,184.

"That's the kind of wage," he said, "that these men and women in the barracks in your hills and valleys are striking for. I don't know of any outstanding economist that will contend that that is an unreasonably high wage on which to feed, clothe and educate a family of children."

He said that at the present wage rate the annual income would average about $750 a year.

"Isn't there any other solution," he asked, "than that of pauperizing the men who must get the coal out of the mines and lowering the standard of their women and children to one of absolute degradation?"

WAGE CUT NO HELP

Murray argued from the example of the British coal industry that wage reduction would not help the operators to meet competition. In 1921, he said, the British operators declared the only way in which they could recover markets that were being taken from them by German, French, Silesian and Czech competitors was by cutting wages. They assured the miners that if they would take a cut they would have greater continuity of employment and in the long run higher wages. The miners took the cut, and since then have had to accept seven other reductions, and today they are getting no more employment than in 1921 and their annual earnings have been reduced about 65 per cent. The British mine owners have conceded, said Murray, that wage reduction was the wrong remedy and that some other cure was needed.

He told of the wage reductions of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation since severing relations with the union, and of the losses they had suffered.

Murray went at length into the matter of crimes resulting from the strike. He asserted that notwithstanding that hundreds of union miners and their wives had been committed to jail on summary conviction by justices of the peace "subsidized by the coal companies," the Common Pleas Court, on an appeal being taken, had not sustained a single conviction, whereas not a few coal and iron police, according to Murray, have been convicted in the Common Pleas Court. He gave details of a number of revolting crimes of which he said coal and iron police and strikebreakers had been guilty, and renewed his charge that the coal companies permit disorderly houses and speakeasies to be maintained in their camps.

RAILROADS DEPRESS PRICES

Murray said that the great railroads of the country, particularly the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio, had sought to depress coal prices, and that W. G. Warden, chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, told John L. Lewis, international president, and Thomas Kennedy, international secretary, of the United Mine Workers of America, at a conference in Washington in July, 1925, that if that company had to reduce wages it would be because of the pressure exerted by the railroads.

At the conclusion of his address, a number of questions were asked Murray. One of the questioners was Joseph Vitchestain, editor of the Labor Tribune, who wanted to know if Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, had not adopted a policy in operating the Brotherhood's mines that was in conflict with the union's demands. Murray answered with considerable heat that the Brotherhood repudiated Stone's stand and rebuked him for it.

Another questioner wanted to know if it would not be desirable to unionize the Southern West Virginia mines. Murray answered that it would, but that a Federal injunction stood in the way. He recited a number of striking examples of the way in which injunctions tie the hands of the union.

Murray's address was the third in a series on the coal strike that have been delivered before the Hungry Club. Prof. Colston E. Warne spoke on the strike from the human standpoint and Templeton Smith on the strike from the operator's standpoint. Murray incidentally paid a tribute to Smith, whom he said he held in high regard.

The fourth and last address of the series will be the report on the strike now being prepared by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ. When it is completed it will be made public from the Hungry Club's rostrum.

TRAIN PILES UP AT ACMETONIA

Seven freight cars were strewn about the river bank at Acmetonia yesterday when a wheel broke, wrecking the train. Eastbound and westbound tracks were torn up for more than 100 feet and traffic was tied up for more than two hours. The cars contained produce and merchandise and hundreds of striking miners and their families, many of whom are suffering from hunger, looked on with hopeful faces while the food was transferred to other cars.

CITES MINE RELIEF AS SOCIAL WORK EXAMPLE

The present miners' relief program was offered as an example of the value of professional social work by Dr. E. N. Clopper, of the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies, in his speech to the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers in the Young Women's Christian Association last night. Wilbur F. Maxwell, of the Committee of Fifty, also spoke.

FREED IN MICHIGAN, HE FACES DOPE TERM HERE

Paroled from the Michigan State Penitentiary after serving 20 months of a five-year sentence for violating a state drug law, Isey Cohen, alias Harry Lewis, 39, was brought to Pittsburgh today by Deputy Marshal H. E. Matthews to answer a federal charge of selling and possessing narcotics. Cohen was indicted here in January, 1924.

TWO INJURED AT MOSQUE

Two men were hurt near Syria Mosque last night, one when hit by an automobile while directing traffic in front of the auditorium and the other when a piece of scenery fell upon him back stage. The injured are Traffic Policeman George Jantz, 25, and Addison McKinnan, 25, 269 Woodruff street.

McKinnan suffered a fractured left leg and hip when pinned under a section of scenery. He was removed to the Mercy Hospital. Jantz was cut and bruised on the head and shoulders. He was treated at the Homeopathic Hospital.

UNABLE TO WORK TWENTY WEEKS

Local Man Back on Job, After Using Ten Herbs; "Looks Like a New Man."

"My husband suffered so much with his stomach that he lost 15 pounds; was down in bed for quite awhile, and could not work for 20 weeks, but after taking Ten Herbs, he is back on the job, and looks like a new man," was the statement of Mrs. Elizabeth Heil, a popular lady, who lives at 200 Chestnut Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "Nearly everything he ate would upset his stomach," Mrs. Heil continued. "Food would sour, and seemed to fill his stomach with gas and acid. A hot, sour liquid would arise in his throat and choke him. At times, he would suffer with such severe gas spells at night that he would have to walk the floor. He was so constipated sometimes he would go for days without relief.

MRS. ELIZABETH HEIL

"He tried about every kind of medicine he knew about, but nothing helped him, excepting Ten Herbs. It proved to be just what he needed, and he improved rapidly. His appetite is good, and he can eat almost anything without suffering afterwards. He is not bothered with gas or acid in his stomach, and has gained in weight and strength. We recommend Ten Herbs to all who are suffering as he did."

Many others in this section are praising Ten Herbs. They say it gives surprising results in relieving disorders of the stomach and liver, such as gas, bloating, sourness, belching sour liquid or bits of food, burning or heavy feeling in stomach, heart palpitation due to gas pressure, loss of appetite, inability to sleep, biliousness, dizziness, sallow complexion, spots before the eyes, and tired feeling. Ten Herbs also benefits the kidneys and regulates the bowels. It gives the system a thorough cleansing, eliminating poisonous waste matter and impurities, which may be the cause of much suffering you cannot understand.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

MEASURED ROAD BY HAY LOADS

A lot of old timers who testified in the equity suit of the Port Vue borough against the "P. Mickey" railroad yesterday used old time methods in designating distances. Hay loads determined width.

Back in the '50s the old River road was located by the township out of which Port Vue was created. Later came the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad, shortened to P. Mickey from the P. McK & Y. First it had one, then two tracks, but about 1901 it began to blossom and now the two tracks have become seven paralleling the River road and, it is charged, the township road has suffered.

Borough witnesses before Judge Elder W. Marshall included a number of old timers, who remembered when the road was wide enough for two loaded hay wagons. Now a couple of flivvers would have trouble passing. The borough wants the road restored.

OPEN LUTHERAN CONFERENCE

Delegates from 700 Lutheran congregations throughout the country met in Fort Pitt Hotel today for the nineteenth annual conference of the men's missionary movement.

The Rev. S. C. Michelfelder, head of the Lutheran Inner-Mission Society of Pittsburgh district and chairman of the local arrangements committee, presided at the opening conference. The Rev. C. F. Lauer, president, Pittsburgh Conference, extended greetings to delegates, while the Rev. Charles Pflueger, Columbus, O., opened the conference discussion with a talk on "John's Passion for Souls."

The Rev. W. A. Poovey, Dayton, O., spoke on "Organizing the Congregation for Winning Men," in which he declared that the modern church must be conducted on an efficient basis as in a commercial organization if the interest of men would be maintained. Preaching alone, he said, will not hold the masses, so the church must provide channels to express the social as well as spiritual instincts of man. The delegates will meet at dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight.

FALL INJURES POLICEMAN

Joseph L. Richards, 60, 1412 Buena Vista street, toymaker and Christmas tree decorator, when not guarding prisoners in the Woods Run patrol, is a patient in Presbyterian Hospital. Last night, in his home he tripped on a rubber mat and fell down stairs, suffering a probable fracture of the skull and a broken nose. He has been on the police force 25 years.

2 PITTSBURGH WOMEN HURT

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Feb. 14.—Two Pittsburgh women were injured when their auto crashed into a pole, striking a pedestrian, at Cheswick last night.

Mrs. Fred Dorow, 36, of 7136 Hamilton avenue, and Mrs. Marie Vainter, 42, of 609 Lowell street, Pittsburgh, received contusions and David Foster, 40, suffered lacerations. All are in Citizens General Hospital and a charge of reckless driving has been brought against Mrs. Dorow.

PROBE DEATH OF EAST END FLORIST

A probe was under way last night by county detectives to determine the manner in which Douglas James, a florist, of 7937 Tioga street met death. Unconscious and internally hurt, James was found lying in the Lincoln highway near East McKeesport Sunday afternoon.

James was taken to the McKeesport Hospital where he died last night. An autopsy performed by Dr. C. A. Rankin, coroner's physician, disclosed that James had died of peritonitis. An examination of the body left doubt as to whether James had been struck by a hit-run automobile driver, as first believed, or had been beaten. Following findings of the autopsy, Morgue Superintendent John Black notified county detectives.

MAN TROLLEY HIT-DIES

Steffen Pelowski, 52, also known as John Smith, address unknown, was fatally injured last night when hit by an East Liberty express car in Liberty avenue near Twenty-eighth street. He died in St. Francis Hospital early today from shock following fractures of both legs. Motorman J. D. Morman was in charge of the car. No arrests were made, the accident being unavoidable, police say.

Meet Finta, the Sculptor Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow and Thursday, Alexander Finta, world-famous Hungarian sculptor, and Mrs. Finta, likewise a notable artist, will be the guests of Gimbel Brothers and will meet the clients of this store.

The Fintas will bring with them many of their own original works . . . statues, paintings and batiks. Likewise they will bring the "Finta" signed scarfs to which they are devoting themselves now and then as time permits. Meet the man who said, "Art is a labor of love," and who is trying to bring more of art into the things of every-day use.

5 HURT IN AUTO COLLISIONS; 3 CARS CRASH

In a crash of automobiles at Liberty avenue and Cedarville street at 7:15 o'clock this morning, Alexander Liggett, 35, of 1022 Lawndale street, Wilkinsburg, suffered a broken right arm. Liggett, a passenger in the car of C. J. Lentz, 148 Parkview avenue, Edgeworth, received the full force of the impact when the car of John L. Adams, 1836 Morningside avenue, crashed into the side of the Lentz car as Adams turned into Liberty avenue. Liggett was taken to West Penn Hospital. Both cars were damaged.

An automobile driven by Mrs. E. Baubach, of 312 Dennison avenue, one of three machines figuring in a spectacular smash-up in Baum boulevard, near Millvale street, this morning, jumped over the curb and crashed through a plate glass window of an automobile showroom.

A second car, driven by Albert Wehrheim, of 723½ Bryn Mawr road, struck a third car in the mix-up, turned over and was badly wrecked. E. L. Taylor, of 5420 Kinkaid street, was owner of the other car wrecked. No one was injured. J. P. Farris, of the Studebaker sales force, was standing just inside the plate glass window when the car crashed through it.

HITS STREET CAR

Michael Doyle, 62, of 3113 Niagara street, driving an auto, crashed head on with a street car at Forbes street and Coltart square at 6 o'clock this morning, due to slippery streets. He is in Homeopathic Hospital with a probable fracture of the skull.

Fred Thomas, 45, of 4840 Sullivan street, about to board a street car at Penn avenue and North Mathilda street at 7 o'clock this morning, was run down by a hit-and-run driver. He suffered a broken left leg.

Richard Graff, 8, of 1103 Madison avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Gustav E. Englehardt, 25, of Ridgewood avenue, in East Lacock street.

Louis Loveland, 7, of 2602 Sarah street, suffered a fractured foot yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Stanley Brazen, Sarah street, in Sarah street, near South Twenty-second street.

When the ladder truck on which he was riding struck a pole in East Ohio street, near Herrs Island Bridge, while answering an alarm yesterday, Joseph E. Crumrie, a fireman of Engine Company No. 42, suffered internal injuries. He was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital.

APPOINT RECEIVER FOR CHESWICK MARBLE CO.

John A. Sharp was appointed temporary receiver of the Pennsylvania Marble and Mosaic Company, at Cheswick, by Judge Richard W. Martin in Common Pleas Court yesterday. The appointment of a receiver was asked by Attorney Maurice Chaitken on behalf of the River, Sand and Supply Company, also of Cheswick, who said that the Pennsylvania company was entirely solvent, but that it needed protection during temporary difficulties.

SENT TO WORKHOUSE FOR ATTACK ON TWO GIRLS

NEW TEA ROOM AND SODA FOUNTAIN NOW OPEN

VOTE MACHINES CALLED URGENT REFORM

The voting machine amendment will do more good than any other single election reform, Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, representing the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, told the Pennsylvania Elections Commission at a hearing today in the Bar Association rooms, City-County Building.

Mrs. Lawrence, the first witness, advanced as models for the investigators the series of election reform laws devised by the Committee of 76, appointed by Gifford Pinchot when he was governor.

"At the special session of 1926 these bills were not considered on their merits," she said. "The members were mad at the Governor and took it out on the election measures. I think that was rather childish."

The commission's attention was called by Mrs. Lawrence to the advisability of a law to abolish watchers and all other poll workers paid by candidates and to leave only overseers appointed by the courts and paid by the county to perform watchers' duties.

"Mrs. Lawrence is absolutely right in that," remarked Edwin W. Smith, Pittsburgh member of the commission.

Mrs. Lawrence also suggested legislation removing all tax qualifications for voters, strengthening the laws limiting assistance to voters, permitting overseers to be residents of other districts than the one in which they are to work and limiting campaign expenses. Questioned, she suggested 10 cents per voter as the financial limit.

HUMES CREATES SURPRISE

E. Lowry Humes, appearing as a representative of the Bar Association committee appointed to investigate frauds at the September primary, created a surprise by declaring that the direct election of United States senators removed the Senate as a stabilizing influence in government. He said that, as a result, there is a want of stability in Congress.

"And the membership of the Senate has deteriorated?" asked Senator Horace W. Schantz, chairman of the commission.

"That is not for me to judge."

Mr. Humes suggested that the primary law be amended by providing state party conventions of an advisory nature only and that certain local offices should be taken entirely from the realm of partisan politics. It is time, he suggested, that all public spirited citizens see that elections are fought on other issues than the spoils of office.

"Honest people in the congested districts of Pittsburgh are afraid of being framed by the police," he charged. "Dishonest people seeking to perpetuate their dishonesty are merely hostages to the authorities."

Reviewing the result of investigations into the last primary, he charged that corruption is rampant here and is moving from the congested to the residential districts.

"There are laws against all the offenses you named," said Schantz. "The Legislature cannot help it if you people cannot enforce the laws you have. We are concerned only with the adoption of new laws where present ones are inadequate."

ASKS RE-APPORTIONING

A new re-apportionment of the congressional and legislative districts of the state was urged by Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters. Mrs. Miller especially asked a change in the Thirty-fifth Congressional District, declaring that it is not contiguous as required by law, the East End wards being separated from the South Side wards in the district by the Fifteenth Ward, which is in another district. Legislative apportionment here, she said, is unequal, citing as an example that the First District, with 73,000 population, has two representatives, while the Fifth, with 76,000 population, has only one.

Assistance to voters, declared Mrs. Miller, should be restricted to persons blind in both eyes or having no hands, thus being unable to mark their ballot. Senator Schantz and former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown objected to that as being equivalent to an educational qualification.

H. K. Siebeneck, Mrs. Ida L. Allen, Ralph S. Botts, of the Civic Club; R. E. Zuker, A. M. Thompson, of the Allegheny County Elections Association; Representative D. Glenn Moore, J. A. Powell and Senator Frank J. Harris were others who appeared before the commission. The last-named said the only real remedy was "to send members to the House and Senate favorable to these bills," referring to the various reform propositions advanced.

ATTORNEY ADDRESSES CREDIT MEN'S MEET

Where a railroad employe admits he owes a debt and refuses to pay it, certain railroads will not keep such a man in their employ, Attorney Emanuel Amdur said last night in addressing members of the Retail Credit Men's Association in the Roosevelt Hotel. He said railroads figure that if an employe cannot be honest with creditors, they cannot be honest with them.

Unusual Fabrics in New Coats for Misses

Spirited coatings from French weavers, in modernistic and bordered effects, and American coatings of unusual smartness, are presented in these Wear Weave service coats which are suited to first spring days.

They come in tones of beige, brown, gray and green; and have collars of fox, kit fox, caracul kid and wolf.

A point in attraction is the fact that there are but a few coats of any one kind, in the entire collection.

Women's Ensemble Suits

The new, long-coat ensemble suits offer much variety, in their tailored and semi-dressy effects.

They are of kashara, of wool georgette or of featherweight tweed. They have plain silk blouses, silk blouses in several shades combined, metal-threaded knitted blouses, and plain or figured silk dresses.

They are in the light shades of spring, and in navy blue and black. Sizes 34 to 44.

Prices are $59.50 to $175.00.

—Horne's, Second Floor—

Women's Chiffon Printed Frocks

For the "occasional" frock in the wardrobe, or to supersede afternoon dresses of solid color, a tinted sheer printed model is welcomed.

In the section of women's finer dresses, there are lovely models of chiffon or georgette printed in modernistic or flower designs, or of these fabrics combined with dyed lace. They show the fluttering movement of the moment in circular flounces, godets and draperies, and the dipped-to-the-back line in both waist and skirt.

Priced at $49.50 to $85.00.

A TRULY METROPOLITAN STORE

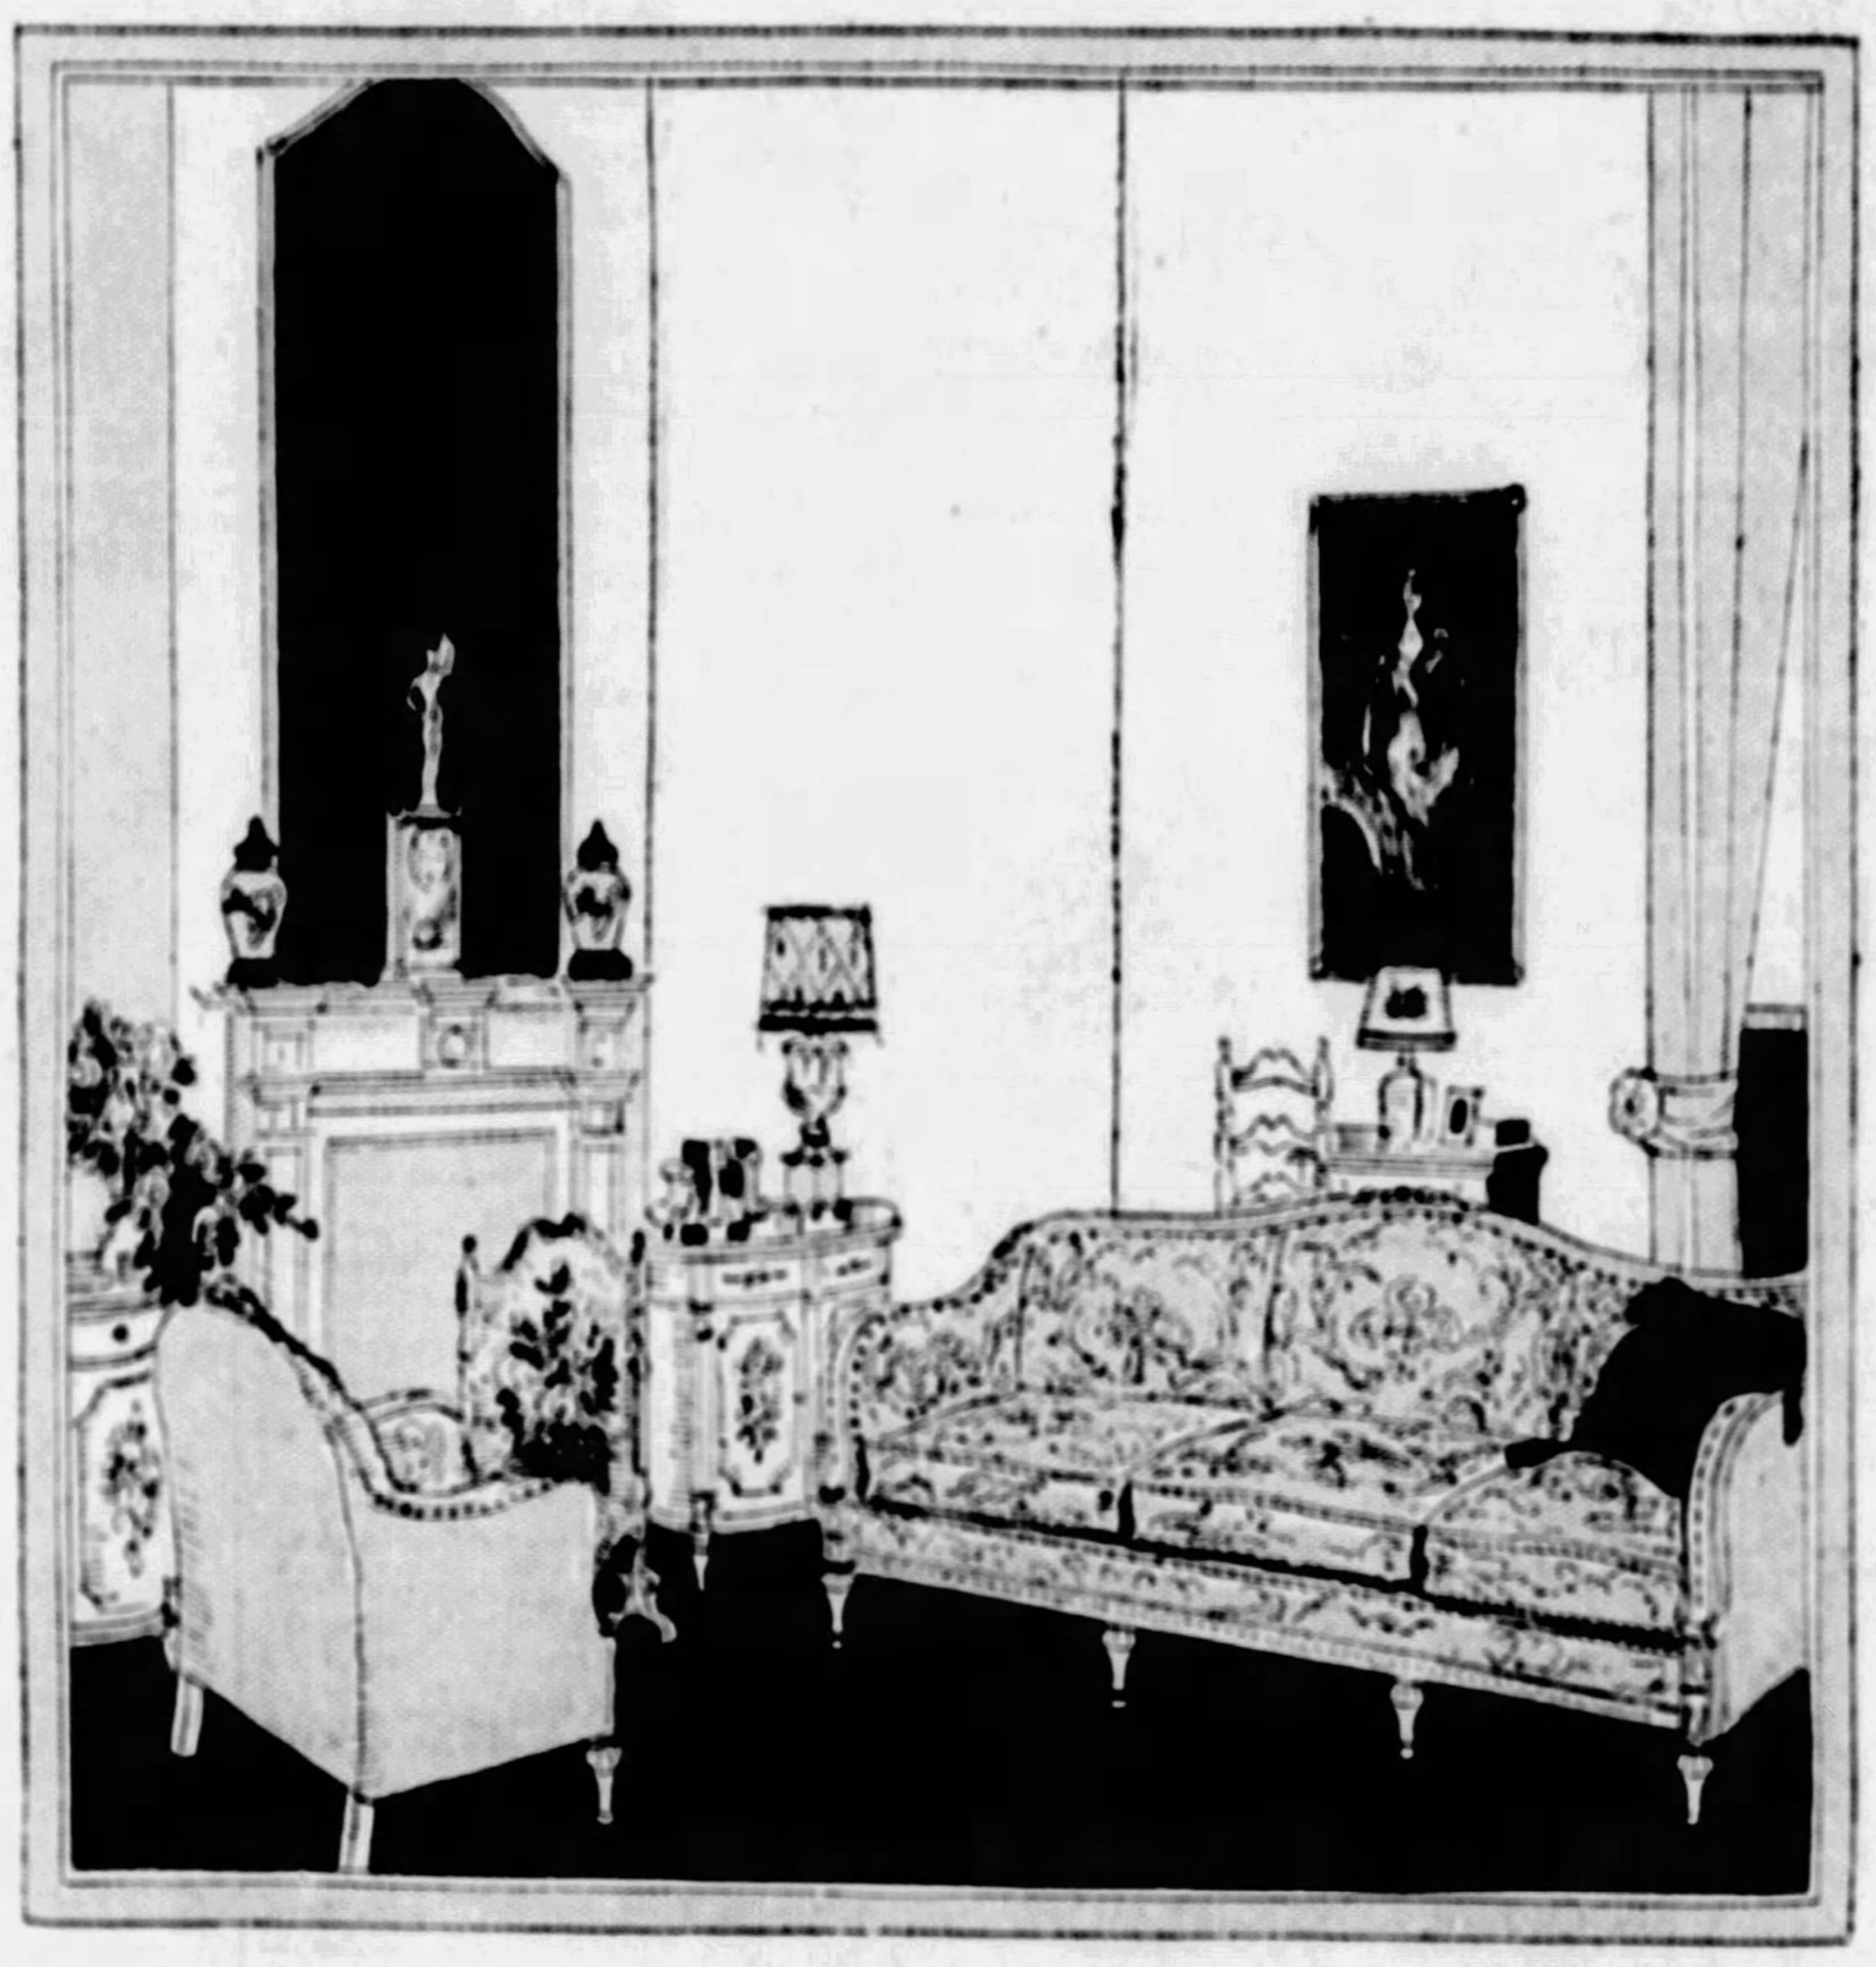
Living Room Furniture

—an Investment in Good Taste

For a room that is the center of your home life, where the family meets and your friends gather, it is particularly important that the furniture should reflect your good taste and sense of beauty.

This store was the first to sponsor two-piece living room suites instead of the cumbersome and monotonous three pieces. These two pieces are the basis of the living room furnishings.

The variety in these two-piece suites is sufficient to please almost every individual desire. The design and construction reflects the modern spirit and commends them to modern homes. Their February prices make them exceedingly interesting and attractive.



We can furnish your Living Room for as little as $210, with a well-built two-piece suite covered with mohair.

At $325 you may select a davenport and chair with carved mahogany frame, upholstered in taupe mohair.

At $475 the davenport and chair are upholstered in satin damask, with down-filled cushions. Carved frame with inlay.

At $875, a davenport and chair in semi-kidney shape, with heavily carved mahogany frame, covered in mohair frieze, with reverse of cushions in Italian velvet.

Other suites up to $950—special February prices.

The purchase of these suites or any furniture on our floor may be arranged in convenient payments out of income, if you desire.

—Horne's, Sixth Floor—

Little Girls' Silk Bloomer Frocks

Frocks of such dainty beauty that modern little maids will want two or three. 3 TRAPPED BY FIRE SLIDE DOWN BEDCLOTHES ROPE

2 DASH THROUGH SMOKE SCREEN ON STAIRS

Trapped on the second floor of a building at 146-48-50 Oakmont avenue, Oakmont, early today by fire raging on the first floor, three men escaped down a rope they made from bedclothing, secured to a bed and thrown out a rear window. A man and a woman in another second-floor apartment fled down a smoke-filled stairway.

The blaze started in the restaurant of Daniel Hall, at 146 Oakmont avenue, and quickly spread to the shoemaker shop of Charles Micelli and the grocery store of John Kaginas, adjoining.

Kaginas and two boarders were cut off from escape in an apartment over the restaurant, and slid down the improvised rope. Daniel Hall, Jr., and his wife hurried out before flames gained headway on their side of the building.

Oakmont firemen fought the blaze for two hours, saving only the skeleton of the structure. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Maine Memorial Service on Air Tomorrow

Remember the Maine! The thirtieth anniversary exercises in honor of the men who lost their lives when the Battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor, will be relayed over Station WCAE, through the Red Network of the National Broadcasting company, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The exercises will be held in Riding Hall, Fort Meyer, Va. Among the speakers will be Senor Don Rafael Altunaga of the Cuban embassy; Col. George F. Robins, assistant secretary of war, and Col. John Garrity, commander-in-chief, United States War Veterans. Miss Flora McGill Keefer, mezzo-contralto, will assist the United States Marine Band in the musical program.

OLD OFFENDERS SEIZED IN RAID

Two consistent offenders were arrested, according to prohibition agents, when a moonshine plant in a house at 1213 Montezuma street, East End, was raided early today.

Morris B. Blaustein, 35, has been taken as a bootlegger four times since August, and today's arrest boosted the total of Jacob Sokol, 32, to three in five months. The agents also arrested John A. Bodner, 33. The prisoners posted bonds for hearings.

GREENSBURG FIELD TO BE NAMED FOR HILL

GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 14.—Longview flying field, on the Lincoln highway east of Greensburg, will be renamed and dedicated to J. D. Hill, of Scottdale, former mail pilot, who lost his life in the ill-fated Old Glory on its attempted trans-Atlantic flight.

FATHER STANDS BY PITTSBURGH GIRL SLAYER

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 14.—The father of Doris Palmer McDonald, beautiful show girl, native Pittsburgher, sentenced to hang in Montreal for the murder of a cab driver, hasn't seen his daughter since she was 4 years old.

Lee Snyder, 40, traveling salesman for Semet Solvay Company, of Benwood, W. Va., located in his home here today, said that he had divorced Doris' mother 11 years ago and that the mother had remarried and moved to Chicago.

"I'll go to Quebec," Snyder said, "and use the last cent I have to help Doris."

Bond's say:—
"Goodbye Pittsburgh"

Men, here's the most sensational bit of news in today's papers. It marks the passing of an old Pittsburgh standby. It means the greatest crash in the retail history of this city.

This smashing blow hit us just as our entire stock of fine new Spring clothes was completed. That means that we're loaded to the muzzle with the most handsome selection we've ever had in our 15 years in Pittsburgh. We were all set for a great Spring season—but we must forget all about that.

Now—only one thing counts—SELL OUT and GET OUT. It's a bitter dose to swallow, so we are going to make it short.

We've torn the very heart out of prices. We've slashed right and left—we have gone the limit—that's the only way we can "get out from under" on schedule. We're going to give you bargains beyond all belief. WE MUST!

Closed today and tomorrow. The big smash starts Thursday morning at 9. Get in—get yours early.

Everything Must Go—
Then We Go, Too!

COUNTY BOARD CONTINUES TO BOOST PAY

The County Salary Board continued to boost salaries and today granted increases totaling $3,620.

James E. Routley, assistant chief clerk, commissioners' office, and Roy Walters, secretary to the chairman of the Board of Commissioners, were both given increases of $25 a month. Routley's salary was increased to $325 a month and Walters' to $275.

A $6,000 appropriation was authorized for overtime for Bureau of Elections clerks.

Employes in the register of wills office were given increases totaling $1,980, and 11 employes in the Weights and Measures Department were raised from $230 a month to $240 a month.

MINERS' UNION SETTLES SUIT

A private settlement of the rental and damage claims of the Inland Collieries Company against 106 evicted striking miners has been effected with United Mine Workers of America, it became known today.

The company had planned suit for back rent and damage inflicted on company houses by the striking miners before they were evicted.

By the terms of the settlement, it is understood, the mine officials have agreed to pay all back rent, but the damage claims have been dropped.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton let it be known that he had offered similar settlements to other companies that have claims against evicted miners.

RABBI GOLDMAN TO TALK ON ASSIMILATION OF JEWS

Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Cleveland will address a public meeting in the B'Nai Israel Synagogue tonight on "Is the Assimilation of the Jew Desirable?" Miss Gertrude Grossman will sing Jewish folk songs. Rabbi B. A. Lichter will be chairman. The lecture is under the auspices of the B'Nai Israel Men's Club.

ELRAMA BRAKEMAN, CRUSHED BY CAR, DIES

Sure Relief for Sore Throat

Quicker Than Gargling

Why suffer pain, soreness or discomfort while waiting for slow-acting gargles to give relief when a physician's prescription called Thoxine is guaranteed to relieve in 15 minutes? It acts on a new theory.

One swallow taken internally goes direct to the cause. Contains no chloroform, iron or other harmful drugs. Safe and pleasant for the whole family. Always ask for Thoxine—much better than gargles and patent medicines. 35c, 60c and $1.00. Sold under money-back guarantee of quick relief. At all druggists.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

To Mothers:* Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

CLEVELAND G. O. P. CHIEF BACKS HOOVER

CONFIDENT OF REPUBLICAN VICTORY

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Maurice Maschke, Republican national committeeman for Ohio, today threw his support definitely to Herbert Hoover as the party's candidate for President.

"The Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) party organization almost to a unit believed Hoover the strongest man the Republicans can select for the presidential nomination," Maschke declared.

"Personally I believe his nomination would most likely carry the party to victory here this coming fall, so I am going to support the Hoover candidacy."

Maschke's statement set at rest conjecture as to whether he would align himself with Hoover or Senator Frank B. Willis in the impending fight for the Ohio delegation to the national convention.

Maschke made it plain that he was speaking at this time for the county organization and himself, but not for the state organization. His position as national committeeman, however, gave his declaration significance.

"I have very little knowledge of the presidential conditions in the state," Maschke said. "I have heard little concerning either Hoover or Willis sentiment and have not as yet made a survey. Therefore, it would be impossible for me to predict whether the Secretary of Commerce or our own Senator has the edge at this time."

Maschke is the first national committeeman to express his view on the fight between Willis and Hoover, which was brought to a definite issue last week in Washington when the Secretary agreed to let his name be used as a candidate in forming the Ohio delegation to the national convention.

Will Says John D. To Shame Other Rich for U. S.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 14.—Young John D. issued such a straightforward statement Saturday that it didn't sound like a rich man at all. He is liable to shame some of these other big men into being for the country, and if he does, that will do more good than his gifts have.

Will Rogers

Hoover is formally into the race now; he is the only candidate in either party by acclamation. The others are candidates by personal desires. It will be interesting to see what kind of a race a known qualified man can make. This election will decide whether qualifications are an asset or a liability.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

GROCER THUG VICTIM

Backed to the rear of his store by two armed Negroes last night, John Wisoski, a grocer, of Kirkpatrick street and Webster avenue, was robbed of $150. City detectives and police of the Center avenue station were given descriptions of the hold-up men.

CASTLE SHANNON ASKS MORE VOTING DISTRICTS

Redistricting of the borough of Castle Shannon to provide additional election districts was asked in a petition of 29 residents presented yesterday in Quarter Sessions Court, and H. M. Stillen, R. L. Kelley and F. W. Cooke were appointed by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen as commissioners to investigate the propriety of the proposal. The borough has a population of 3,500 in its three districts, with 477 registered voters in the first district, 226 in the second and 473 in the third, making the districts too large, according to the petition.

TRANSFER FARMER, 61, ACCUSED BY GIRL, 15

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 14.—Charles Swogger, 61, prominent farmer of Transfer, is under arrest on a charge preferred by Mrs. Anna Matthews, of Sharon, on behalf of her 15-year-old daughter, Emma, who has lived at the Swogger residence during the last year. L. R. Rickard, former district attorney, retained by Swogger, said today that he will prove the charges were made to "frame" Swogger.

PITTSBURGHER PLEADS FOR TOLERANCE

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 14.—The largest crowd in the history of sisterhoods of Baltimore attended a lecture at Har Sainai Temple yesterday afternoon by Charles H. Joseph of Pittsburgh, nationally known syndicate writer. Mr. Joseph pleaded for the Jews as well as Christians to take inventory of themselves. He said:

"The world is suffering from an overdose of theology and a lack of religious nourishment. So long as life persists people will have differences. If the world would agree tomorrow on every disputed question, religious, economic and political, the following day they would have something new to differ about. The Jew's job is to carry on and make the best job of life that he can. There is no Jewish question any more than there is a Protestant question or a Catholic question. Every people has its troubles, and will have them as long as those people exist."

A luncheon was tendered Mr. Joseph by a group of Jews prominent in the civic, commercial and professional life of the city.

LOOT JEWELRY WINDOW

Six diamond rings and three stickpins, valued at $500 were stolen from the jewelry store of Theodore Frye, 409 Federal street, this morning, when a robber hurled a brick through a display window. A patrolman passed at 6 o'clock and 20 minutes later it was reported the window was broken, the thief evidently waiting until the officer had passed.

SUE OIL STOCKHOLDERS

PUSH CLAIM FOR BACK TAXES

W. A. Feltyberger, Charles J. Graham, H. S. Grayson, Norwood Johnston, of Pittsburgh, and J. W. Leonard, of Washington, Pa., principal stockholders of the former Riverside Western Oil Company, were named defendants in an action brought yesterday by United States District Attorney John D. Meyer in the Federal District Court, to collect additional corporation taxes of the oil company, before it was dissolved in September, 1919, and its assets sold to the Transcontinental Oil Company for $1,250,000.

The government in its bill of complaint asks that the defendants be made trustee of the fund distributed by the Riverside Oil Company and that they be asked to render an accounting of the money received from the Trancontinental company. The bill sets forth that in its corporation income tax return for 1918 the company paid a tax of $20,630.51, but in March, 1924, the collector of internal revenue, made an additional tax of $32,284.04. The bill also avers that the company paid taxes on a net income of $85,170.63 for the year 1919 and that the collector of internal revenue has found that the tax should have been on a net income of $216,310.05.

SLOT MACHINES ROBBED, SEIZED

After three East End women reported thefts of purses and someone robbed three slot machines at the alleys of the Squirrel Hill Bowling Association, 5844 Forward avenue, Lieut. David Fitzsimmons put on the finishing hard luck touch by confiscating the machines because the association had no license to operate them.

Miss W. C. Foster, 6712 Forbes street; Mrs. Olive McBoschert, 4 Alder court, and Miss Milded Pond, 3 Alder court, reported that while they were bowling yesterday afternoon their purses, lying on a bench, had been taken. Each contained a small sum of money.

Early today three confectionery slot machines in the place were broken up and the contents taken by thieves who had entered a door left unlocked.

Lieut. Fitzsimmons, investigating the robbers today, carted the machines to Squirrel Hill station.

ASK TOWN HALL BE VETERANS' MEMORIAL

Urging that the proposed Town Hall be erected as a memorial to veterans of all wars of the United States, the Veterans' Town Hall Committee asked the County Commissioners today to consider the name of Liberty Colosseum in honor of those who paid the supreme sacrifice.

The committee, represented by Dr. Carl E. McKee, Charles G. Lane, Jr., and William H. McNaughter, American Legion; R. O. Robinson, C. E. Daly and John E. Robinson, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Gilbert C. Cloonan, Robert L. Cain and James H. Ree, Spanish War Veterans, in a resolution asked the Commissioners to include adequate facilities for headquarters for the three veteran organizations when the building is constructed.

The Commissioners approved the idea. Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong believed that a name other than Liberty Colosseum should be selected. He said that a name honoring mothers of soldiers killed in conflicts should be selected. "The proposition is still far off and a bond issue must be prepared before a name is selected," Armstrong said. "There still is a lot of red tape to be unraveled, but I am for the memorial idea." The idea will be taken up at a Commissioner's meeting later.

WOMAN MEMBER ILL, JURY SPEEDS VERDICT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 14.—Four members of a jury consented to a "guilty" verdict at the trial of Constable Joseph Neil last November in order to permit a woman member of the jury, sick, to get to a physician. This was revealed in an appeal for a new trial, which yesterday was denied by Judges James I. Brownson and Erwin Cummins.

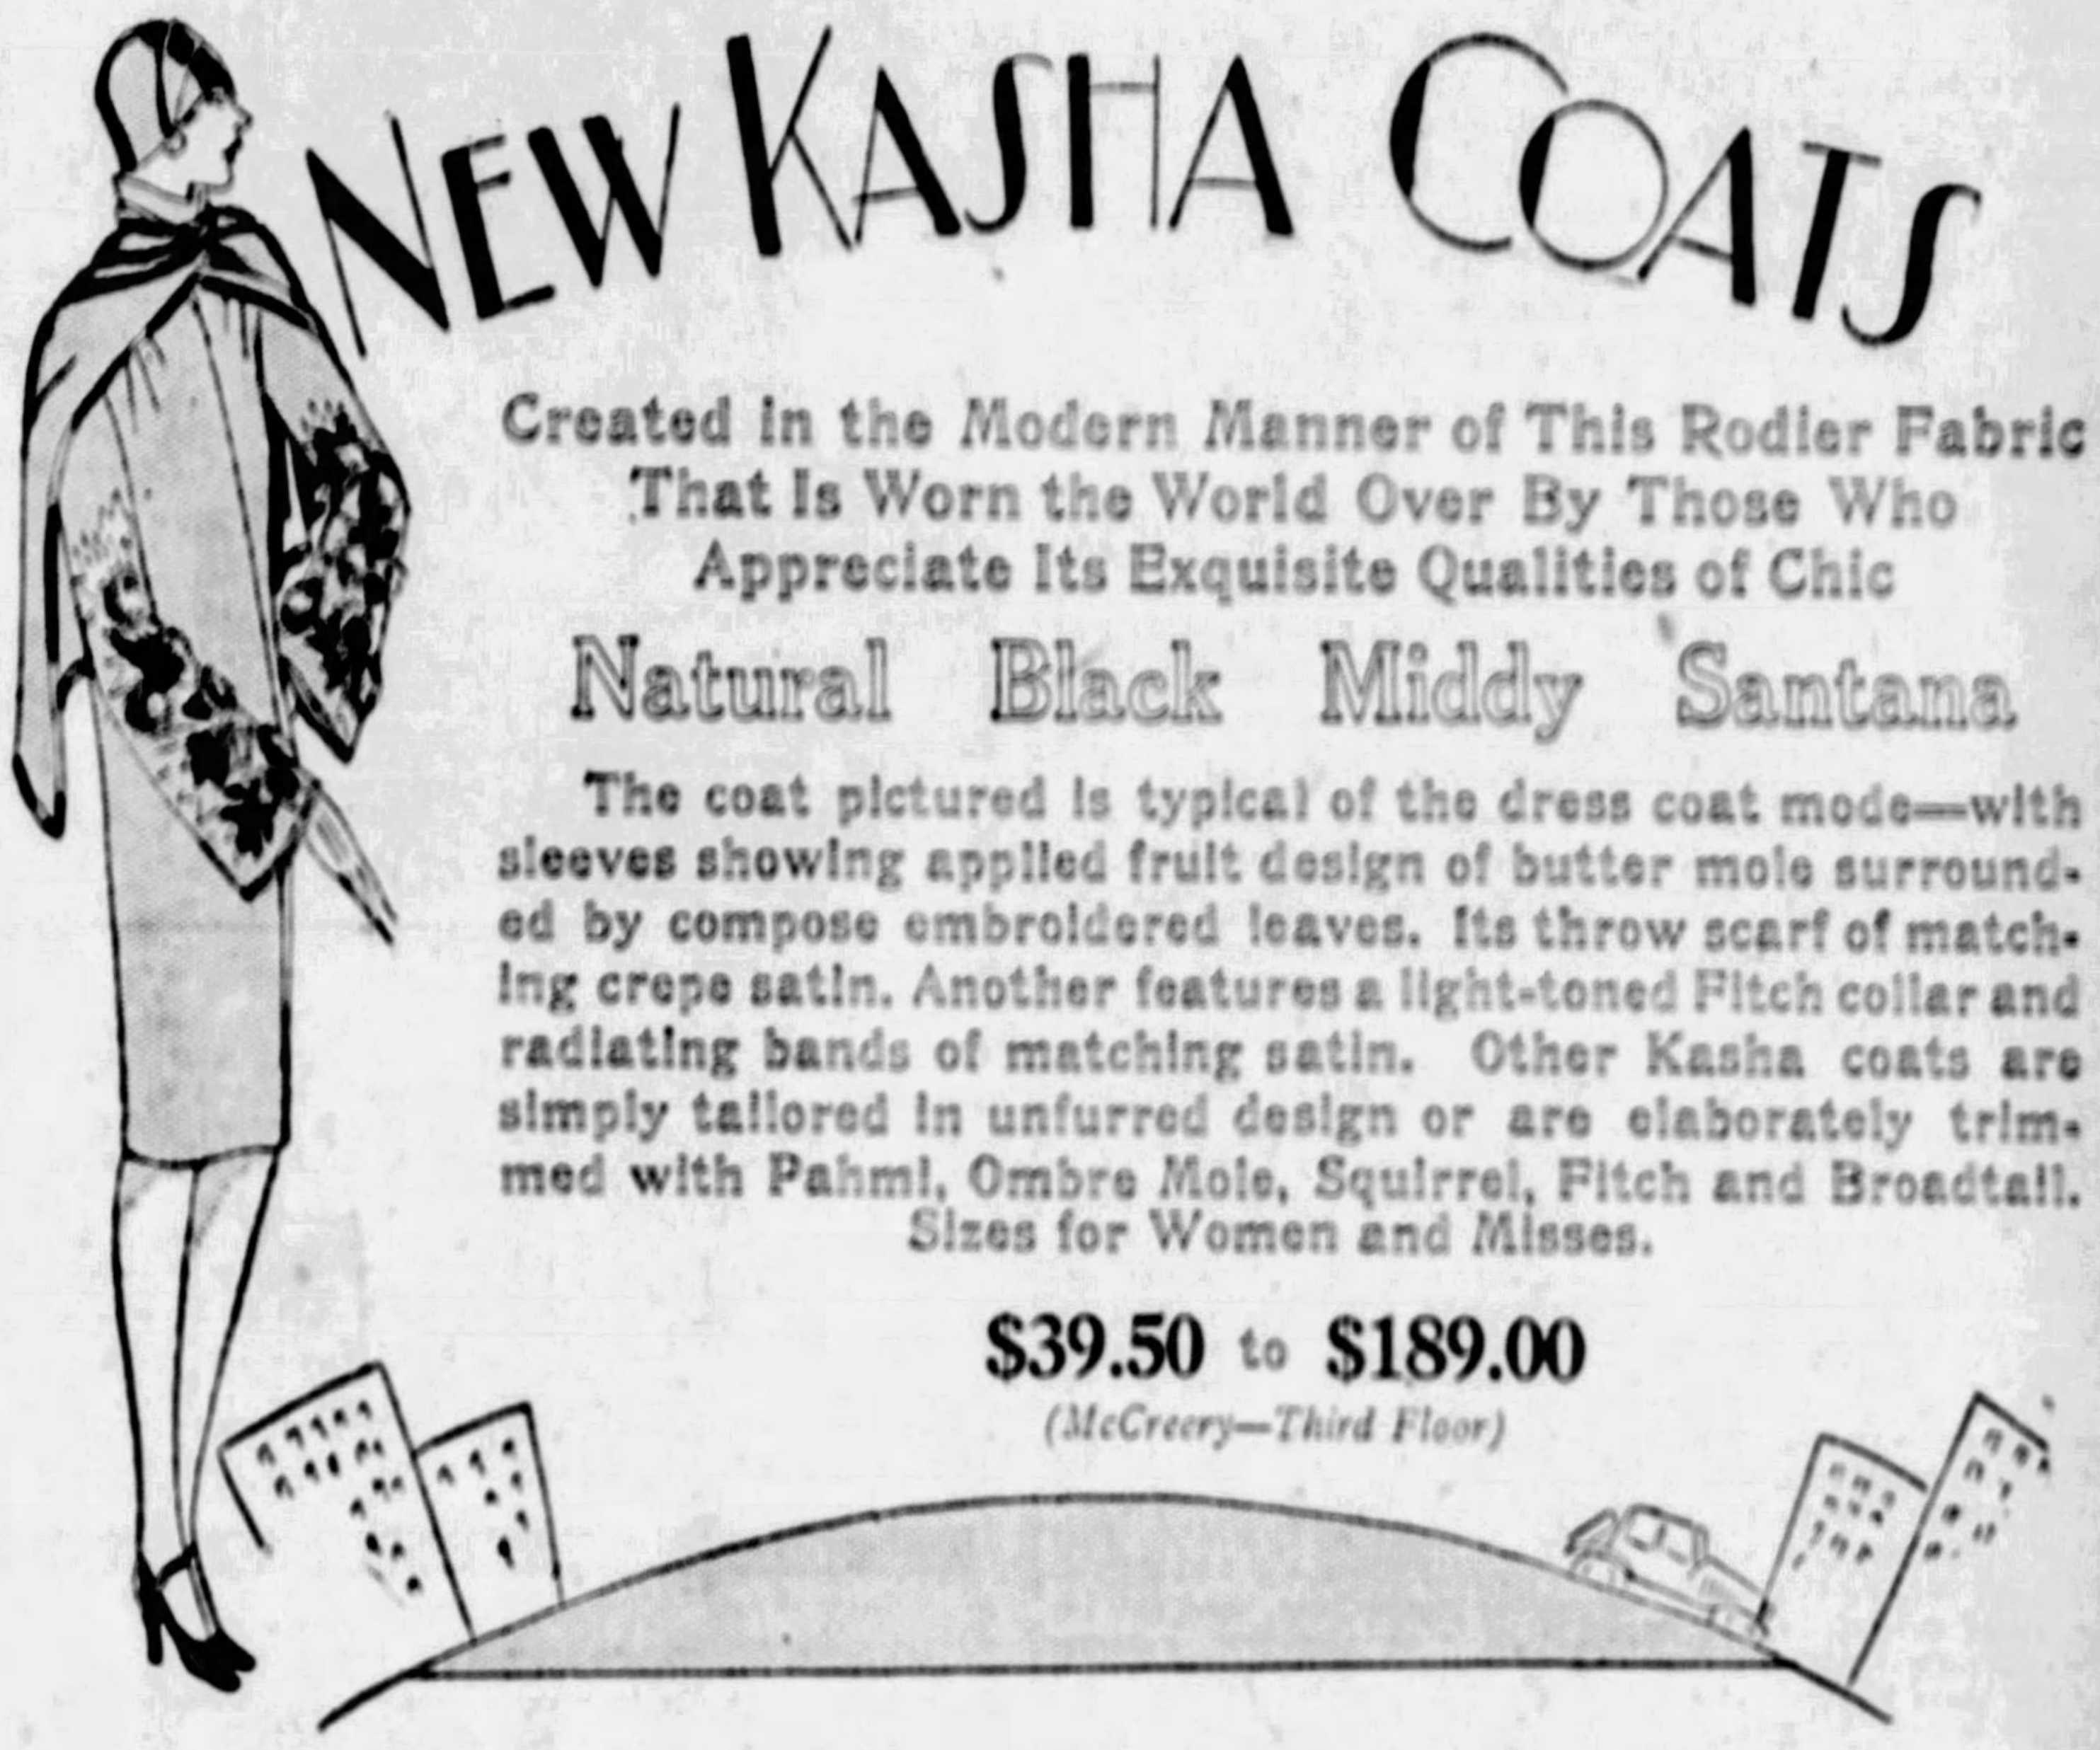
Like the hall-mark of fine silver or the seal of a celebrated perfume, the McCreery label has come to have a deep significance among the fashionables. McCreery stylists know that chic is a subtle quality, built into a garment from its inception — never superimposed upon it. The McCreery public know that every McCreery garment from the simplest travel coat to the most luxurious dinner frock has that elusive quality of chic. Madame and Mademoiselle are always proud to show the McCreery name woven in silk.

NEW KASHA COATS



Created in the Modern Manner of This Rodier Fabric That Is Worn the World Over By Those Who Appreciate Its Exquisite Qualities of Chic

Natural Black Middy Santana

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Spirit of St. Valentine Sends Romance Through Rain Clouds

ST. Valentine's Day may prove to be rainy—it certainly started out that way—but it is still a day of romance, and while the debutante no longer listens eagerly for the postman's whistle, she rather looks forward to visits from the florist's or confectioner's delivery boy. Wouldn't it be interesting to know just how many real romances had their beginnings today?

However, St. Valentine's Day or no St. Valentine's Day, the main idea in the heads of most society folks seems to be traveling. Now we hear that the Robert T. M. McCreadys are going to leave their lovely home, "Meadow Garden," in Edgeworth, and go west for a five or six weeks' stay. With them, of course, will go their two daughters, Margaret, who made her bow to society this winter, and her young sister, Rachel. They are leaving, I believe, on Friday, and are planning to go first to Los Angeles, and then to motor down through Southern California. Later, they expect to go north to Seattle for short visit.

From Miami Beach, Florida, comes word of a delightful party which Judge and Mrs. William Edward Walsh, who, you will remember, formerly lived in Pittsburgh, gave recently at the Flamingo. They had as their guests of honor Mr. and Mrs. Chrys H. K. Curtis, of Philadelphia, who have been spending some time cruising in southern waters on their yacht, "Lydonia." Among the others at the affair were the George E. Merricks, of Coral Gables; the J. E. Romphs, of New York and Miami, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bush, of Washington and Miami Beach. The Walshes seem to be permanently settled at Miami Beach.

The bridal party for a pretty wedding arranged for Thursday has just been made known. Elizabeth Maxwell, who is the daughter of Mrs. William McNair Maxwell, of Squirrel Hill, is to marry Robert G. Eckhardt, of Morewood avenue, in St. Andrew's Lutheran Church at 5:30 o'clock, and she has asked her sister, Mrs. Jacob Black Graham, to be her matron of honor. Margaret Louise Eckhardt and Mrs. Edwin Crawford Robinson are to be the bridesmaids. The best man will be Edgar C. Eckhardt, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers will be Dr. Jacob Black Graham, Carl Reger, James Irwin Martin and Edwin Crawford Robinson. The Rev. Dr. H. P. Eckhardt, who is the bridegroom's father, will perform the ceremony, which is to be followed by a dinner for just the two families. The rehearsal dinner was given last night in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association by the Edgar C. Eckhardts and quite a few other parties have been given recently for the prospective bride.

Miss Martha Elizabeth Cooper, of Coraopolis, entertained in her home Saturday with a bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Joseph Harper, of Dormont, who was Miss Florence Marguerite Beckert, of Coraopolis, before her marriage in December, and Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Roll, also of Coraopolis, whose engagement to H. Russell Weller, of Buffalo, was recently announced. The Roll-Weller wedding will take place early in March.

SAN ANTONIO CLUB TO FETE WOMAN LAWYER

By invitation of the San Antonio Club of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Edward Franklin White, Indianapolis lawyer and a candidate for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be in Pittsburgh on February 27. Mrs. Flora B. Bowden, president of the San Antonio group, is a personal friend of Mrs. White and it was through her the invitation was extended. Feeling that a comparatively small club, such as the San Antonio, could scarcely extend the proper hospitality to such a distinguished visitor, the members have asked the Congress of Clubs to co-operate, and Mrs. White is to be guest of honor at a dinner in the Congress clubhouse the night of the 27th. Mrs. White, who is, by the way, first vice president of the G. F. W. C., will be the guest for the day of Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, vice president-at-large of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and Mrs. Diehl will entertain at luncheon for her. Mrs. White is stopping in Pittsburgh en route from her home to Washington, where she will present to Congress her bill on a uniform marriage and divorce law, said to be the only bill ever submitted in itse entirety by the General Federation.

Plans for Mrs. White's visit will be furthered at a meeting of the San Antonio Club in the Congress on Friday afternoon.

By IRVIN S. COBB

"What's All the Shootin' About?"

"WHEN it comes to being nervous, Wall Street is the rabbit's nose. If, as has been alleged, it's the barometer of our national business, then the windflower of the wide prairies is the national emblem. • • •

"BUT why, just because there is to be a general vote on the first Tuesday after the first Monday of next November, should Main Street feel called upon to become frightened or even to get all hot and bothered?

"... Wall Street is merely a little deep gash in Manhattan's lower jaw where a bulk of money bides, and money, as we all know, is by instinct spinsterish and cowardly. Money looks under the bed every night for the bad bogy-man. Money pulls the coverlet over her timorous head and quivers when the evening air toys with the shutters. The more money there is, the more scared that money is. In mob psychology there is a perfect genius for senseless panics, yet in that regard money psychology has it beaten a mile.

"BUT Main Street is the country at large and the country at large is doing very well, thank you for asking, and from all prospects will keep right on doing the same no matter what happens, or fails to happen at the polls.

IRVIN COBB writes each month for Cosmopolitan. He has done so for years. He will do so for years to come. Because he, better than any other writer, typifies Cosmopolitan. Thoughtful, genially humorous, forcefully tragic, but always ranking among the best—his novels, short stories and articles are intended for, and addressed to the largest audience of intelligent readers in the world. These excerpts from his contribution to the March issue show exactly what we mean.

"... SHORTLY the two conventions will be held. There will be considerable straddling on the subject of farm relief; considerable backing and filling on the subject of taxation; considerable tight-rope walking on the subject of Prohibition. From the confusion two tickets will be projected forth; by that time Wall Street, to judge by past performances, will be practically in a state of total collapse.

"THEN will come Election Day and some slackers will stay at home or go hunting or, if the weather suits, go golfing, and the rest of us will stroll around to the garage or the barber shop or wherever the sacred temple of freedom has been erected, wearing upon our faces the somewhat sheepish and embarrassed look which most men and most women do wear when being examined for jury service or when trying to dance one of those new dances or when going to vote. We shall vote, and that night unless the result is very, very close, we'll know who the winners are, and in any event we'll know by next morning at breakfast time who they are. • • •

"NO matter who wins, our domestic affairs will doubtless continue to wag along about as usual and our international relations and policies—loud cries of "What are our international relations, anyhow?"—and "What d'ye mean, policies?"—will not seriously be affected. In other words, a business-minded people will go right on attending to their business. Then why, in the intervening and the now imminent campaign, should we permit the politicians to throw us entirely out of our stride?

"My guess is that, for this once, maybe we won't."

Four Alert Thinkers Discuss Subjects Uppermost in Their Minds

Emil Ludwig

—the biographer of Napoleon — tells why Gerhart Hauptmann is probably the supreme living dramatist. To reveal the soul of this man and the soul of his rare and beautiful work is a task that no man now writing could do as well as Ludwig has done.

Will Durant

gives a philosopher's answer to the question that has puzzled the ages—"Why Do You Thrill At Beauty?" Even where beauty was most honored and most produced—in ancient Greece—and down through the ages philosophers have sought to pierce the secret of its lure.

George A. Dorsey

—the author of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings"—tells "What Every Mother Should Know and WHY," treating the subject in such a sane and illuminating way that every woman—married or unmarried—will owe him a debt of gratitude.

G. K. Chesterton

who is never so happy as when he is hurling paradoxical brickbats, boasts he is obstinately orthodox, explains why you should be also, the while he entertainingly lambastes many modern notions on love, art, romance and youth, and merrily tears the new labels off old things.

A New Novel From Behind the Scenes in the Spirit World

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge and other eminent Britons have long tried to convince the world that communication with departed spirits can be, and has been, established. Now Sir Philip Gibbs writes a strange and fascinating new novel, "Darkened Rooms," in which a story of intense human interest is unfolded against a background of spiritistic trickery.

The First Short Story by George Ade in a Number of Years . . .

—and, believe us, it's worth waiting for. For, in "Making the Grade," Mr. Ade shows what three generations of wealth, blue blood, higher education and real estate can do to a human being. The story of an insufferable snob (you'll recognize the type) who was remodeled into something almost human by a clever young woman.

Other stories and features by Honoré Willsie Morrow, Rupert Hughes, Frederick R. Bechdolt, Katharine Brush, Ring W. Lardner, Virginia Dale, Nanette Kutner, Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, H. C. Witwer, E. Phillips Oppenheim, O. O. McIntyre, Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, James Schermerhorn, Richard V. Culter and Charles Dana Gibson. And, in addition to the new novel by Sir Philip Gibbs, three other serials by Adela Rogers St. Johns, Meredith Nicholson and Peter B. Kyne.

Mrs. William Ross is chairman of the valentine dance and card party party which the Woman's Club of Aspinwall will give tonight in the clubhouse. This is purely a social affair and is being given for the husbands and friends of members. Mrs. W. H. Reuter, Mrs. T. S. Dickey, Mrs. E. J. Yagle, Mrs. R. B. Bowden and Mrs. A. B. Corbin are also on the committee.

"Creative Chemistry," the science which, he said, is peculiarly a woman's science, was discussed by Dr. Edward E. Slosson, director of Science Service, before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. Synthetic fur, synthetic sausage cases, ivory, tortoise shell, amber, silk, wool and sugar were discussed by the speaker, who told how each was created in the chemical laboratory. The scientist is not a discoverer, he is an inventor, Dr. Slosson stated. A synthetic glass that is not brittle and will not lose its clear quality is now being sought, he stated. "Wild, tame and artificial" rubber was also talked of, Dr. Slosson saying synthetic rubber is another article being worked on, such an article as will make this country independent of England's rubber plantations.

A paper on "Historical Highways Leading Into Pittsburgh," by Mrs. Agnes K. Dayen, and Mrs. F. F. Rohrer's playet, "Old Pittsburgh Days," together with piano solos by Mrs. J. R. Smith, made up yesterday's program for the Swissvale Woman's Club. Mrs. H. E. Saunders and Mrs. John R. Dierst were hostesses and Mrs. J. F. Hammers was leader for the day.

At its meeting in the Edgeworth Club yesterday, the Woman's Club of Sewickley Valley heard Dr. Roswell H. Johnson describe conditions as he found them in Russia last summer. Dr. Johnson will head another party going to Russia this summer, the travelers going this time by way of Japan.

One of the most delightful affairs the Women's Press Club has ever had was the dinner and book party with which it celebrated its thirty-seventh anniversary in the Woman's City Club last night. It was a charmingly appointed affair with valentine favors and place cards and dainty floral decorations. The clever conceptions of book titles furnished the evening's entertainment and a prize was awarded Miss Bernice Shine for recognizing the greatest number. Miss Gertrude Gordon's representation of "An American Tragedy" (an empty gin bottle) was voted the cleverest, although a very beautiful and original representation of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" was done by Mrs. Florence Fisher Parry. Other books represented were "Tale of Two Cities," "Spangles," "Among Us Cats," "The Tiger in the House," "Lavendar and Old Lace," the telephone book, "The Last of the Mohicans," the Blue Book, "The Light That Failed," "The Dusty Answer," "The Show Boat" and others. Miss Helen Donnelly was chairman of dinner arrangements and Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh was editor-in-chief of "The Waste Basket," the club's biennial publication, which was a reminiscent number.

In place of Mrs. William W. Booth, who was unable to be present, her neighbor, Mrs. D. J. Walter, served as hostess for yesterday's meeting of the Monday Club of Carnegie in the Y. M. C. A. Under the leadership of Mrs. George McFarland, papers on "Notables of Norway" were given by Mrs. Bertha Galbraith, Mrs. T. W. Gray, Mrs. Jennie Henry and Mrs. J. C. Wilson. The musical program consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. W. H. Yourd and piano duets by Mrs. J. H. Sanford and Mrs. W. W. Andrews.

Franz Dorfmueller at the piano.

Sigrid Onegin, a contralto who has in three years grown to be our most favored singer, gave another astonishing recital in the Y. M. & W. H. A. auditorium last night. Not since the best days of Lehmann or Sembrich has any singer been able to give us that perfect marriage of voice and music as Onegin. Her opulent organ grows yearly richer; her interpretations are imbued with subtlest comedy or wildest tragedy; her programs display a musician of intelligence and fearless pioneering spirit.

There were the vigorous accents of Gluck and then the gentler strophes of Purcell and Dr. Arne; a stunt with the Chopin Impromptu I have waited a lifetime to hear; two songs of Hugo Wolf, the equal of any in German song literature, and two of Mahler, belabored music of Wolf and Franz Liszt combined; then finally an old French gem from a comic opera of the Eighteenth Century.

In DuMaurier's Trilby, a novel and play of artist life in Paris, the heroine, under the hypnotic influence of Svengali, sings the Chopin Impromptu. I was always naive enough to go to hear every Trilby, hoping some day she would sing the assigned composition; it always turned out to be Home Sweet Home, and sung off-stage at that. What Onegin did last night was not my idea of what Svengali commanded, but then Onegin's Svengali was a German professor. The song was a gorgeous stunt and only so great a singer could have accomplished it.

Wolf's Epiphanias is a travesty, a child's play of Three Wise Men. Here Onegin's gift for mimicry was so superb it was only with difficulty I could listen to the music, itself imbued with impudence yet droll humor. The breadth of her style in Gesang Weylas,' and the easy negotiating of such lengthy phrases as in the Mahler songs fairly left the audience breathless. Two fragrant Swiss folk songs given as encores showed how deeply this singer drinks in the life of the people. There was the Schubert Erlking also, a performance that no other singer in this generation has ever approached, the Mozart Alleluia, fervent to the last note, and, after all, that joyous Brindisi from Donizetti's Lucrezia Borgia that made every nerve tingle. We may be certain now that great singing is not passing, that there are disciples who believe in their art and labor for its perfection. Onegin is one of them.

Avoid Careless Eating and Delay the Undertaker's Call

"SINCE our wives have gone to work, we men are being fed out of brown paper parcels and cans. Scientists tell us that men are what they eat. What are we men going to become if our wives keep us on a delicatessen diet?"

This is a quotation from a book I read recently. It makes me think as well as smile.

Certainly there will never be a time when unsatisfactory substitutes for real food will replace honest victuals. We must have meat and potatoes, bread and butter, fresh vegetables and fruit. Brown paper parcels and cans cannot put old-fashioned foods out of business. Indeed, we mustn't permit the effort to be made.

There is a real place for the products we buy in paper bags and cans. But they must not be eaten to the exclusion of fresh foods.

It is quite necessary, if you would have vigorous health, clear skin and bright eyes, to make daily demands upon the garden and orchard. It is possible now to find in the markets, even of the smaller towns, a bountiful selection of fruits and vegetables.

In the country are found apples, winter pears, cabbages, carrots, turnips, celery and other fresh things. Oranges, grape fruit, grapes and other tropical or semi-tropical fruits are to be had in all cities.

Of course, splendid bread, meat products and other prepared foods can be purchased around the corner. The commercial canners and bakers have done wonders for humanity.

However, it is a great mistake to make a practice of living on "store foods" alone. At least twice a day you must sit down for an honest-to-goodness, well-cooked, hot meal.

The people who rush through the day's work, eating a sandwich or a doughnut from the hand at lunch time, not stopping for rest and refreshment, are not fooling the undertaker a particle. He will be on the job several years before he should be needed.

Nothing is more important to health than regularity at meals, menus which are regularly and systematically good. Have a set time for your meals, take time enough so you can eat leisurely. Make a pleasant ceremony of the meal.

I know men who are so busy making money that they have no time for deliberate eating. I have this comment to make—these men will never have the pleasure of spending the money. They will die prematurely.

To live long and to live happily demands the proper eating of correctly chosen foods. It will pay you to observe this rule.

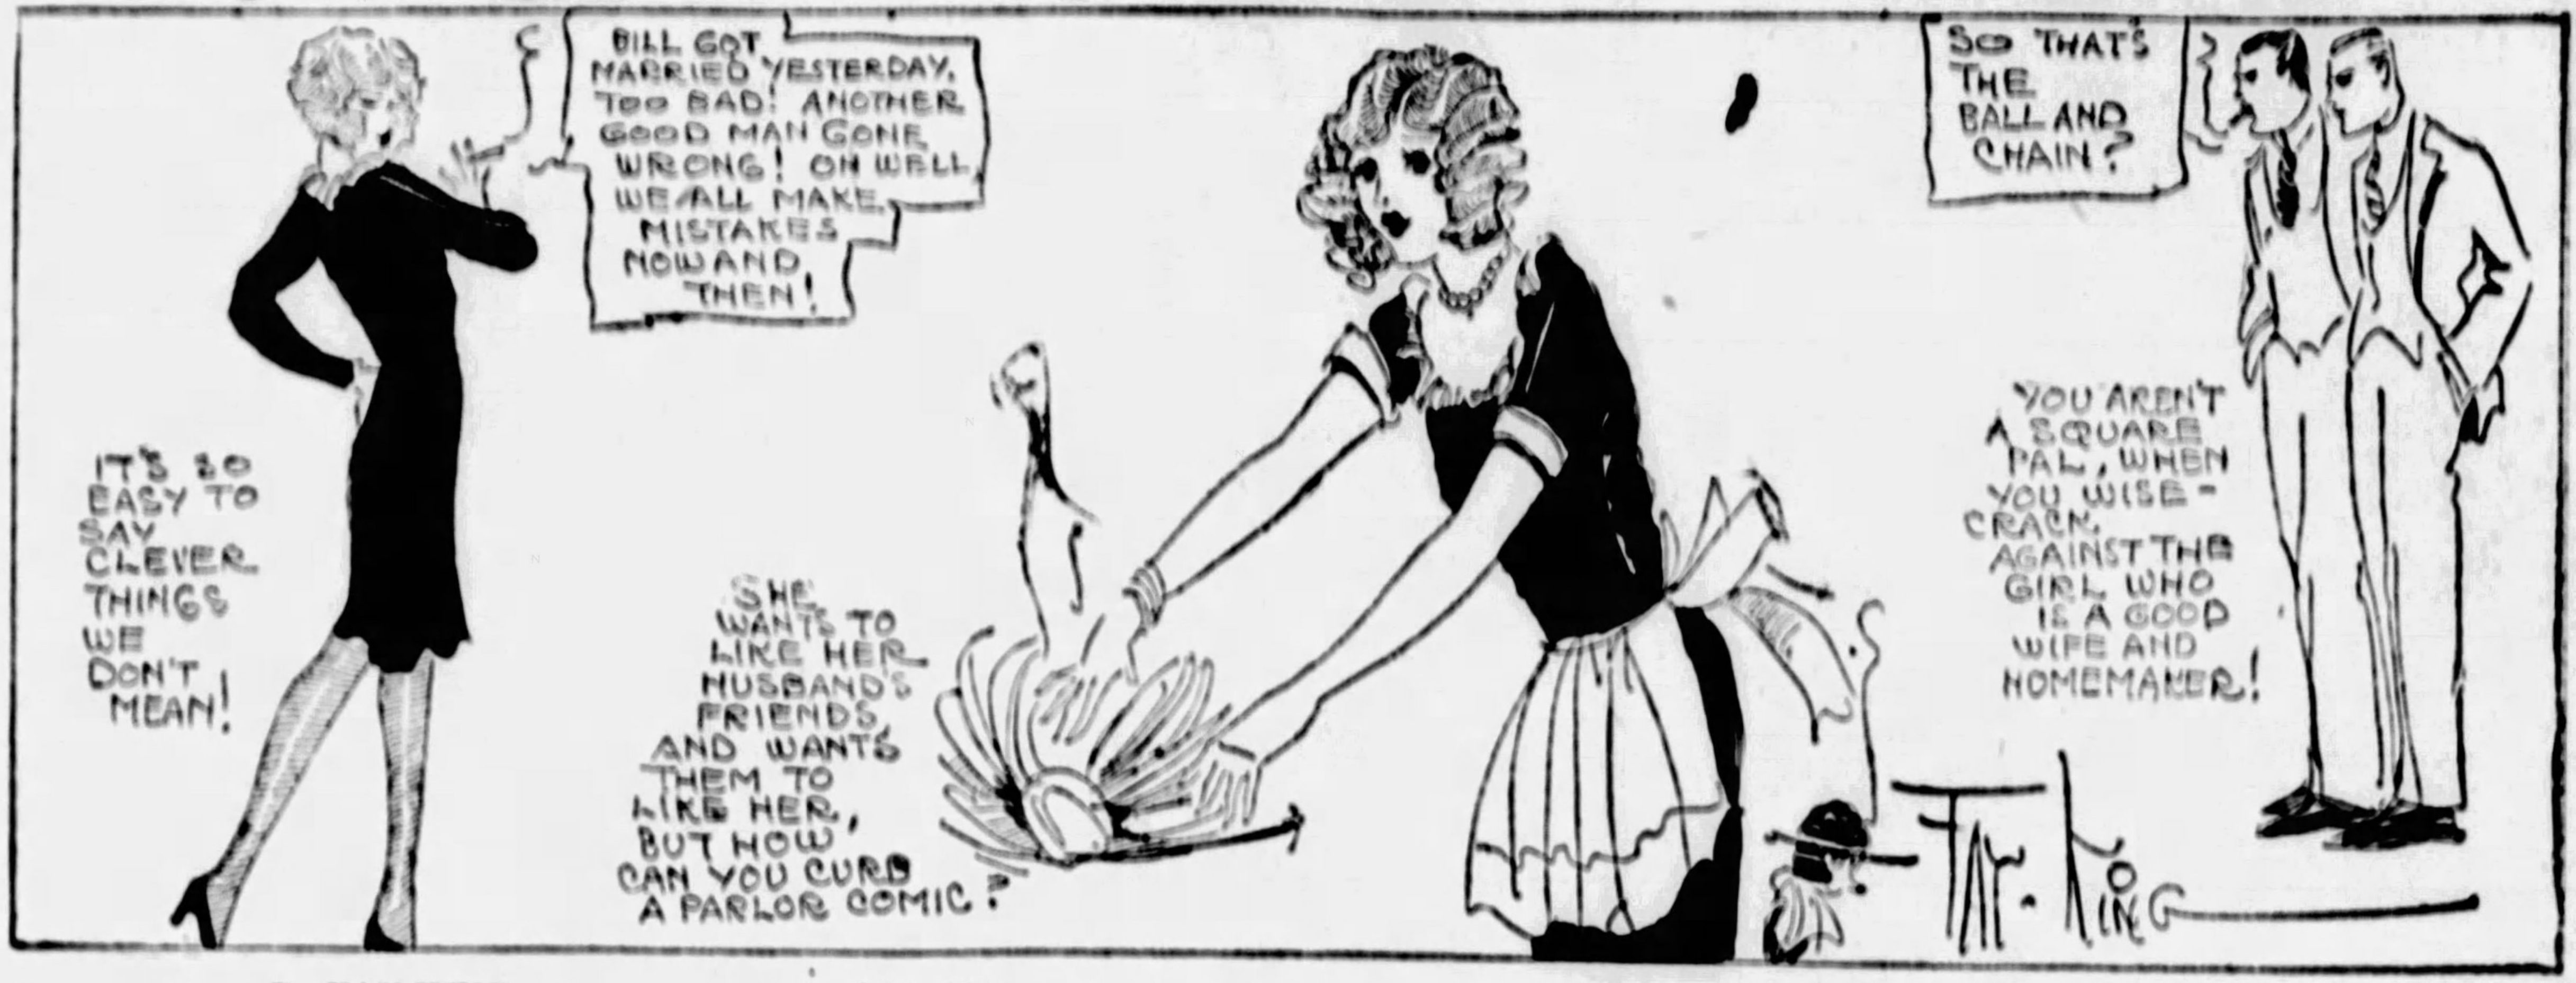
Fay King Tells Why Some Wisecracks Do Harm



BILL GOT MARRIED YESTERDAY, TOO BAD! ANOTHER GOOD MAN GONE WRONG! OH WELL WE ALL MAKE MISTAKES NOW AND THEN!
IT'S SO EASY TO SAY CLEVER THINGS WE DON'T MEAN!
SHE WANTS TO LIKE HER HUSBAND'S FRIENDS AND WANTS THEM TO LIKE HER, BUT HOW CAN YOU CURB A PARLOR COMIC?
SO THAT'S THE BALL AND CHAIN?
YOU AREN'T A SQUARE PAL, WHEN YOU WISE-CRACK AGAINST THE GIRL WHO IS A GOOD WIFE AND HOMEMAKER!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

I OFTEN think the wisecracker is quite cruel and does a lot of mischief.

It is so easy to be clever if one does not mind being unkind.

And the worst of it is they do not really mean what they say, but what they say often destroys an ideal and undermines happiness.

Marriage has suffered a lot through the wisecrackers and jokesmiths.

The sweetheart that is idealized in poetry and song is humiliated and ridiculed as a wife.

These clever comics say that the lady we saw him with wasn't a lady—"it was my wife!"

They say that marriage "is a great institution—but who wants to be in an institution?"

The wife is a "ball and chain." When a man marries he "goes wrong."

Nonsense, of course, said to gain a laugh, but just the same little by little this ridicule has made a joke of true love and happiness and the finest companionship that life can offer.

And these wise-wits, or nit-wits, who make up these detrimental jokes about marriage, religion and nationalities are often happily married, serious in their devotions, and sensitive regarding slights to their own races.

I see no comedy in a wisecrack that is unkind and such a comic is cruel!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

DIVIDENDS ON THE LOVE MARKET

FALLING in love with a woman-charmer is like biting into a kumquat; first you think it's an orange—and then you know it's a lemon.

A man can forgive a woman for catching him in a lie; but what gets his nerve is that atavistic instinct by which she always knows when he is GOING to tell her a lie—before he opens his mouth.

What a modern girl lacks in beauty she makes up in—oh, well, she MAKES UP!

HELEN ROWLAND

A woman gives up her faith in a man as she hands over her jewel-case to a burglar—always with a struggle and the desperate hope that she will get it all back again some day.

The Up-to-the-minute Girl: She carries a brief case in one hand and a vanity case in the other. She can swing a wicked golf stick and use a can-opener with equal skill. She can drive a car and a good bargain. She has cuddly little clinging-vine ways, and at the same time a punch that makes it unnecessary for her to "walk home." And then she wonders why men "don't understand" her!

A woman may have her face lifted; but once her illusions about herself have begun to sag, nothing except a brand new romance will bring them back to the normal.

AN OBLIGING BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

ARE YOU a "TOXIC"

A Complexion You "Can't Do a Thing With"

These pimples, yellow spots and that sallowness—they come from a deeper cause than you think. These skin blemishes are the symptom of a dangerous toxic or poisoned condition of the system which is due to a "half-dead" or sluggish liver. The liver becoming weak or congested under the strain of our abnormal living habits, fails to cleanse the blood of the poisons formed in food waste. Then toxemia with stubborn skin troubles. If complexion is bad it is a sign that the liver needs a little help. There is nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall has been found to be a great natural stimulant for the liver, which is a purifier of blood and skin. The genuine, pure ox gall is to be had, dainty and tasteless, in the form of Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c at good druggists. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name Dioxol and picture of ox's head on the package.

Eddie Dowling and Al Smith, Heroes of "Honeymoon Lane," Divide Honors in the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

WHICH is the star in "Honeymoon Lane," Eddie Dowling or Al Smith? The audience at the Nixon Theater last night seemed to be about equally divided. If Al had been there in person, Mr. Dowling might have lost the contest, despite his story-telling genius. For he is the best story-teller that has wandered into these parts lately, and keeps the audience in an uproar with his smiling blarney and the adventures of his mother. But is he a comedian and playwright, or is he a political spieler? It is safe to say that if Al Smith is elected President, there will be a heavy protective tariff on pickles. You see, Tim Murphy, that is Eddie Dowling's part, is interested in the pickle factory at Cannington, Pennsylvania. That is where Mary Brown works, the girl whose part is played by Bobbie Perkins, she whom the Dream Man, sung by Worthe Faulkner, sends to New York to become a great Broadway star. But she comes back to the "Little White House," which is the theme of the most singable of many tuneful songs in "Honeymoon Lane."

It is really a musical play with a naive freshness that is quite refreshing. Eddie Dowling, along with James Hanley, is the author, as well as the principal comedian and the hero. He has surrounded himself with a group of talented people. Florence O'Demshawn does some dances remarkable for grace and finish. Gordon Dooley provides capital clowning, especially in his slow motion act with Bobbie Perkins, the piquant heroine. Kate Smith and Leo Beers do some specialties that prolong the performance considerably because they please the audience considerably; Louis Simons and William Thompson showed how Terpsichore is worshiped south of Mason and Dixon's Line, and also prolong the performance by prolonged applause; Esther Muir as a temperamental chorine and Josie Intropodi as a passee prima donna contribute bits of acting that merited warm approval. Nor must we forget Al Smith, though he wasn't there in person.

Truth to tell, there are many other things in this "Honeymoon Lane" that caught on. There was the real train that pulled out of the Erie Railroad station. There was the Halloween curtain designed by Willy Pogany. There were the Bell Boys and the Lulu Belles. But chief of all there was the engaging personality of Eddie Dowling, Duke of Blarney, who can sing a song, tell a story, and make love with a captivating brogue that ought to start a real estate boom in Honeymoon Lane. It's a good location, fresh air, fine view, all modern improvements—so why complain about the politics? The audience was so well amused that it sympathized with the policeman when he was called a Republican.

MERRY REVUE IN ALDINE

"Merry Go Round," a revue of song, dance and comedy, whirls its merry way on the Aldine stage this week. Its 15 or so scenes, with the exception of a hospital skit that has a burlesque tinge, have a wholesome atmosphere. The rather large cast is dominated by youthful talent. A couple of boys show versatility and orginality as a dance team. Then there's a young man in a brown, double-breasted coat and flannel trousers, who can sing. Another young fellow comes along and gives an impersonation of Al Jolson. Later he dashes down the aisle in a usher's uniform and sings about that dignitary. A girl and boy who know their dance steps, give a couple of specialties. We mustn't forget Libby Holman, either. Libby sings several good songs and gets the acclaim in the Hogan's Alley episode. A tall and slender chap puts laughs into the piece—as a fellow who robs a safe to get a safety pin. But youth isn't the whole show. There's the older fellow who sings about getting operatic in the bathtub. Also, save applause for the Pan American quartet. The photoplay feature is Glen Tryon's "A Hero for a Night."

NEW ACADEMY SHOW IS "FRENCH MODELS"

Viola Elliott is in the Academy this week in her new show, "French Models." She is featured in songs and specialties. George Hart and Hap Moore are prominent in the comedy scenes. George Grafe, baritone; Edna Bates, soubret, and her sister, Edythe, have principal roles.

"SADIE THOMPSON" CAMERAPHONE FILM

Gloria Swanson's starring picture, "Sadie Thompson," is the current photoplay in the Camerphone. Miss Swanson, in the title role, essays the part Jeanne Eagels made famous in the stage version, "Rain."

"WITHIN THE LAW" CURRENT IN EAST END

"Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's old melodramtic success, is being presented in the East End Theater this week by the Harry Schwartz players.

"JAZZ SINGER" GOOD FILM

If you can sit in the Olympic and watch Al Jolson on the screen in the film version of "The Jazz Singer" and hear his voice on the Vitaphone without a little moisture coming into your eyes, a little sob to muffle in your chest or a little lump arising in your throat, you are hard-boiled, that's all. If you saw the play, however, do not remain for the finale, as it will seem unreal to you, because it does carry the cantor tradition into the sixth generation. Jolson plays the title part with a true conception of its emotional possibilities and he mixes the jazz atmosphere and the loftier sentiment in believable proportions, definitely creating the illusion of a jazz singer with a tear in his voice and a sob in his smile. The picture follows the stage version of the story with fidelity right up to the finale and then makes a "happy ending" addition. What is imagined in the play is visualized in the picture, which is a real achievement in silent drama. One becomes acquainted with Jakie Rabinowitz as a boy, witnesses the episode that makes him a runaway and sees his struggle to reach success as Jack Robin, the jazz singer of the stage, whose father wishes that he shall be a cantor.

"The Student Prince" Wins Big Syria Mosque Audience; Goes Into Alvin Tonight

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

AN excellent performance of the ever-pleasing operetta, "The Student Prince," was given last night in Syria Mosque, to which the popular musical play was transferred from the Alvin, where it will appear for the remainder of the week, beginning tonight. The spacious stage of the Mosque proved to be an appropriate medium from which to project the atmosphere of Old Heidelberg, with its beer gardens and festal spirit born of student activities, and the pretty story of romance of the princely student, Karl Franz, and the barmaid, Kathie, but the spacious auditorium of the Mosque found its widely extending rows of seats totally inadequate to the enormous size of the audience.

The throng was so great that the urge on the writer is to review the audience rather than the operetta. The Alvin was sold to the Syria Mosque Automobile Club for the opening night of "The Student Prince." The committee soon learned that the Alvin could not hold all who would attend, so it was decided to move the singers and comedians and scenery to the Mosque. Before 8 o'clock the committee was sorry it had not engaged Forbes Field or that there was no Town Hall in which to give its big party. Every seat was occupied long before 8 and jolly looking Shriners were scurrying here and there looking for a place in which to stand. Women who have stood their husbands up in front of a department store many a time were left standing in the lobby, reminding their men not to forget where they were, while their escorts dashed here and there in the vain hope that the sign, "Standing Room Only," posted at the entrance, was only a joke. It wasn't. Emphatically, it was not.

Thus "The Student Prince" had its greatest audience in Pittsburgh—perhaps, anywhere. And the effect of the audience on the players was electrical. No better performance of the musical play could have been given. No response of audience to the art of the performers could have been more keen and helpful by reason of the appreciation expressed in that affinity between actor and auditor that draws the latter into the feeling of the play.

The stirring choruses of the student body, the enchantment of the scene, the illusion of sweet romance, the good singing voices of the principals, the comedy and the drama all had their part in giving the great audience an evening of appealing entertainment.

Ilse Marvenga was the charming Kathie, idol of the students of Heidelberg University, to which came the democratic Karl Franz, destined to become the King, for whom there could be no Kathies. Miss Marvenga was a most pleasing Kathie and Sudworth Fraser was a most gallant and captiviating Prince, to whom the winsome Kathie helped to give a year of happiness and life before the state claimed him and swallowed him in the oblivion of the royal palace. DeWolf Hopper was the high-and-mighty Lutz, personal attendant—not valet, he let you know—of the prince, and the part gave him great opportunity to display his comedy powers.

Others in the cast also gave satisfactory performances, making the presentation of the Dorothy Donnelly-Sigmund Romberg operetta eminently pleasing. The big student chorus, as usual, was a favorite with the audience, its rousing songs imparting a stimulation that lingered even after the curtain fell.

BARTHELMESS SHINES AS PUGILIST SOLDIER

"The Patent Leather Kid," kept in the Grand for the second week, which opened yesterday, gives Richard Barthelmess opportunity to shine in one of the best roles he has had. Molly O'Day forces her way closer to the front rank by her good work in the picture, the story of a pugilist "bearcat" in the ring, but a coward in the war. On the stage the Horlick Ensemble presents instrumental music, songs and dances, mostly in jazz tempo.

TONIGHT BRINGS PADEREWSKI

Paderewski, Polish pianist, will appear in a concert in Syria Mosque tonight. Following his concert he will be presented with a golden wreath, and Mme. Paderewski, who organized the Polish White Cross organization during the World War, will be presented with a shield with a white cross. The program includes Schumann's Symphonic Etudes, the Beethoven Sonata in C sharp minor, opus 27, No. 2; a Schubert-Liszt group, a group of Chopin, and one of Paderewski's own works, Melodie in B major, No. 3, opus 8. The program will close with the Liszt Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 6.

COHENS AND KELLYS HELD OVER IN CAMEO

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," a photoplay sequel to "The "Cohens and Kellys," is being seen for a second week in the Cameo. There is a lot of fun in this latest Cohen-Kelly picture.

ALLA NAZIMOVA IN DAVIS

Two of the best comedy acts of the season brighten the vaudeville program in the Davis this week—to offset Alla Nazimova's dreadful experiences as a child-wife in a Hindu harem. Everyone will enjoy Carol Racine and Dorothy Ray, who are on a "Cook's Tour," and have a merry assortment of new quips that will tickle any tourist that has ever been cooked. And everyone will enjoy Sidney Marion as the comical Dutchman—his wagging hat, his stolid face, his awkward dialect and quaint buffooneries are all delectable. These comedy acts put one right with the world despite Mme. Nazimova's plunge into Mahratta melodrama. Her playlet by Edgar Allen Woolf and Fanny Hartz Friend is crude sensationalism at the expense of an oppressed people. Mme. Nazimova makes her points with sure theatrical instinct, and very fine acting is done by Pelma Hall as the old ayah, but Robert Conness has an impossible part as a sort of Hindu Caligula. Nazimova's child is trampled by an elephant, and it looks very much as if this also were anti-elephantine propaganda. But to balance things there are the Agemos, wonderful Swiss acrobats who perform feats that only Japanese and Chinese gymnasts have been equal to. Jack Russell and five black-face dancers furnish an echo of Negro minstrelsy, while Ray Vaughn tickles a xylophone with luminous hammers. The comedy film, "Smith's Kindergarten," is full of rich farce and the photoplay, "French Dressing," is distinguished by the fine work of that splendid actor, H. B. Warner.

BASEBALL MEN IN HARRIS

Two extremes met and vied for honors on the Harris stage yesterday afternoon—youth and age. Youth was personified by the Hearst Brothers, a couple of youngsters, who sang and clowned in a pleasing manner. Age was personified by Nick Altrock, veteran baseball star, who appeared in an act with Al Schacht, former big league pitcher. The former ball players gave a burlesque on the boxing game, featuring a slow-motion take-off on the seventh round of the last Tunney-Dempsey fight. Al put his legs through a Leon Errol and created much laughter. Nick, at the close of the act, which was well received, was responsible for a few minutes of sentiment when he gave a recitation recalling the White Sox days of 1906. Joe Engel assisted in the act. As for the Hearst boys, they won several curtain calls, and the younger of the two showed many of the earmarks of a big-time comedian. Other routine acts and a Buck Jones film, "Blood Will Tell," completed the bill.

Picture in Penn Has Gilbert in Lead

"Man, Woman and Sin," shown in the Penn as the screen feature in that theater is interesting in its scenes of the work performed on a modern newspaper, from the activities of a reporter and his contact with all kinds of persons up to political leaders, to the roar of the presses, but it is not altogether convincing in its dramatic aspect, involving the death of another at the hands of a reporter in a quarrel resulting from his love for the society editor. John Gilbert, as the reporter, does good work, but Jeanne Eagles does nothing to rave about. Willie Solar, comedian with a gymnastic voice, carries off the honors of "Tokio Blues," the stage attraction, being a source of constant laughter with his funny croaks, wheezes, coughs and stutters. The three Mayakos, Japanese, also please with their dancing and musical offerings. Others in the act are Hatsu Kuma and Helen Kim, singers, and a group of dancing girls.

SEXTET TOPS PROGRAM IN SHERIDAN SQUARE

The Colonial Sextet, three men and three women, presented a musical act as a feature of the bill which opened yesterday in the Sheridan Square. McCoy and Walton offered a comedy skit. Hall and Symonds, with the aid of a piano, were responsible for another bit of song and comedy. Rhodes and Coleman were seen in a number of dance specialties. Balancing and other feats were performed by Van DeVelder and company. The photoplay feature was a comedy drama, "Ladies Must Dress," featuring Virginia Valli. The bill included an organlogue, played by John Edward Mitchell, news pictures, and a screen comedy.

BURLESQUE IN GAYETY IS "HELLO, AMERICA"

"Hello, America," the burlesque, presented by the Gayety stock company this week, got going yesterday at a livelier rate than has been shown by the company so far and the speed was well maintained throughout. A specialty in honor of Lindbergh proved a diverting novelty that was well liked. Sung by Earl Root, it had a background of two atmospheric scenes, in which the chorus and lighting suggested something of an idea of airplanes in motion.

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE" IN PITT SECOND WEEK

"Abie's Irish Rose," the Anne Nichols comedy, which many critics have said is the worst ever written, but, which has made a larger number of audiences laugh than any ever staged, remains in the Pitt, where yesterday it began the second and last week of its second appearance here.

Why We Behave Like Human Beings

Sex Selectivity Not Likely Ever to Be Possible

LINDY JOINS PARK

JANE, BILLIE, LINDY

Jane and Billie Stewart gave up Lindy, a nine-months old pet fawn as a gift to the county's new South Park on condition that they might be allowed to visit "Lindy" regularly. Born on the day Col. Lindbergh flew to Paris, "Lindy" was deserted by his mother in Westmoreland woods, and found and presented to the Stewart children, whose father, W. W. Stewart, is in charge of the Phillips Game Refuge.

SAYS HUSBAND BEAT HER, ASKS DIVORCE

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 14—That her husband tore off her clothing and beat her with the buckle end of a strap was the testimony of Evangeline W. Crandall in a divorce suit heard by Judge William E. Hirt. She was granted a divorce.

LEAPS TO DEATH WITH RESCUE NEAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Mrs. Ida De Cola leaped to death from the window of a burninng building. She would have been rescued in a few more seconds for an extension ladder was just dashing up to the scene.

TEARING DOWN 'THE ARK'

"The Ark," built more than 80 years ago by the old Washington Temperance Society in Ark alley, North Side, and perhaps one of the oldest temples to Volsteadian principles in the country, is being dismantled. The old building, a two-story brick structure, used in recent years as a warehouse by a florist. It was named "The Ark" on account of its broad low roof and was the scene of many stirring meetings in the days when John B. Gough was America's leading temperance orator. May 16, 1846, it was the scene of a riot when a gang of hoodlums attacked Frank Johnston's Negro band when a temperance benefit concert was held. For a number of years the place was fitted up for the accommodation of advanced pupils in the old Allegheny Third Ward public schools.

Hairy Coat Varies in Races And Individually—Toe and Finger Nails Inherited

The brain originally was a smelling organ; noses came later, was one of the facts revealed in yesterday's installment of "Why We Behave Like Human Beings." Also that our external ears are degenerate, and that crocodiles and snakes cry more than humans do. Mr. Dorsey explained the structure of eyes and skin. If one loses one-third of his skin he dies.

All Parts Present at Inception

By GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH.D., LL.D.

CHAPTER 3.

CATS "feel" in the dark with whiskers or vibrissae. Man's eyebrows and mouth and ear hairs seem to be the modified descendants of such feelers. Actual vibrissae—long, coarse, stiff hairs—often appear in men, especially after middle life, generally in the eyebrows, less often on the end of the nose.

GEORGE A. DORSEY

Man's hairy coat varies individually and in races. Because of their hairy bodies, the aborigines of Japan are called the Hairy Ainu. The amount of hair on the face and the parts of the body covered by hair also varies in different races.

We inherit finger and toe nails, almost without change, from our animal ancestors. The nails of our big toe, thumb and first and second fingers tend to be flat—as they are in apes; the arched nails of our other fingers suggest the rounded claws of certain mammals and are like the long curved nails of monkeys.

Our skin is rich in glands. These begin to develop during the fifth month. The sweat glands reduce temperature and eliminate waste. Sebaceous or fat glands lubricate the skin and hair, and in certain regions (armpits, for example) secret an odor. Such odoriferous glands are generally sexual in character and are highly developed in hoofed animals. In the male musk deer of Central Asia the gland is as big as a hen's egg. Its secretion is the base of certain man-made perfumes. Consequently, the musk deer is almost extinct.

Meaning of Mammal

Mammals take their names from their mammae—sweat glands peculiarly modified to secrete milk. On the one-month human embryo appear two mammary ridges extending from armpits to groin. A milk gland develops at the upper end of each ridge. The ridge then atrophies and disappears. But one individual in every 500 has supernumerary glands—three, four, even seven pairs are not unknown. These are clearly a reversion to an earlier mammalian condition. In one case a large gland developed in the middle of the back.

At first a depression appears in the center of the gland—and so remains in the lowest order of mammals. From the bottom of the depression many little bases rise; these, in both sexes, come to form the nipple just before or shortly after birth. The mamae develop no further until puberty, when, in the female, they are stimulated to further growth by the sex glands. As their function is food, and as they have been known to function in otherwise normal males, they are not primary sexual characters.

Selective Sex Unlikely

Now and then a child is born with a common opening for the intestine and the urogenital tract. This common vent is called a cloaca (sewer); it is the normal condition in fishes, amphibians, reptiles, birds, and the lowest orders of mammals. In man it represents a reversion to an ancestral type which did not disappear until marsupials evolved, millions of years ago, as the second order of mammals.

The cloacal condition is normal in the human embryo during the second month; at that time the intestine and urogenital ducts end in a common chamber. Not until the tenth week is it possible to distinguish a male from a female fetus. Until this time the external and internal anatomy is identical for both sexes.

With the eighth week the cloacal condition ceases and the embryo develops into a male or a female. Whether it is to become male or female is probably determined when the ovum is fertilized. The decisive factor is not known, nor is it likely that • shall discover means by which the ovum will develop into male or female according to our desire for son or daughter. As we shall see later, the sex glands themselves presumably secrete a hormone which, carried by the blood, causes the marvelous changes whereby the neutral rudimentary organs develop in one or the other direction.

The anatomical structure on which these hormones may act consists of four parallel tubes at the hind end of the body, opening into the cloaca. The outer tubes, or Wolffian ducts, will carry the male glands; the inner pair, or Muellerian ducts, will become the oviducts, or Fallopian tubes.

Sex Divergncies

If the embryo is to become a male the inner tubes atrophy; the Wolffian ducts become the vas deferens; the cloaca opening closes to form the scrotum. If female, the cloaca remains open, the oviducts grow together in the lower part to become the uterus, the upper becoming the Fallopian tubes; the Wolffian ducts persist as vestiges in the broad ligament. In the male, the sex glands descend; in the female, they remain within the pelvic cavity. The migration of the glands in the male is common to most mammals, but only in man, due to his upright gait, do the inguinal canals through which they pass remain weak spots which may permit the escape of a loop of the intestine, causing hernia.

The significant fact is that the human embryo of eight weeks has the makings of a male or a female. It follows that neither sex possesses any anatomical parts which are not found in homologous parts in the other sex. The beginnings of all the parts are present from the start; later they come to differ. By change, by shift in position and by growth or atrophy, the original neutral mechanism becomes male or female.

Most plants and many lower animals are hermaphrodites (Hermes-Aphrodite); the organs of both sexes are combined in one individual. Higher in the scale of animal life true hermaphrodites disappear. But sometimes in an otherwise normal human embryo certain parts fail to complete their nomal development. The result as an individual anatomically neither fully formed male nor a female; such are called hermaphrodites. But no human being functions both as male and as female.

While the sex glands or gonads appear at the sixth week, they show no structural difference as to their future sex; yet the cells within under the miscroscope are already definitely of one or the other sex. If female, the cells are of the ovum type, large and rounded; if male, the cells are of the spermium type, small, very long, and ending in a fine process, or tail.

LORD ASQUITH, BRITISH WAR PREMIER, AT DEATH'S DOOR

SECOND NEWS SECTION THE SUN TELEGRAPH SPORTS FEATURES

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1928

HOPE FOR RECOVERY FADES

EUTTON COURTENAY, England, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Death was slowly drawing the curtain today on another great figure of the World War, the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, who, as Herbert H. Asquith, served his country as prime minister from 1908 to 1916.

All hope for Lord Oxford's recovery was abandoned by his physician early this morning and it was said the end was only a question of how long the enfeebled heart of the 75-year-old statesman could hold out.

At 5 o'clock this morning he was still alive but was reported to be weaker. At that hour Princess Bibesco, who had left her father's bedside for a few moments, said:

"I am afraid there is no hope for my father."

She returned to the sick room immediately.

Soon after he closed his political career by resigning as leader of the Liberal party on October 19, 1926, advancing age began to make inroads on his once robust health. Last week he took to his bed, pulmonary complications developed and early yesterday afternoon he lost consciousness. At 8:45 p. m. his physician announced he was slowly sinking and when the physician left the stateman's home at 2 a. m. today he said that his patient was still unconscious.

PECORA, FIRST ASSISTANT TO BANTON, LUNCHEON GUEST

Ferdinand Pecora, first assistant to J. H. Banton, district attorney of New York, spoke at a luncheon tendered him by Senator Frank Harris, in the Wiliam Penn Hotel yesterday. Mayor Charles H. Kline and Judge James B. Drew were among those attending. Peace officers of the county were Senator Harris' guests to hear Pecora discuss the Sullivan anti-gun-toting law. Last night Mr. Pecora addressed the League of Women Voters in McCreery's dining room.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THEY are going to stage a testimonial banquet Thursday night in the William Penn Hotel for Dr. Charley Quailey, of Oakland, and one of the few aldermen of the county with a slight waist line.

Former Pitt football star, a D. D. S., an active football official, and now an alderman, the Oakland squire's banquet will attract many persons from varied walks of life.

An invitation sent here is readily accepted and we have started training for the event. Training for a banquet consists of staging at home a dress rehearsal, in which the main problem is to cut the fried chicken without shooting the adjacent peas into the lap of an innocent by-sitter.

J. P. FLYNN, chairman of the euchre and sixty-six party to be given by the Millvale Vounteer Fire Department, sends in a couple of tickets for the event to be staged tonight. Millvale always has had a great volunteer department. We remember them from the different conventions of volunteers we have attended in this section. We never liked their uniforms quite so well as the uniform of the company we used to belong to—our hats were solid red with undershirt to match—but perhaps this is just a provincial opinion.

WE CANT go to the party tonight, but we will be there in spirit, anyway. What are the conventions of euchre now? Is it still proper to "make it next," when sitting at the right of the dealer who has turned down the trump? And are twenties and forties still important in sixty-six?

Checkers were always a little more popular than cards at our old engine house. To see Frank Weaver start out "The Single Corner," "The Laird and Lady," "The Will o' the Wisp" and countless other checker formations was something to round out a full life.

BURLEIGH GRIMES, a pitcher, comes back to the Pirates after a long absence. The husky pitcher holds a prominent place in Pirate history, not through the execution of his main art, pitching, but through a sideline—fighting.

One of the memorable chapters in Pittsburgh baseball history deals with the night Mr. Grimes engaged in a Pullman smoker with Hugo Bezdek, then Pirate manager, present Penn State football coach. Each had great strength and a fighting heart that would not yield until the last final pump.

IT WAS an exhibition of wrestling rather than boxing. The last hold is remembered well by eye-witnesses. Mr. Grimes by accident or design had his thumb in Mr. Bezdek's mouth, while the fingers of the same hand were clutching the outside part of the Bezdekian cheek. The general purpose in Mr. Grimes' mind seemed to be to tear out the partition.

Mr. Bezdek was in the meantime contenting himself with twisting Mr. Grimes' nose with great enthusiasm. It was his general idea to improve upon nature, so that after he got through Mr. Grimes would be walking around with his nose over where one ear should be and his ear over where the nose used to be.

It ended in a Pyrrhic victory.

DE WOLF HOPPER comes to the Alvin this week. Perhaps Mr. Hopper will recall an unlucky incident. At a theater where college boys congregated there was a ruction—the boys deciding to stage a sort of rough house. A call to the police was sent out. By the time they had arrived the affair was quieted down, but the police were alert for further trouble. In the back of the house the management had an employe who at the proper time was to shout to Mr. Hopper, "Give us 'Casey at the Bat,'" a famous recitation given by the talented Mr. Hopper. The employe who thus raised his voice was pounced upon by the police and ejected from the theater. And no amount of explaining got him back in again.

WIN $102,681 TAX REFUND

REFRACTORIES DIVIDEND HELD UNTAXABLE

Under an opinion handed down yesterday by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson 15 stockholders of the Harbison-Walker Refractories Company will recover $102,681.42 paid as income tax on an extra dividend of 6 per cent common stock of the company, which they paid under protest to C. G. Llewellyn, former collector of internal revenue, for the year 1917.

In the suits brought by the individual stockholders they contended the assessment and collection was illegal, as the dividend was from a surplus which had accrued prior to March 1, 1913, but not declared by the directors of the company until August 3, 1917. Judge Gibson ordered the return with interest from the date of collection.

The plaintiffs and amount of assessment involved were as follows: Harry W. Croft, $25,527.04; William Walker, $27,571.83; Joseph J. Brooks, Jr., $3,765.51; Kenneth Seaver, $2,128.21; P. R. Hilleman, $1,200; Ralph W. Harbison, $5,985.90; Lee C. Marganroth, $2,544.02; Raymond Willey, $1,497.45; William A. Harbison, $6,129.03; R. H. Youngman, $2,450.15; Otto M. Relf, $7,998.74; Nin McQuillen, $1,717.53; Emma J. Harbison, $3,605, and Elizabeth W. Pontefract, $2,474.63.

TREAT 'EM HARD, PECORA URGES

Mandatory life imprisonment for fourth-offense felonies and increased hardship to procure bail are two of the most effective methods of deterring crime in the United States, Ferdinand Pecora, first assistant prosecuting attorney of New York county, declared last night before the League of Women Voters in McCreery's.

Mr. Pecora, whose prosecution of New York gunmen, fake stock brokers and William H. Anderson, former head of the New York Anti-Saloon League, gained him national note, described the functions and results of the Baumes laws in New York, provisions of which have driven many criminals from New York or else confined them for life in Sing Sing and Dannemora prisons. Even though the laws have been in effect only a year and a half, he said, positive evidence is available that they have served as crime deterrents.

At luncheon yesterday, Mr. Pecora was guest of Senator Frank Harris at the William Penn Hotel, where he spoke informally to a group including Mayor Charles H. Kline, Judge James B. Drew, and other leaders of the bar and law enforcement.

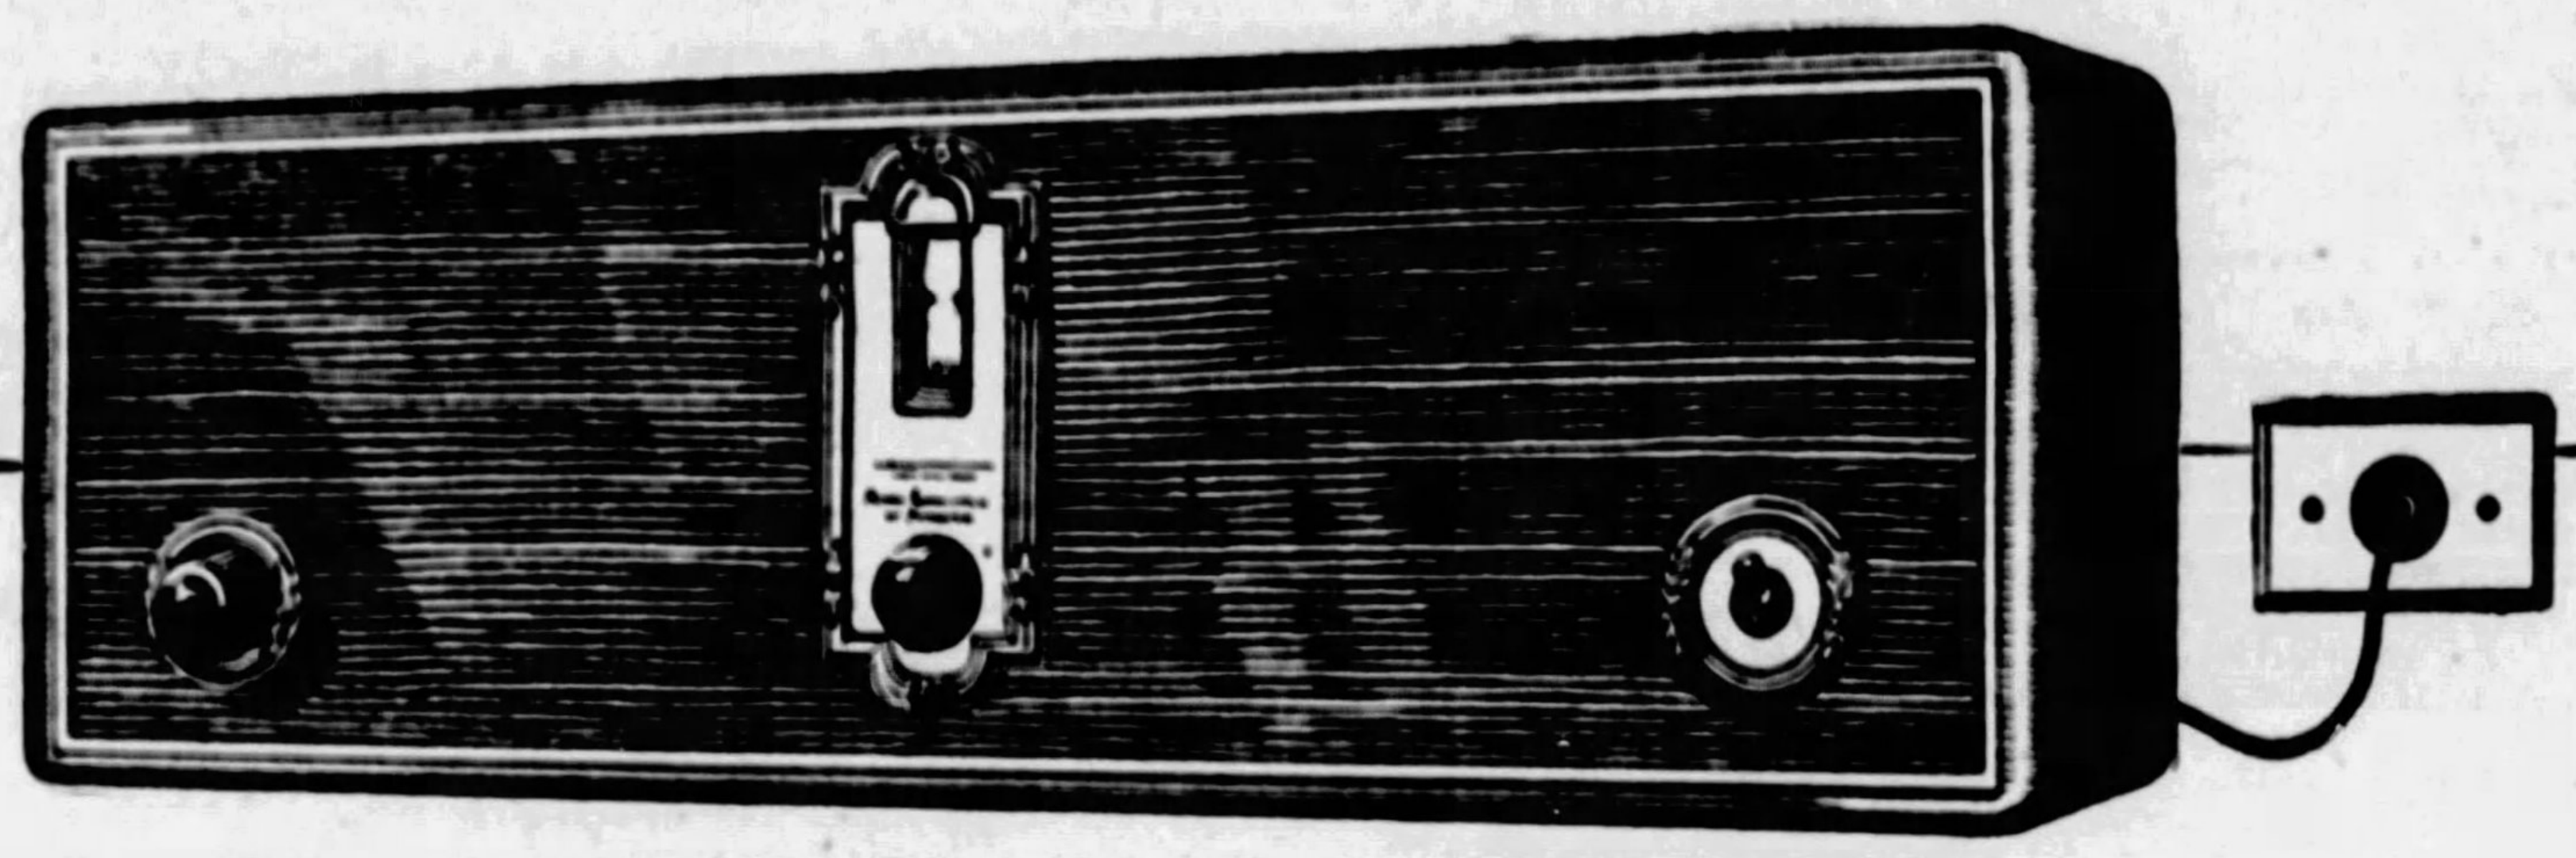
the "wonder box" that has become the most popular of all Radiolas



RCA RADIOLA 17. The "wonder box" that operates from the electric light circuit (110 volt, 60 cycle, A. C.) as simply as an electric fan. Wonderfully balanced sensitivity, selectivity and tone fidelity. Built of the finest tested materials. The entire set self-contained in a fine mahogany cabinet. Equipped with Radiotrons, $157.50

THE great staff of engineers in the service of the Radio Corporation of America spent two years in the laboratories perfecting and testing Radiola 17 before it was offered to the public.

Their goal was to design a moderate priced instrument, extremely simple to operate, but so perfect in performance that it would meet the most exacting requirements of fine broadcast reception.

They achieved this goal—and more—for they revolutionized radio when Radiola 17 made its spectacular debut.

The radio industry quickly realized that this new receiver, with its simple operation from the electric light outlet, was the instrument the whole country had been waiting for. The new principles of design developed by RCA, General Electric and Westinghouse in Radiola 17 opened a new era in radio manufacture.

Radiola 17 is the most popular Radiola ever offered because it meets these exacting tests of a fine radio instrument:

Sensitivity—ability to pick up broadcasting stations, near and far, over the entire broadcast range.

Selectivity—ability to select the program from one station to the exclusion of all others.

Tone Fidelity—ability to reproduce faithfully—realistically—music and voice as transmitted from the broadcasting station.

Simplicity—inexpensive operation as simple as an electric lamp or electric fan, at the touch of the finger.

Dependability—long life, with a minimum of upkeep—resulting from precision manufacture with the finest materials under competent engineering direction.

Lily Goes to See Pat And Finds the Ertz Girl There

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees downtown when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Drummond pays all her bills. She leaves Pat. When her parents come home they tell her that they are broke. Drummond again comes to the rescue.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THERE came the sound of soft footsteps in the hall, and then into the tiny dining room came—Elizabeth Ertz!

She stopped for an instant when she saw Lily. Then, without a word, she went paddling out into the kitchen on those rubber-heeled nurses' shoes of hers.

Pat glanced at her as if it were the most ordinary thing in the world for her to be there and then looked back at his wife. He answered her questoon.

"I'm through with you," he said, and raised his straight black brows for just a second. Then they came down in a scowl once more.

Lily nodded at him and managed to keep her voice very cool and level.

"Yes, I can see that you are," she told him. "And I see why, too . . . Well, you should probably have married that 'Sappy Sister to the Sick' in the first place instead of me. I've known all along that you were cockeyed about her—You never did care for me, really."

She knew that was not the truth when she said it.

And going down the narrow little middle-class street a few minutes later she told herself again that it was very far from the truth. Pat had adored her at times in the early days of their marriage . . . Only he had always been so busy. Always thinking about something else. Always having to be somewhere else—at the garage or at the little shop where he and Roy were manufacturing the wonderful piston ring.

Lily remembered other things as she went along in the chilly winter dusk—things that she did not realize she had noticed that afternoon.

She remembered that Elizabeth Ertz had had a feather duster in her hand when she crossed the dining room, and that there had been a gingham apron tied around her flat too-slender waist.

"I suppose she's pulling this homely wifey stuff on Pat—cooking his meals for him and keeping him just too comfortable!" she thought with extreme bitterness.

That would be just like the sly-faced Ertz! To do all the things that Lily had never done for Pat—the little extra things that a man likes to have done for him.

It came back to Lily that his house slippers had been placed neatly side by side on the floor under his easy chair in the living room, and that a smoking table had been pushed up beside it.

"She'll land him, too, just by doing little things like that, the nasty cat!" she went on thinking. "And it would be just my rotten luck if that piston ring made a million dollars!"

After that for a week she watched the newspapers to see if anything further was written about Pat and his ring. But she saw nothing—and she began to do her best to put him and it and The Ertz out of her mind.

She tried to fix her mind on Staley Drummond.

She tried to do what many and many women has tried to do without success—to fall in love with Staley. She tried desperately, but without success—not knowing that Love is as perverse and contrary as a high-spirited horse, and runs away when you try to make it go in any direction that it does not want to go.

Staley certainly gave her every chance to fall in love with him—just as he always had.

He was at the Montpelier Road house morning, noon, and night; and when he wasn't there, himself, his love offerings of books and flowers and magazines and candy were.

He even made Mr. Lexington some kind a a loan, Lily found out from her mother.

"Well, we won't have to leave the house, after all," she announced one morning as she and Lily sat having morning coffee together in the dining-room that was beginning to look rather dingy from lack of care.

"Staley pointed out to us the other night that if we did most of our own work it wouldn't cost us much more to live here in this place that we own than it would be to move into a little flat where we'd have to pay rent," she explaned. "And, of course, your father is making money right along, and gradually things will get better with us. It's just that he's been sick so long and we've let the bills pile up—" She shook her head rather desparingly.

It was none too pleasant for her to have to pitch in and do her own housework after all these years of comfort and luxery when no one in the family had really worked except poor Mr. Lexington whose nose had certainly polished the grindstone ever since the day of his wedding!

"Staley let your father have some money, I think," she said, giving Lily a sharp glance. "You know how proud your father is, and how he wouldn't ask anyone a favor—but, of course, this was different, with things the way they are between you and Staley."

Lily looked up, her eyes dark gray under the mass of her light hair that was like the yellowest gold in the February sunshine that flooded the dining room.

"How do you think things are between me and Staley, mother?" she asked. "Do you think I'm in love with him?"

Love was a thing that Mrs. Lexington hardly ever talked about. She left all that sort of sentimental nonsense to the spring poets and the flappers with their sheiks and their parked automobiles, so she often said with withering scorn. She had found out that there were many more important things in the world than love. There was social standing, for instance, the most important thing of all to Mrs. Lexington. Then there was comfort, and plenty of it. And money.

But romantic love—well, that was the frosting on the cake, the whipped cream on the pudding. An added touch—but not really necessary.

"Why, I don't know, my dear child," she answered Lily's question, "but Staley is certainly the person for you. I know THAT, beyond all doubt."

Lily's lovely hands with their nails of coral lacquer pointted their tips over her coffee cup. Her eyes clouded.

"He wants me to get a divorce right away," she said. "What do you think I'd better do about it?"

Mrs. Lexington's lips tightened. Lily had heard her air her views on divorce many and many a time, and she knew she was dead set against it always. But now that the very question of it meant her only daughter's future she was all at sea. Her answer showed that.

"Oh, I don't know how to advise you," she said, looking down at the scrambled eggs that were cold on her plate. "I don't believe in divorce—but Pat and you can't live together, and Staley wants you and he has everything in the world to lay at your feet. You'll have to figure it out for yourself."

Once more it struck Lily that her mother had failed her—just as she had failed her on the day when she had run away to marry Pat. She never had given her the advice that she needed when she needed it—and yet she was a good mother, in her way. She made Lily her clothes, she coddled her and petted her and spoiled her. If you had asked her about it she would have told you that she had lived for Lily for almost 23 years, and still was.

"Staley cares for you so much that I don't know what he'd do if you decided you didn't care for him now," she said and began to carry the soiled breakfast dishes out into the empty kitchen where a servant had been at work for so many years, doing the breakfast dishes and carry a 10 o'clock tray upstairs to the late-slumbering Lily.

But those happy days were gone, at least for the time being, and the two women did everything but the washing and ironing themselves. That is, Mrs. Lexington did most of the work while Lily pretended to be working and spent hours on end, smoking cigarets, trying her hair in some new way, or just lawdling around the house waiting for Staley to telephone and tell her how much he cared for her.

Gradually the two of them slipped into the ways of a year before when they had been half-engaged.

Two or three nights a week they played bridge with Sue and Jack Eastman—usually at Staley's beautiful quiet home, where there was always a Jap with a little tray of glasses and sandwiches at midnight. "Just for a nightcap," Staley said.

On Saturday nights they danced at the Country Club, and on Sundays the Lexingtons' house or the Cains' house was always filled with the regular crowd of young gay people that had always been Lily's friends.

She scarcely ever saw Staley alone, and was truly thankful for it.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

AT Mr. "George Logan Jackson's" prompt and apparently delighted acceptance of my dinner invitation, I, woman-like, began to wonder if I had been too impetuous in extending the invitation to him, sponsored though he was by Mrs. Townsend's impeccable social standing and her reputation for common sense, fastitidious taste and sportsmanship.

But another glance at Eleanor Lincoln's face betraying alike her pleasurable anticipation of being Noel Veritzen's dinner companion and her resentful disappointment at my including young Jackson among my dinner guests, convinced me that I had done a wise thing. I had a psychic little conviction that in my mother-in-law's parlance Miss Lincoln would prove a "handful," and that I might need young Jackson's aid in dealing with her.

For, stronger than ever was my belief that Miss Lincoln and the young man who had brought the wolfhound, Fedor, to her were old acquaintances and his opinion was given consideration which she did not accord to the dicta of anyone else.

"I trust your aunt and uncle will be able to come to our dinner," I said, reflecting anew upon the curious fact that these queer relatives of the young chatelaine of The Larches were never in evidence.

"I am so sorry," she said smoothly, "but, as I told you before, Aunt Anna's health forbids her going anywhere, and Uncle Henry will not leave her. He is so devoted to her!"

I had an instant's flashing remembrance of the face of the dour man who had come to the farm for water and had behaved so churlishly that Dickey had been compelled to speak harshly and reprovingly to him before the man could realize his own boorishness.

My answer, however, was as perfunctorily casual as her own. It was no part of my plan to let Miss Lincoln see that I was skeptical concerning any statement of hers.

"How fortunate she is in such devotion!" I said. "But I am disappointed in not having them. However, I may count on you, may I not?"

"Oh, yes, indeed," she answered, "unless, of course, Aunt Anna should be very ill. But I do not anticipate that possibility."

"Dinner will be at 7," I said, "and please remember that it is very informal. No dinner clothes. Just the most comfortable summer things possible. It is too hot to dress."

Young Mr. Jackson, who had sprung to his feet when I rose, bowed ceremoniously.

"I knew when I first saw you that you were a most remarkable woman," he said, and his unmistakable relieved pleasure at my suggestion gave all of us save Noel Veritzen a hearty laugh. The young violinist, who, of course, also had risen when I did, did not smile.

"Mrs. Graham is never anything but considerate," he said, and his tone said plainly that he considered Mr. Jackson's comment an audacious one for a stranger to make.

How to Reduce High Blood Pressure

There is only one way to reduce high blood pressure and that is by correcting the condition which has caused it. You must rid your system of the deadly poisons that are being absorbed into the blood stream, affecting every vital organ and threatening apoplexy.

You can do it easily and quickly with Lithuric Salts, a pleasant sparling drink composed of natural mineral salts and the fruit acids of lemons and grapes. Body poisons are removed through flushing of the intestines; the liver is stimulated and the kidneys assisted to do their body purifying work. If you get a package of Lithuric Salts of the May Drug Co., or any other good druggist today and start taking it tomorrow morning, you'll soon be amazed at the remarkable improvement in your condition.

Millions call it "The best of all mealtime drinks!" Make the personal health test —and you'll know why!

SLEEPLESSNESS, nervousness—these and many other reasons have prompted people to start drinking Postum. But they have continued drinking it for one reason only—because they found it was the best of all mealtime drinks for them!

Nor did they make this decision overnight. They made Postum their mealtime drink for thirty days, in place of beverages containing the drug caffein. They found they missed nothing in enjoyment—that Postum is a great drink in its own right. A drink made of roasted whole wheat and bran, with a rich, enticing aroma, and a smooth, full-bodied flavor.

Health gains, too!

These Postum "testers" found that Postum agreed with them, too—that, unlike caffein beverages, it never kept them awake, never attacked their nerves or heart, or caused indigestion. On a basis of results, they decided, at the end of thirty days, to make Postum their mealtime drink for life!

After all, isn't it sensible to give up something that hurts you for something that helps you, when you lose nothing in enjoyment by the change? Today—decide to give Postum a fair trial! Try it for thirty days! Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, prepared instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost much less than most other mealtime drinks. Lose Fat in an easier way

Don't over-exert—correct the cause

Some can reduce by starvation or abnormal exercise, but the way is long and hard. Not one in ten of the over-fat has the patience to continue. And even then the best efforts may fail unless the inner cause is corrected.

Over twenty years ago scientific men discovered a great cause of excess fat. They found a substance which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. They proved that an extra supply of that substance could check the formation of fat.

That substance was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Now you can see in almost every circle how much they have done for beauty, health, and vitality. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you. Slenderness prevails today, fat is the exception.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. They combat the cause.

Try the help which has done so much for so many. You owe that to yourself. You cannot afford to stay over-fat when reduction is so easy and so pleasant. Watch the results, then tell your friends, as people have for 20 years been doing. All your life you will be glad that you know Marmola. Go order now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

SOME New York baseball critics are praising John McGraw from another angle for what they term his sagacity in trading Burleigh Grimes to Pittsburgh for Vic Aldridge.

Larry Benton

They admit that Pittsburgh is the club that the Giants must beat out in order to win the National League pennant this year, and they assert that last year's records show that the New York club's flag chances were helped in both directions by the trade, claiming that Aldridge was able to win almost every time out against the Giants, whereas Grimes was nearly always easy picking for the Pirates.

THAT would undeniably be a splendid reason for making a trade, but the weak spot in the dope is that as far as last year's records were concerned there isn't the slightest ground for any such a belief on the part of McGraw or anyone else.

As a matter of fact, Aldridge did not win as many games from the Giants as he lost to them. It is

NOTES of the BOXERS

VINCE DUNDEE, brother of Joe, the welterweight champion, and Jackie Fields of California meet at Los Angeles tonight.

Jack O'Connell has been substituted for Terry McMullen, of Mansefield, O., as Lin Jordan's opponent in one of the eight-round bouts at McKeesport Thursday night, and Andy Tomosky and Andy Nanci have been paired for another of the feature events, with Mickey Solomon, of New Castle, and Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, boxing the opener. Nanci last week defeated George Tomosky, brother of Andy, in the same ring.

Johnny Ryan, of Boston, and Young Irish, of Akron, have been matched for a 10-round return bout at Meadville Thursday night.

The Olympic games boxing tryouts here will be held at Motor Square Garden April 13 and 14.

The Motor Square card for next Monday night has been completed. Willie Davies and Midget Wolgast box for the state flyweight title in the 10-round windup. Nick Susnell and Jack Katish meet in a return bout of eight rounds in the semifinal. Harry Taylor and Jack Simmons, a Negro lightweight of the Hill, furnish the second battle of six rounds and Eddie Jiggers and Johnny Reilly will box the opener.

Monte Sirko, a member of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, will box one of the bouts on the all-star card for the benefit of the miners' relief fund in the regiment's armory Saturday night.

Seven bouts will make up the card for the amateur boxing show of the Pittsburgh Lyceum in its gymnasium Friday night. Jimmy Rooney and Buck McTierran will furnish the windup.

Burleigh Grimes Here

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

BURLEIGH GRIMES, star spitball pitcher recently traded to the Pirates by the Giants in return for Pitcher Vic Aldridge, slipped quietly into Barney Dreyfuss's office this afternoon for a salary conference.

Grimes, a high-salaried performer, has not yet signed his 1928 contract, but it was believed that he would be able to agree to terms after a talk with the owner of the team.

Burleigh is scheduled to travel to Paso Robles with the first squad of Pirates in the event that he gets in line with the signed players.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SPORTS EDITOR

WELL, it looks very much as if the hockey people have fixed it up to string out the story of the sale of the Pittsburgh club's franchise and players to Cleveland for next season until the end of the current campaign in an effort to keep from affecting the attendance at the local games for the remainder of the schedule.

At the special meeting in Toronto yesterday, called to clear up the situation arising from the many announcements and denials regarding the sale, the buck was passed along until another meeting, to be held next month, at which time a special committee appointed to investigate

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(INS.)—Bernon S. Prentice, president of the Seabright, N. J., Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club; Richard Norris Williams, former international star, and Charles S. Garland, former Davis Cup player, were mentioned today as logical choices for the chairmanship of the Davis Cup committee. Julian S. Myrick, present chairman, announced here last night that he had decided to retire and would not accept a reappointment to the post.

Myrick, who said he was forced to relinquish the important position because of the pressure of increasing business duties, has long controlled the destinies of lawn tennis in this country. Through his efforts the scene of championship tournaments was transferred in 1915 from aristocratic Newport to the Forest Hills, N. Y., Stadium where the general public was admitted. Thousands became devotees of the sport as a result of their increased interest in the international tournaments.

MAINTAINED SUPREMACY

Under Myrick's guiding hand the United States maintained its supremacy on the courts. As presi-

Miners' Benefit In Duke Gym Deferred

Officials sponsoring the benefit basketball carnival for the miners' fund being raised here, this morning postponed the event, originally scheduled to take place in the Duquesne University gymnasium next Saturday night, to March 3, when the Cleveland Rosenbloms and the Duquesne Lafayettes will clash in the feature game.

Preliminary arrangements call for the Enoch Rauhs to meet the J. J. Mieles and the J. J. Veronas to engage the Osceolas club in the other contests.

An effort is being made to obtain a permit to stage a program of amateur bouts.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON
When the Pirates embark for camp Thursday, an Oakland boy of much pitching promise will be in the entourage. He is Regis (Pete) Leheny, of 3330 Ward street, the son of Police Lieutenant Peter J. Leheny, who also was a baseball player. Young Leheny was a member of the Pirate camp during much of last year, and, despite his youth (he is only 19), the young southpaw fooled the regular hitters consistently in the batting practice sessions. Veterans of the club predict a bright future for him. He is shown here with his father.

JOE DUNDEE STOPS CLYDE HULL

By Universal Service.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—The brute strength of Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, battered courageous Clyde Hull into submission in the eighth round of a scheduled Cestanza bout here last night, Dundee winning on a technical knockout.

With his glassy eyes no longer able to follow the flying fists of his opponent and hanging on the ropes in a desperate effort to maintain a vertical position, Hull was a bloody spectacle when Referee Patsy Haley of New York stopped the fight.

By his decisive victory, Dundee removed a touted challenger from his path and answered in a way the order of the National Boxing Association, in which he was ordered to either fight or relinquish his crown.

TWO of the best teams enrolled in the Central League come together Thursday night when the crack Penn Five, winner of the A. A. U. light first-class championship last winter, engages the Verona Business Men on the Sharpsburgh High School floor.

This contest originally was scheduled for Friday night, but owing to the fact that the Penn Five has an A. A. U. elimination game to dispose of, the battle was moved up by mutual agreement.

Both teams are composed of youngsters who are rated with the best passers in their class this winter and followers of the two clubs are looking for a nip-and-tuck battle Thursday night.

The Penn Five has been setting a torrid pace in the Central League to date, besides defeating the best in its class in outside games. In the preliminary game, the Penn Cadets, who stopped the Red McMahans after the latter team had won 20 successive victories, will meet a strong junior club.

DEFEATING the McKees Rocks Business Men at Columbus Temple last night, the Sianos went into a tie for second place with the Sumer Somermans in the second half of the P. & O. League. Only a half game separates the second placers from the E. P. Junkers of McKeesport.

The first four teams in this loop are closely bunched, only one full game separating the fourth-place J. J. Mieles from the E. P. Junkers.

The Mieles, judging by the results of the games played to date, will have to show a big improvement if they hope to make a clean sweep of the honors in the P. & O. race.

School Quints Busy

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

THOUGH but two City League games are listed, the scholastic basketball card for the day is well filled, action being carded in all sections of the W. P. I. A. L. and in the City Junior League.

The local games will bring Peabody and Fifth Avenue together at Fifth's gym and will send South High out to Westinghouse for a contest with the Silver Lakers. Fifth, defeated by a one-point margin last week by Westinghouse, needs a win today to remain in the Section I race. If they win today, the game Friday night in the Pitt Stadium with Schenley will be a title affair for certain.

In Section IV, Monaca will attempt to cut down the lead held by Aliquippa. The latter practically clinched the title in the section by defeating Ambridge last Friday in an extra period battle.

MEADOWS, SON ILL, TO POSTPONE TRIP

Lee Meadows, Pirate first-string pitcher, who was scheduled to leave with the Bucco batterymen for the Coast this week, will be unable to make the jaunt owing to the illness of his son, Lee, Jr.

The Pittsburgh management has given Meadows permission to leave with the second squad.

GENEVA TO RELEASE "BO" FROM CONTRACT

By JESS CARVER.

IF Alvin (Bo) McMillin, who has been head coach of football, basketball and track at Geneva College for the past three years, wants to be released from his contract, signed some weeks ago, so that he may be free to take over the reins at Kansas State Agricultural College, Manhattan, Kan., he will in all probability be able to secure his release.

Bo McMillin.

Such was intimated to this correspondent today by Athletic Manager A. C. Edgecomb, of Geneva, following the report that McMillin had yesterday been tendered a 2-year contract by the Kansas Aggies' athletic board, and that McMillin had stated that he would ask Geneva for his release. McMillin signed a contract with Geneva a month ago, calling for retention of his services for a year.

Manager Edgecomb said that nothing official could be given out until McMillin returns to Geneva and a meeting of the board of trustees is held. Edgecomb stated he knew that Bo had been offered the Kansas post, and inasmuch as it is the former Center College star's desire to affix his name to a long-term contract, and that the Kansas Aggies enjoy a high collegiate football rating, that Bo would very likely seek to sever connections with Geneva after this year. Coach McMillin is expected back in Beaver Falls Wednesday.

the Broadway Club in an Allegheny County League game at Columbus Temple tonight. The Rauhs must win tonight and tomorrow night against the Lafayettes to remain in the running for the second-round title.

Broadway, victor over the Goose Goslins at the Market House last night by a single point, hopes to score its second straight victory over the Rauhs at Columbus Temple tonight. The Beechview passers are one of the few teams to defeat the Rauhs on their home court.

The Y. M. H. A. five, still in the running for the A. A. U. title, will invade Sewickley Y. M. C. A. this week-end to meet the valley passers.

The Pittsburgh Lyceum Juniors meet St. Paul's Lyceum of Butler in the preliminary to the benefit game scheduled tonight between two local newspaper quintets on the Pittsburgh Lyceum floor tonight.

Keen interest is being shown in local basketball circles over the benefit floor program scheduled on the Duquesne University floor next Saturday night. The Rauhs are scheduled to meet the Mieles in the feature event. Three games are on the program. The entire proceeds go to the miners' fund.

HOCKEY

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 14.—A National Hockey League committee today was considering the possible sale of the Pittsburgh franchise to Cleveland interests, following a long discussion of the proposal by the league's board of governors. The committee is composed of President Frank Calder, Leo Dandurand of Les Canadiens, Charles Adams of Boston and James Stracken of the Montreal Maroons.

It is rumored that Pittsburgh will be represented next season in the American Association, a minor league.

Tonight the Pirates are to oppose the Maple Leafs here. After a sensational spurt the Pittsburgh skaters find themselves only one point (one-half game) out of a play-off berth, and they will attempt to get into a money position at the expense of the local sextet tonight. Toronto, likewise, is only a stride behind the leaders, and a close, hard game is anticipated. The probably lineup:

dent of the U. S. L. T. A. and as chairman of the Davis cup committee since 1920, he was practically the dictator of the tennis world.

While declaring that his insurance company would demand most of his time in the future, Myrick said he would continue as a member of the executive committee of the national body.

Myrick's successor will be named by Samuel H. Collom of Philadelphia, president of the U. S. L. T. A. Two problems will face the new chairman. He must pick the players for the American team, and make a decision on the proposal of William T. Tilden and Frank Hunter that two teams be selected, one to play in the American zone and the other in the European.

CHANGE ATTITUDE

Incidentally it was revealed today that Hunter and "Big Bill" are now willing to play in either the American or European zone, as the Davis cup committee desires. Retracting their previous assertion that they would play abroad or not at all, the two members of the 1927 American Davis cup team announced at the recent U. S. L. T. A. meeting in Chicago that if necessary they would cancel their plans for their European tour.

News of this change of mind on the part of Tilden and Hunter was not made public at the annual meeting in Chicago, from which the two stars have just returned.

ALONZO WINS TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Manuel Alonso, former Spanish Davis cup star, has added the Heights Casino invitation tennis tournament to his list of laurels after three days of play marked by a series of stunning upsets.

Alonso's victory in the finals yesterday was the final blow at the form list, for it was achieved at the expense of Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., ranking No. 1 in the national list announced Saturday by the United State Lawn Tennis Association.

SPEAKING of SPORTS

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

the matter will make a report. By the time the league is ready to make an announcement confirming the sale, the regular season will be just about concluded. It is plain that the action taken yesterday is merely an evasion whereby the public may be stalled off on the truth as long as possible.

At the time announcement was made from Philadelphia, two weeks ago, that an option had been taken on the club, the local officials vigorously denied the reports and branded them as an attempt to spoil their patronage for the remainder of the season. A showdown was promised at yesterday's meeting, and now it is deferred until those home games are out of the way. What other deduction is to be drawn?

ADMISSION is made officially now that offers are being considered for the franchise and players and that the meeting yesterday was held to pass on the final disposition of the club. This knocks in the head the bland denials of the local magnates, which have not been generally believed from the start, for the followers of sports are accustomed to reading denials of things that are true by promoters from baseball and boxing straight on down the line and not even excepting on occasion the so-called pure college athletic authorities.

HERE is a case in point. Recently, the baseball writers of New York made the rounds of the Giants' and Yankees' offices in quest of news and were told there was nothing to write about.

They asked about the signing of new players for the 1928 season and were informed there was nothing new to report.

"How about Lou Gehrig?" they asked at the Yankees' headquarters. "When is he going to sign, has he been tendered a contract and will he be offered a substantial raise?"

"We haven't got around to that yet," was the answer. "We won't do anything about Gehrig for some time."

The scribes went back to their offices and wrote stories to that effect. The next day, Gehrig himself let the cat out of the bag, breaking the news that he had signed several days before at a huge increase over his 1927 salary.

WHAT reason did the Yankees have for lying about the signing of Gehrig? Why couldn't they have taken the newspapermen, their best friends, into their confidence and told them Gehrig had signed and asked them to withhold announcement until they were ready to spring the story? No real newspaperman would violate such a confidence. And, by the same token, why did the local club, when asked for a statement on the report that its franchise had been sold, continue to deny the story and put itself in a ridiculous light in the face of the counter-denials that came from the man who had purchased an option on the outfit and also from the president of the league? It's too deep for this scribe, unless the answer is because the club thought the newspapers and the public, on which it depends to get by, were saps enough to swallow anything told them.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

FRIENDS of Eddie Montague, who came to the Pirates with Cronin several years ago, will be pleased to learn that Eddie is to have a tryout with the Cleveland Indians, Montague last season played fine ball for the New Haven club of the Eastern League.

Montague.

The Cleveland owners, before closing the deal for Montague, were in touch with Barney Dreyfuss, who gave Eddie a boost. The common opinion seems to be that if Eddie hits around .270 he will be a successful regular in the big show. The Pacific Coast boy is a finished, fast fielder and a swift base runner.

THE baseball "holdout" brigade is fast getting into line. To call the average player who dickers for better terms a "holdout" is one of the errors of baseball. The word is a misnomer to a fellow who merely bargains for what he thinks he is worth. There are many owners who like to see their players show a sense of bargaining. If they show an inclination to look after their interests they should be good team-workers.

EDDIE ROUSH has been a "holdout," in that he has refused to sign in time to make the spring training trip. Vic Aldridge was in this class in 1925. Hughie Critz was a real "holdout" last year, but to the credit of Critz it should be stated that the club later met his terms. The fans of Cincinnati demanded his presence after the Reds had jumped off with a string of defeats.

IN THE case of Critz there was no unreasonable demand. Hughie asked for $12,500. As he is rated the best defensive second baseman in the National League there seemed to be a merit to his terms at the outset. But the Cincinnati owners, who were paying less valuable players more money than that which Critz asked for—let Hughie know that they didn't need him. The showdown came with Critz winning his point.

DEMPSEY'S NAG WINS; PAYS HUGE PRICE

TIA JUANA, Mex., Feb. 14.—Frank G. Menke, owned by Jack Dempsey and named after the sporting writer, won the seventh race at Tia Juana yesterday, and paid $57 to $2 to win, $11 to place and $12 to show.

true that he beat them twice in one series on their own grounds on May 18 and 22, but what about the remainder of the season? Vic faced the McGrawites on only three other occasions last year, and was defeated all three times, the scores being 8 to 7, 5 to 4 and 7 to 1.

ON THE other hand, Grimes, instead of being soft for the Bucs, got an even break with them, winning two games and losing the same number.

If there is any advantage for the Giants from that angle, it evidently requires the New York system of figuring to make it apparent.

M'GRAW'S desire to get Aldridge on his staff dates back to the 1925 world series, according to the Giant leader himself.

Pittsburgh fans remember the great exhibition of courage and gameness that Aldridge gave in the first two games he hurled in that series.

Honus Wagner.

Vic kept the spectators on the verge of nervous collapse by walking two of three batters and then striking out the next two or three, but in the long run he won out and demonstrated that no stouter heart than Vic's beats beneath any blouse in baseball.

THAT'S why McGraw was attracted to him—because he showed great gameness under fire, in addition to the fact that his curve ball is so good when he is right that it has been the best on the Pittsburgh club since Johnny Morrison began to sag.

Of course, no one can question the gameness or courage of Grimes, but McGraw is strong for curve-ball pitching, and probably decided that on that account Vic would fit into his scheme of things better than Grimes.

HONUS WAGNER bears out the statements of Connie Mack and other baseball veterans that the late Hughey Jennings was without an equal in his day at getting away with the hit-by-pitcher trick.

"Hughey had it down to a science," said Honus. "He would come to the bat wearing his glove hanging at his belt and would frequently twist his body in such a way as to get the glove in the path of a pitch. Why, he was so good that he could even let the ball graze the peak of his cap and get a free trip to first base out of it.

"BUT Jennings was not the only outstanding player in that respect. In later years his record of being hit with pitched ball was closely approached by a well-known player of this district in the person of Charles (Whitey) Alperman.

"While Whitey was playing for Brooklyn he was an artist at getting some part of his body in the way of a pitch. Many a time he managed to get hit in that way and to get away with it. For that reason he was one of the hardest players in the business to keep off the bases."

ALPERMAN still is a resident of Etna, where he made his home when he was big league infielder. Whitey played in the big show four years and for a long time was one of the best men in the minors. Brooklyn obtained him from Davenport for the season of 1906, and he continued to play for the Dodgers through 1907, 1908 and 1909.

Pat Donovan managed the Brooklyn team during the first three years of Alperman's stay and Harry Lumley piloted the team the following season. In 1910, Bill Dahlen was made manager, and after deciding to try a new infield combination he released Alperman to the Rochester (N. Y.) club. Alperman's last baseball engagement was as manager of the Carnegie Steel team of Etna half a dozen years ago.

REPORTS that Pip Koehler, former local basketball star and rising baseball player, had been released to the Reading club by the Chicago Nationals were incorrect, in so far as the popular athlete's minor league destination is concerned. Pip goes back to Toledo in the American Association, for which club he played last year.

Pip Koehler.

Koehler himself makes this known in a letter to The Sun-Telegraph. "I suppose you know by this time that I am returning to the minor leagues from the Cubs," he wrote, "but I am going to Toledo again, notwithstanding reports that I was to go to Reading."

ON THE subject of basketball, Pip, who formerly starred on the Morrys here and is now playing for the Fort Wayne Knights of Columbus team in the major professional league, added: "Our Fort Wayne team is going along well and it looks like we'd win in this section and get in the play-off. I'll not be here then, as I must leave on March 1 for Biloxi, Miss., where the Toledo club will train.

AMERICAN U. QUINT FOE HERE TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S varsity basketball team, from our nation's capital, Washington, is in town today, a dozen strong, and will play Duquesne University in the Bluff gym tonight. That is the most important collegiate news of the day—and if you are interested at all in college news, especially of sporting variety, you will undoubtedly make an effort to attend this game.

The Dukes played American U. while on their first eastern trip and won by a fairly close margin. Chick Davies says American has a good team—one that will cause any ball club trouble. They forced the Dukes to play an extra period at Washington, and will be out there fighting tonight for revenge.

Duquesne will start the regular lineup tonight in an effort to run the winning streak to three games. Reich, the captain, and Benedict, will be at the forwards; Joe Vernon will be at center and Jacques Rosenberg and Stephens are to start at the guards.

PITT AND TECH READY

Carnegie Tech and Pitt, the Oakland rivals, who play here tomorrow, got in fairly strenuous workouts yesterday and will rest up today. The Tartans meet Geneva in a return game, while Pitt plays Allegheny in the only game scheduled with the Methodists this year.

Coach Carlson, with the Notre Dame game ahead of him for Saturday, will probable give some of the regulars a rest tomorrow. Still, you never can tell about Doc.

tention that the ice was soggy because of a thaw and unfit for skating, Kirby pointed out that Eddie Murphy of the United States competed in the 500-meters event yesterday in the midst of a blizzard.

"This deprives the United States of a well-earned victory," Kirby told Henning Olsen, Norway, who is in charge of the skating arrangements.

Sweden monopolized the three first places in the skiing marathon. Pete Hedlun covered the 31 miles in 4 hours, 52 minutes, 27 seconds. Ole Jonion was second, 15 minutes behind Hedlund, and Volger Anderson was third. Norway took the fourth and fifth places. The United States was not entered in the event.

Finland and Norway took high honors in the 1,500-meter race.

Clas Thunberg, Finland's champion, took first place with the fast time of 2 minutes 21.1 seconds. Yesterday he tied for first place in the 500-meter races.

Bernt Evensen of Norway was second with 2:21.9 and Ivor Ballangrud of the same country took third place with 2:22.6.

The United States did not place before fifth, Eddie Murphy of Chicago held that position with his time of 2:25.9.

Of the other Americans, Valentine Bialis, the team captain, was sixth with 2:26.3; Irving Jaffee of New York was next with 2:26.7, and O'Neil Farrell of Chicago came in eighth with 2:26.8.

The point scoring by nations, as used in the winter sports Olympics in 1924, will not be used this year, it was announced officially today by the Olympic committee.

Instead, each individual winner will be hailed as "Olympic champion" of his division.

The 10,000-meter event was the last on the day's program. The figure skating contest for men and women, bobsled and skeleton sled races will be held tomorrow.

BOB HIGGINS QUITS AS WASHINGTON COACH

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14.—Robert Higgins, former all-American end at Penn State and more recently head grid coach at West Virginia Wesleyan, has resigned as head coach at Washington University. Higgins has enjoyed fair success at Washington U. for the last three seasons. He gave no definite reason for resigning.

KAYO FOR DELANEY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Jack Delaney, aspirant for Gene Tunney's heavyweight boxing crown, knocked out Leo Gates, Mohawk Indian, after two minutes and 22 seconds of fighting in their scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

HAEFFNER TO LEAVE WITH PIRATE SQUAD

Bill Haeffner, Pirate catcher, will be a member of the first delegation of Corsairs leaving here Thursday night for the Paso Robles training camp. Haeffner, placed on the ineligible list several years ago, received official word of his reinstatement from Baseball Commissioner Landis late yesterday.

Two new names were added to the Pirate list for the trip to the coast, according to an announcement by Pirate officials last night. Parker Brewer and John Deming, two rookie pitchers, will leave with the advance party Thursday night.

TO GENERAL MOTORS DEALERS

A message which the public is invited to read

FOR the past year General Motors has been advising purchasers of new automobiles to remember the five basic facts regarding the trade-in of used cars, which are repeated at the left.

Through this advertising many buyers have come to realize that the largest trade-in allowance is not necessarily the best deal; and that the important question is not "What is the most I can get for my used car?" but "What is the most I can get for my money?"

We shall continue, from time to time, to republish these basic facts.

As General Motors dealers, you are fully conscious of the tremendous importance of reselling used cars on a basis that will increase public good-will.

The used car business is a vital service to millions of families who want dependable transportation at a low cost and it is your largest opportunity for making millions of new friends.

During 1928, General Motors will endeavor to direct the attention of used car buyers to the used cars offered by you—its thousands of dealers—knowing that in your stores they will find a frank presentation of the merchandise, dependable values, and a determination to have every sale contribute to future good-will.

Basic facts for the buyer of a new automobile:

1 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value; i.e., what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
2 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
3 The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not.
4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
5 First judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car. Remember that primarily you are making a purchase, not a sale.

Farmer Better Off Today Than in Any Recent Year.

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE NORTHWEST, Feb. 14.

ALL farmers are not doing badly. The general testimony is that they are, as a whole, distinctly better off today than in any recent year.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., head of the Federal Farm Land Board, recently told me that land values are beginning to recover mildly here and there, mostly by purchasing of adjoining farms by successful farmers. This movement may broaden.

THE Pacific Northwest wheat crop last year brought $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 more than in 1926.

The principal Washington crops gained 14 per cent in value—and necessity has taught farmers how to pare operating expenses.

Total value of Washington's apple crop was 71 per cent above 1926, although production decreased 14 per cent.

Reports from 16 farm flock owners this winter show an average net profit per ewe of $4.84 for the year, after deducting interest at 6 per cent, depreciation of $3 per head, and other expenses. Average wool clip was 8.8 pounds and average price 32.5 cents per pound. Investigation shows that more sheep could be raised profitably.

THIS is interesting: From Pacific Northwest date, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has discovered that the labor income from wheat farms increased as the size of farms increased from 450 tillable acres up until 1,311 acres was reached, also that the cost per bushel of raising wheat decreased.

APPLES grown in the chief Washington districts use up 30,000,000 boxes annually for packing.

Marketing—extremely important—is conducted unusually efficiently. Two-thirds of the apple crop is marketed privately, much of the remainder through six large co-operative agencies. By grading, standardizing and improving quality most of the product commands a premium. A federal government report states that apples from this section have a wider distribution than any other commodity shipped from any one section.

LOUIS F. SWIFT, president of Swift & Co., tells me:

"Prices of agricultural products are in the most favorable relation to non-agricultural prices since the 1920 slump. Live stock prices as a group compare favorably with other prices. The purchasing power of the live stock farmer has almost, if not entirely, recovered its pre-war relation to other industries.

"The outlook, as I see it, is promising alike in packing, in agriculture, in building, in most basic industries, in money and in general business."

THOMAS E. WILSON, head of his own packing company, in a talk when I passed through Chicago, said:

"There has been a marked recovery in prices of cattle after four or five years of bad times. It is to be hoped that the rise will not go so far as to hurt consumption. Hogs are on a reasonable basis. So are sheep.

"The South American packing trouble has been settled, and the packing industry has a more promising outlook now than it had at this time last year."

F. EDSON WHITE, president of Armour & Co., said:

"Agriculture, the economic backbone of the nation, is more prosperous than it has been for years. General business conditions, too, are sound. Prospects, therefore, are reasonably encouraging. Of course, it is conceivable that there may be sluggish periods from time to time, particularly as presidential years are traditionally uncertain. However, there is really no reason this year for any uncertainty. It doesn't seem possible that there could be any political upsets unsettling to business.

"I have a very definite feeling that we are going to have better times than in 1927."

ALL of which is interesting not only in its relation to agriculture and industry and general business, but in its relation to coming discussions in Congress and to presidential nominations and to presidential voting.

Economic developments thus far do not favor radicals.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Brokers Advise Caution.

Commission house advices today continued to stress the credit situation and the apparent desire of the banking authorities to curtail the stock market enthusiasm and bring about liquidation with a view to contracting the total of credit in use in the securities markets. However, it was pointed out that some of the recent setbacks must have strengthened the technical position somewhat. This angle was put forward as the probable reason for certain of the bullish element entering the market actively again today and bidding their favorites to new high marks on the current movement. The erratic tone of the entire list, however, was still apparent. Phillips Petroleum was the center of an attack against the oil stocks on the assumption that directors would pass the dividend when they meet early next week. American Sugar, whose dividend was passed last week, strengthened noticeably and there was a bullish interpretation of the New Haven Railroad dividend, although the declaration of $1 on the common did not have any immediate reflection in the shares. In the long run, it may be assumed that directors will maintain payments if at all possible and return of this old favorite to the dividend column is undeniably a piece of good news for the long look ahead.

Commercial Investment Trust.

Revising collection methods to meet particular circumstances arising in specified districts has minimized credit losses of the Commercial Investment Trust Corporation in the past 12 years to less than one-fourth of 1 per cent, based on total obligations purchased of $1,494,818,000, says a bulletin issued by the company. An instance is cited in the St. Louis hurricane disaster last September, where the company's losses were kept down to $100 in the face of gross estimated damage of $50,000,000, accompanied by severe temporary set-back in industry. The general standard in automobile financing, the company says, is to require a down payment of one-third of the cash price. On this basis the experience of finance companies in the past year indicates that repossessions amounted to only about 2 per cent of the number of purchases financed.

Stocks of Copper Decrease.

The American Bureau of Metal Statistics says refined copper stocks on January 31 were 96,174 tons, as against 95,258 tons December 31, while blister stocks totaled 237,881 tons, against 248,420 on December 31. Total refined and blister stocks February 1 aggregated 314,357 tons in North and South America, against 343,718 tons December 31.

Humble Earned $2.41 a Share.

Humble Oil and Refining for 1927 reports net income equal to $2.41 a share, against $4.62 in 1926. President Farish states no real improvement in the oil industry is in sight, but that Humble hopes to increase earnings this year through more business in transportation and manufacture. Mr. Farrish said: "We feel that there is too much crude and products in storage now, and that any policy would lead to adding to this burden would be ill advised. It seems to me the entire industry has awakened to the fact that only through co-operation and intelligent conservation in our oil pools can we lessen the burden of high peak flush production in individual pools, which, in turn, tends to lessen the burden of overproduction in the country as a whole."

Gillette Safety Razor.

The Gillette Safety Razor Company for 1927 reports net earnings after all charges, including taxes and depreciation, of $14,546,902, equal to $7.29 a share on the 2,000,000 shares of no-par stock. This compares with net in 1926 of $13,211,412, equal to $6.66 a share; in 1925, $12,889,557, equal to $6.64 a share; and in 1924, $10,122,473, equal to $5.06 a share. Total profit from operations in 1927 was $16,674,559. Net deductions from income amounted to $312,096 and taxes, $1,781,561, leaving net available for dividends as above of $14,546,902.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 8 to 19 points under heavy liquidation and selling orders, inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of rain or snow in the Southwest.

These offerings were absorbed by active buying at the decline on the report of the census bureau, showing domestic consumption of 582,417 bales for January, compared with 543,588 for December and 605,242 for January, last year.

The figures on the January consumption were much above expectations and made a bullish impression on sentiment, which offset the bearish features and sent prices up from 17.97 to 18.32c for May and from 17.85 to 18.16c for October, or 8 to 20 points above Saturday's closing quotations.

The rally from the opening decline carried the market up to 18.43c for May and 18.23c for October, making net advances of 15 to 26 points and new high ground for the movement. The upturn was checked by realizing at these figures, but otherwise there was comparatively little selling and the market held steady. Trading was much less active after the first half hour and was quiet at midday, when prices showed reactions of some 5 or 8 points from the best.

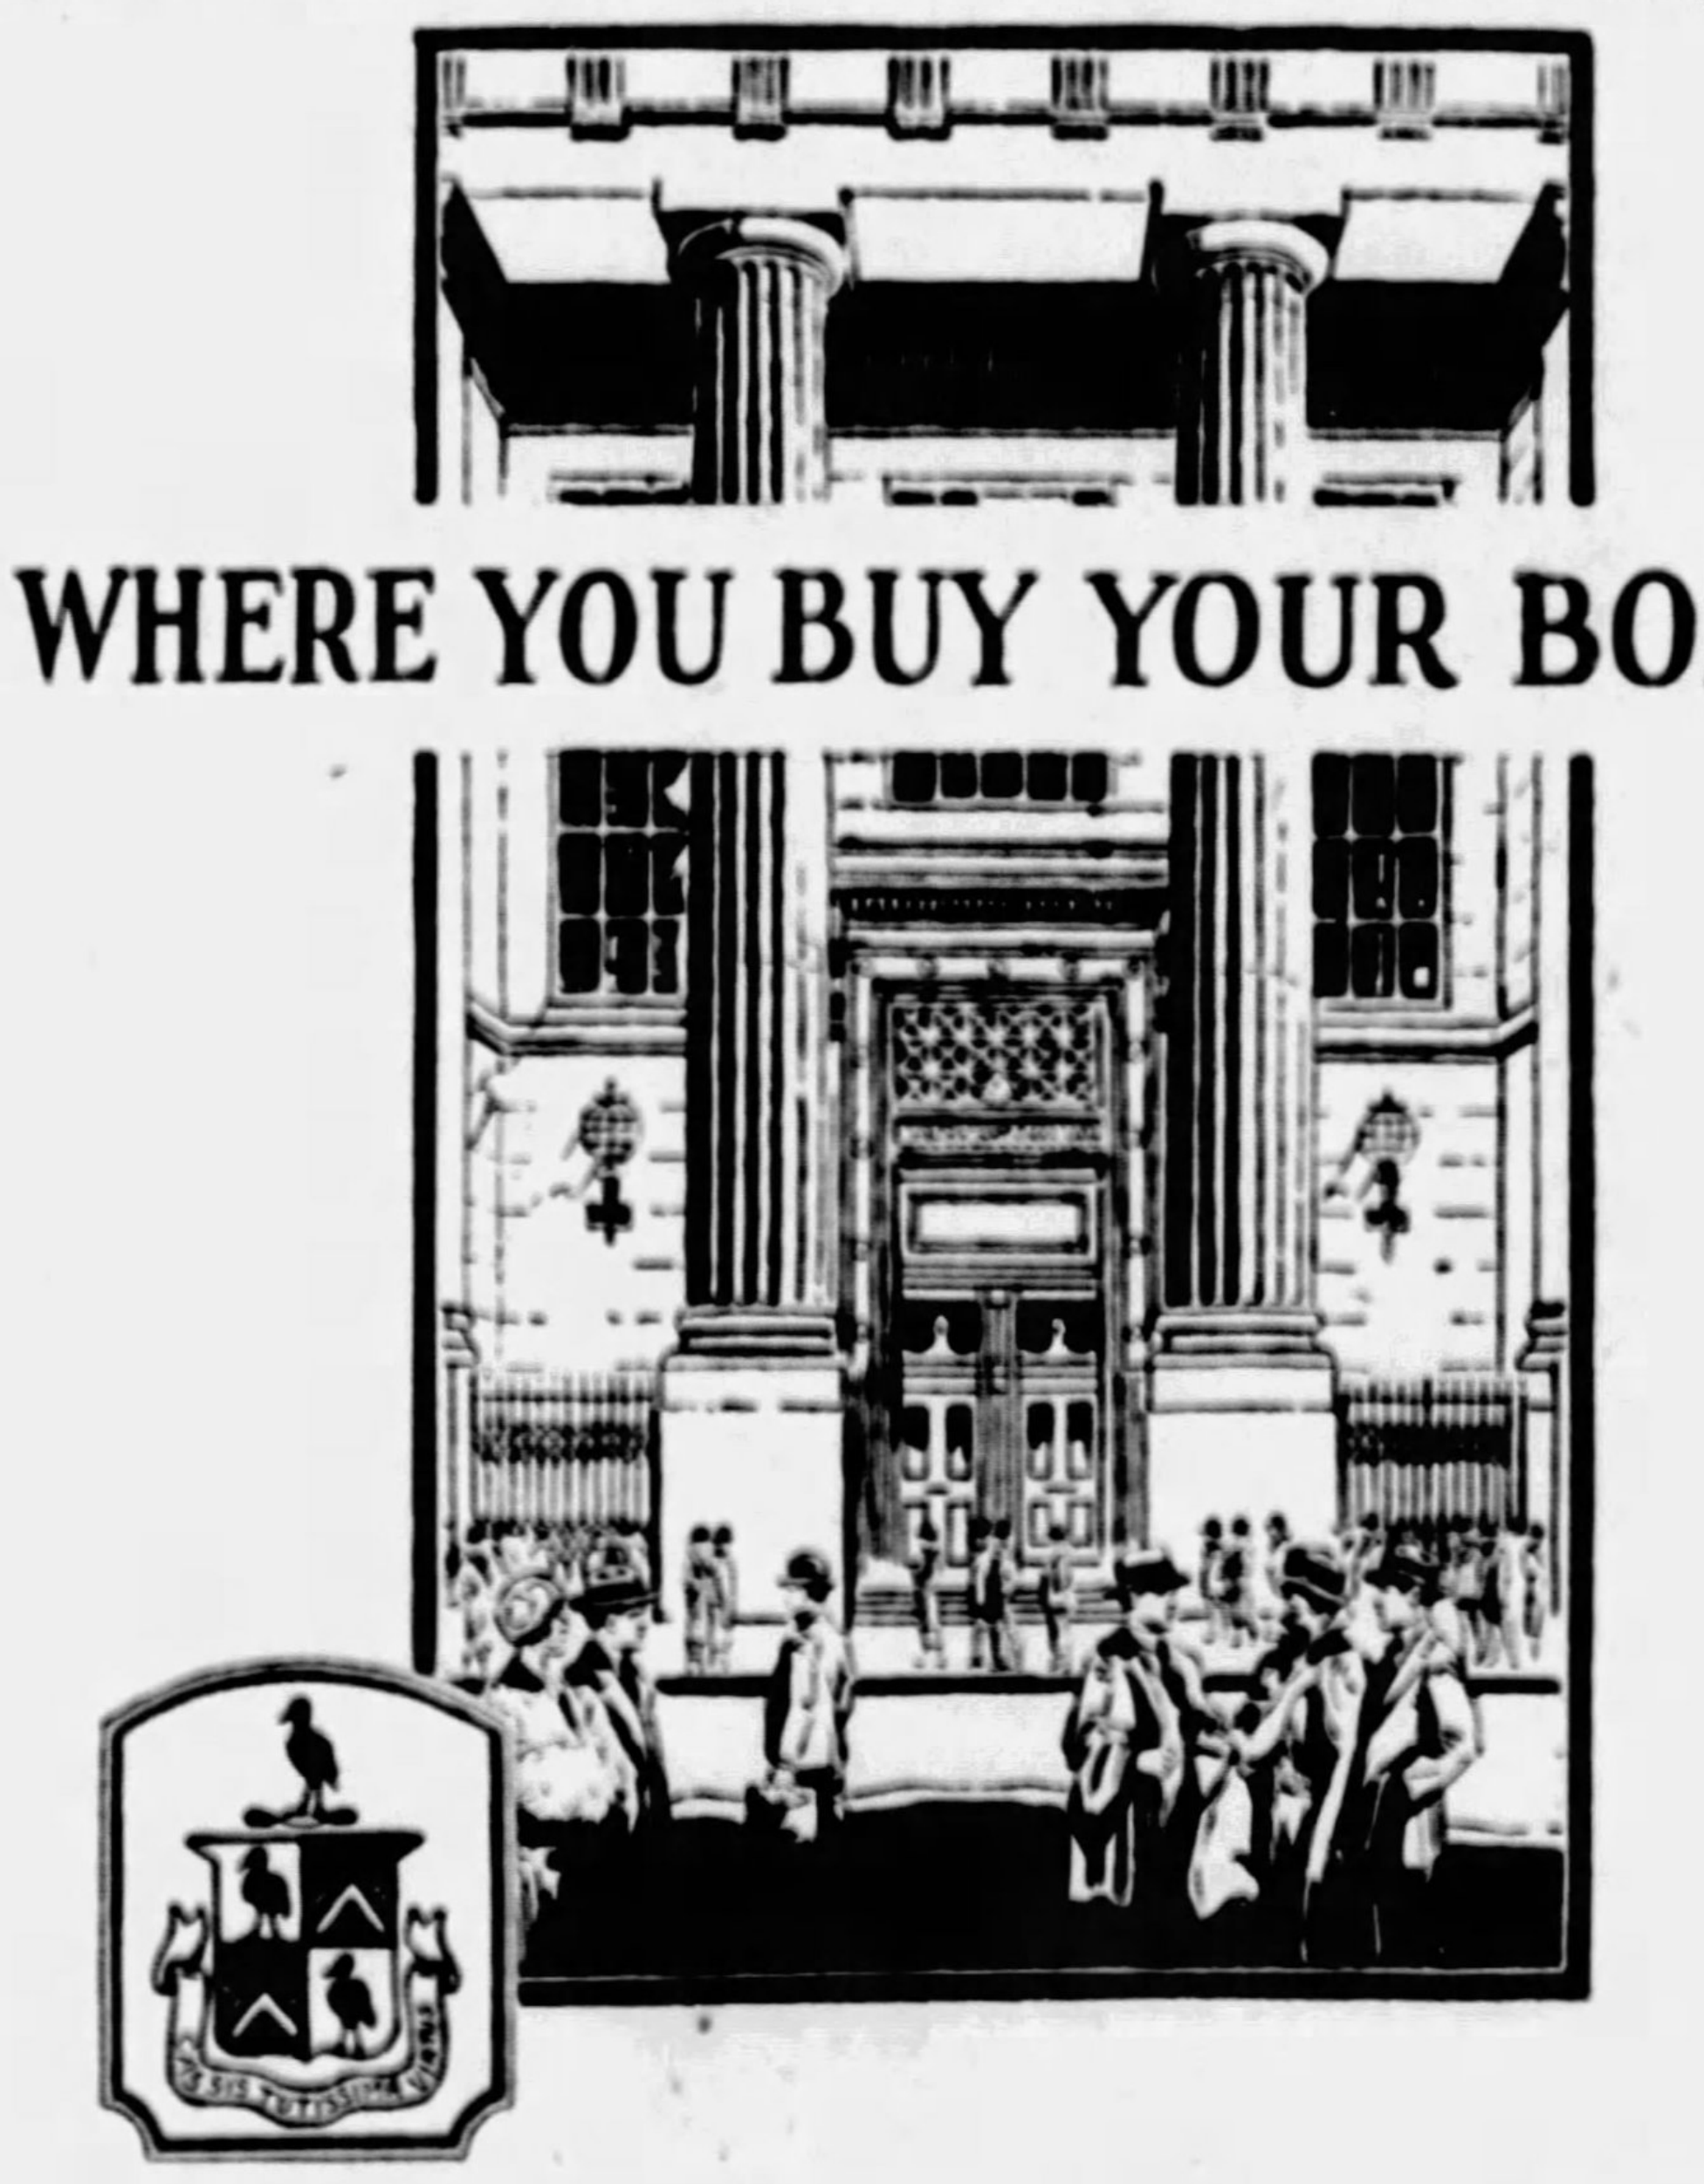
WHERE YOU BUY YOUR BONDS



A MOST important consideration in the purchase of bonds for investment is where you buy them. Since you must rely upon outside judgment and advice, the selection of a reliable institution from which to buy your bonds is essential.

The Bond Department of the Mellon National Bank is an organization devoted exclusively to the investigation, purchase, and sale of bonds for investment, and recommends only such bonds as the bank has purchased for its own investment.

The service of the Bond Department includes the keeping of careful and complete records of transactions, and the giving of timely financial counsel.

This investment service is available to customers at any time, without charge.

CARNEGIE METALS HOLDS FIRM

Strong demand for Pittsburgh Plate Glass on the local stock exchange maintained the price of that issue at about the levels reached on last week's sharp upturn and added confirmation to the current gossip that there is very little of the stock for sale around current levels.

Only a few trades in Plate were recorded this morning, but after opening a point under Saturday's high, the stock turned quiet and subsequent bids were at 226, the best price of the current rally.

Carnegie Metals opened strong at 25 and bulged a fraction above that figure in the early dealings. Improvement in copper prices expected by the trade was a factor in Carnegie's advance. Several of the leading metal issues in the New York market were bid up sharply in reflection of the anticipated raise in the price of copper metal.

Following the absorption of such Pittsburgh Plate Glass as was in the market early, the stock indulged in another sharp round-up in the subsequent trading, leaping over the 250-mark with a bound and making the best price since the middle of last summer. Present price on the issue represents a recovery of 50 per cent of the decline suffered in the last year when the stock broke back from 270 in January, 1927, to 200, reaching the latter last October.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The raw sugar market was quiet early today with no sales reported. Cubas in nearby positions were available at 4.27c, while duty free sugars were available at 1-32c less or on the basis of 4.24c with buyers showing no interest.

Raw sugar futures opened steady 1 point advance to 1 point decline on covering and some European buying, prompted by the steadier showing of the European markets. The demand was soon supplied, however, and following the call, offerings increased. Reactions followed, with the market at midday net unchanged to 1 point lower.

No improvement was noted in the demand for refined sugar, but prices were unchanged at 5.70c for fine granulated.

PHILA. UTILITIES CONSOLIDATE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—William H. Taylor, vice president of the United Gas Improvement Company, was today elected president of the Philadelphia Electric Company, which has been consolidated with the United Gas Improvement Company through an exchange of stock.

The consolidation became effective today.

RESISTANCE TO STOCK SALES INCREASES

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—(AP.)—Resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market was accompanied by increased selling resistance in some of the pool specialties. There was little business news over the double holiday to influence the price movement, although rumors were current that banks were imposing stricter collateral requirements, presumably in an effort to force a reduction in brokers' loans. The recent gain in loans has been due to borrowings on out-of-town funds sent here for temporary investment.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money renewed unchanged at 4¼ per cent despite the deficit shown in the weekly clearing house statement last Saturday. Banks called about $5,000,000 in loans during the morning, but there appeared to be a plentiful supply of funds available at the renewal rate.

Most of the standard industrials moved within rather narrow limits, although the undertone appeared to be firm. Tobacco Products A jumped 5 points to a new peak at 128 on the announcement of the formation of a committee to evolve a plan to dissolve the company. Montgomery-Ward was again in brisk demand in the early afternoon, rising more than 4 points to within striking distance of the record top. Pools also appeared to be active in a number of low and medium priced issues, sharp gains being recorded by Electric Refrigeration, Lehn & Fink, American Woolen preferred and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit. American Snuff soared more than 8 points to the highest level in two years.

You Have Considered Your Family's Needs

You have calculated the cost of home comfort; and you are supplying it. You have calculated what the children will need for support; for education; for judicious help until experience has developed their earning capacity—and you are supplying it. Would these needs be any less if you were called away? And would what you will leave behind you meet those needs?

What Shall Come After You

Your duty to your family will not end with your life; and your plans should go as far as your duty. Life insurance should provide their income tomorrow, just as you earn it today. Would the insurance you now carry, prudently invested, enable your family to maintain their present scale of living? Would it be prudently invested? Before you answer, send for our new booklet "The Life Insurance Trust." It tells why insurance money needs protection, and outlines the most dependable way to protect it. Write or call for a copy.

Proposals 78

Feb. 14, 1928.
CITY OF PITTSBURGH
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
BUREAU OF ENGINEERING.

1. SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the City Controller, City-County Building, until 10 o'clock a. m., eastern standard time, February 21, 1928, and will be publicly opened and read in Council Chamber one hour later for the grading, regrading, paving, repaving, curbing, recurbing and otherwise improving Second avenue, as widened, from Perry street to Block House way.

2. All bids must be made upon the prepared form of proposal to be obtained at the office of the Department of Public Works, Room 429 City-County Building, on and after February 15, 1928. Proposals containing any additions, erasures, omissions, alterations, additions not called for, or additional bid of any kind, may be rejected as informal, and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

3. This project is estimated to cost $15,000.00. Bids must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of $3,000.00, duly and legally executed with a surety or trust company which has complied with the City ordinances relating thereto; said bond shall be in the form of bond furnished by the City of Pittsburgh.

4. Blueprint copies of contract plans and copies of specifications may be obtained at the Bureau of Engineering, Room 440 City-County Building. Deposits in the amount of $10.00 will be required for each set of plans and specifications. Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon return of the plan and specifications in good condition and without marking within 10 days of the date bids are opened.

5. The Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Works reserve the right to increase or decrease the amount or class of any portion of the work which they deem necessary, and to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal which deem it to the interest of the City so to do.

CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor.
EDW. G. LANG,
Director Department Public Works.

Official—Pittsburgh 82

NO. 26.

AN ORDINANCE — Authorizing and directing an increase in the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount, to provide funds for the purpose of paying the cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh be increased by the amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, to provide funds for the purpose of paying cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems.

Section 2. That bonds of the City of Pittsburgh in the aggregate principal amount of One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars be issued for the purposes aforesaid. Said bonds shall be in the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or multiples thereof, shall be dated as of the first day of February, 1928, and shall be payable in ten (10) equal annual installments of Twelve Thousand Five Hundred ($12,500.00) Dollars each, one of which shall mature on the first day of February in each of the years 1929 and 1938, inclusive. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum payable semi-annually on the first days of February and August in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. The principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States of America at the office of the City Treasurer of said City. Said bonds shall be coupon bonds, exchangeable at the option of the holder for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange thereof, by surrendering such coupon bond or bonds, with all coupons not then due, at the office of the City Controller, and the City Controller is hereby authorized and directed to cause such coupon and registered bonds to be engraved and to issue the same in the name of the City of Pittsburgh the expense thereof to be charged to Appropriation No. 42 (Contingent Fund). Registered bonds shall be registered with the City Treasurer, and shall be transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer. Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor, countersigned by the City Controller, and sealed with the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, and the coupons attached thereto shall be authenticated with a facsimile signature of the City Controller. In case of the absence or disability of any of such officials, the bonds shall be signed by the city official authorized by law or by resolution of Council to act in his place. Each of said bonds shall be known and designated as ELECTRIC TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL BONDS 1928.

Section 3. That said bonds shall be sold by the Mayor and the City Controller, at not less than par and accrued interest, after giving such notice of sale as may be required by law.

Section 4. That until said bonds, issued as herein provided, shall be fully paid, there is hereby levied and assessed annually upon all subjects now, by law liable, or hereafter made liable, to assessment for taxation for City purposes, an annual tax, commencing the first year after debt shall have been increased or incurred, namely, the year 1929, sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as the same shall accrue and become payable, and any tax on said interest which by the terms of said bonds is assumed by the City, and also an annual tax commencing in said year equal to ten per centum (10%) of the total amount of said bonds hereby authorized, to be set apart as a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and redemption of said bonds as they become due and payable according to their terms, and the same is hereby appropriated out of the revenue of said City for the payment and redemption aforesaid. There is also hereby appropriated out of the general revenue of the City an amount sufficient to meet the installment of interest due on said bonds during the current fiscal year.

Section 5. That all bonds issued by the authority of this ordinance and the Acts of Assembly authorizing the same shall be and become part of the funded debt of the City of Pittsburgh, and shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities thereof, and shall be free from taxation, as aforesaid, and for the payment of the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon semi-annually as the same shall become due and payable, the faith, honor, credit and property of said City are hereby pledged.

Section 6. That the form of coupon bonds issued in pursuance of this ordinance shall be substantially as follows:

No........ No........
$........ $........

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
CITY OF PITTSBURGH
ELECTRIC TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL BONDS 1928.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS that the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation created by and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is indebted to the bearer in the sum of........ Dollars ($........), lawful money of the United States of America, which sum the said City of Pittsburgh promises to pay to the said bearer at the office of the City Treasurer of said City on the first day of February......., A. D. 19...., with interest thereon from the date hereof at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually to the bearer of the annexed coupons at the time and place therein specified without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. And for the true and faithful payment of the principal of this bond and the semi-annual interest thereon, as aforesaid, the faith, honor, credit and property of the said City of Pittsburgh are hereby pledged.

Any one or more of the coupon bonds of the series of which this is one may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) or a multiple thereof, not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor, by surrendering the said coupon bond or bonds with all coupons not then due at the office of the City Controller of said City.

This bond is one of a series of bonds amounting in the aggregate to One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, issued by the City of Pittsburgh for valid municipal purposes by virtue and in pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," approved April 20, 1874, and the several supplements and amendments thereof; and by virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act for the government of cities of the second class," approved March 7, 1901, and the supplements and amendments thereof; and an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act to authorize the registry or transfer of certain bonds," approved May 1, 1874; and in pursuance of an ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh, entitled, "An Ordinance authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the purpose of paying the cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses) for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system or systems, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon," duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on ...., 1928, and duly recorded and published in the manner required by law.

It is hereby certified and recited that every requirement of law affecting the issue hereof has been duly complied with; that provision has been made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest and also the principal hereof at maturity; that the total amount of indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh, created without the consent of the electors thereof, including the entire issue of the above mentioned bonds, aggregating One Hundred Twenty-five Thousand ($125,000) Dollars, of which this is one, is less than two per centum (2%) of the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein; and the entire indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh including the entire issue of the above mentioned bonds, of which this is one, is less than seven per centum (7%) of the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein; and that this bond and the debt created thereby are within every debt and other limit prescribed by the Constitution and laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Given under the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the City Controller, as of the first day of February, 1928.

The registered bonds issued in pursuance of this ordinance shall be in substantially the following form:

No. No.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
CITY OF PITTSBURGH
ELECTRIC TRAFFIC CONTROL SIGNAL BONDS 1928.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, that the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation created by and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is indebted to .... in the sum of .... Dollars ($................), lawful money of the United States of America, which sum the said City of Pittsburgh promises to pay to the said .... legal representatives or assigns, at the office of the City Treasurer of said City on the first day of February A. D. 19 with interest thereon at the rate of four and one-quarter per centum (4¼%) per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place on the first days of February and August of each year without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law, the payment of which is hereby assumed by the City of Pittsburgh. And for the true and faithful payment of the principal of this bond and the semi-annual interest thereon, as aforesaid, the faith, honor, credit and property of the said City of Pittsburgh are hereby pledged. This bond is transferable only on the books of the said City Treasurer.

This bond is one of a series of bonds amounting in the aggregate to One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, issued by the City of Pittsburgh for valid municipal purposes by virtue and in pursuance of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled, "An Act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," approved April 20, 1874, and the several supplements and amendments thereof; and by virtue of an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entitled, "An Act for the government of cities of the second class," approved March 7, 1901, and the supplements and amendments thereof; and an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled, "An Act to authorize the registry or transfer of certain bonds," approved May 1, 1874; and in pursuance of an ordinance of the City of Pittsburgh entitled, "An Ordinance authorizing and directing an increase of the indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh in the sum of One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, and providing for the issue and sale of bonds of said City in said amount to provide funds for the purpose of paying the cost, damages and expense (including engineering expenses), for the purchase, construction and installation of an electric traffic control signal system, or systems, and providing for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon," duly enacted by the Council thereof and approved by the Mayor thereof on........, 1928, and duly recorded and published in the manner required by law.

It is hereby certified and recited that very requirement of law affecting the issue hereof has been duly complied with; that provision has been made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest and also the principal hereof at maturity; that the total amount of indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh, created without the consent of the electors thereof, including the entire issue of the above mentioned bonds, aggregating One Hundred Twenty-Five Thousand ($125,000.00) Dollars, of which this is one, is less than two per centum (2%) of the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein; and the entire indebtedness of the City of Pittsburgh, including the entire issue of the above mentioned bonds, of which this is one, is less than seven per centum (7%) of the last preceding assessed valuation of the taxable property therein; and that this bond and the debt created thereby are within every debt and other limit prescribed by the Constitution and Laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Given under the corporate seal of the City of Pittsburgh, signed by the Mayor thereof and countersigned by the City Controller as of the first day of February, 1928.
(Seal of the City of Pittsburgh.)
CITY OF PITTSBURGH,
BY .... Mayor.
Countersigned:
.... City Controller.
Registered this....day of....A. D. 19........, at the office of the City Treasurer of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
.... Registrar.

Section 7. Pending the execution and delivery of the permanent bonds to be issued under this ordinance, the Mayor and the City Controller are authorized to have prepared, and to execute and deliver to the purchaser of the bonds hereby authorized, one or more temporary typewritten or printed bonds for the aggregate principal amount of the bonds authorized by this ordinance, which temporary bonds shall be in such denomination and amounts as the Mayor and Controller may determine, and shall be substantially of the tenor of the registered bonds to be issued hereunder, with such appropriate omissions, insertions and variations as may be required. Each of said temporary bonds shall bear on its face the words "Temporary Electric Traffic Control Signal Bond 1928." Such temporary bonds shall be exchangeable at the office of the City Controller for a like principal amount or amounts of permanent bonds, when such permanent bonds are ready for delivery. Upon every such exchange the temporary bonds surrendered shall forthwith be cancelled by the City Controller. Until so exchanged the temporary bonds shall be in full force and effect according to their terms, and shall bear interest from the date thereof.

BUGS BAER Says

ALTHOUGH the Teapot Dome investigation is about to be inaugurated for its second term the Senate has not yet struck oil.

We have read the evidence and it's up in the millions, like the east wind in mah jong.

But all of the witnesses seem to have taken lessons in shadow boxing. So far as oil is concerned the investigation has turned out to be salad without dressing.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

The big witness last week walked up the aisle while the orchestra played the wedding march from Aphasia.

The board of directors of the Teapot assay about one barrel of conversation to the year.

In fact, Irving Berlin furnished them incorporation papers when he wrote, "You Forgot to Remember."

Voluntary clotures are regarded as self-inflicted punishment in the Senate, where the privilege of the floor gives you the right to bark the plaster off the ceiling.

But the Teapot Domers suffer from paralysis of the information. The witnesses are very silent.

They seem to model their elocution along the lines of Col. House, who, when he had anything to say, always changed the subject.

After a grilling by the assembled 96 senators, one witness actually broke down and sneezed. A tear ran down his cheek, which later turned out to be clam juice.

All the evidence collected so far is Washington's picture on a two-cent stamp. The marginal notations must have been written in the pollen of butterfly wings. And if the boys talked at all they have been wearing Maximum silencers.

When two oil men want to gossip they must go into a soundproof room, furnished with two kegs. Each one gets into a keg, pulls on the lid and whispers through the bungholes.

All of which breaks the Senate rule of talking, right or wrong, provided you talk.

The boys have got accustomed to shrill clatter of the inhuman voice and silence hurts their ears.

Public Condemns Disorder No Matter Who's to Blame

Disorder on the part of either side of a labor controversy, such as that prevailing in the bituminous industry, is detrimental to the cause of those engaging in it.

This fact appears with particular emphasis as a result of a report of an officer of the state police who investigated the recent shootings at Bruceton and Broughton, in which both sides are found to have engaged, but in which the state police report the greater blame on the striking miners.

It will be unfortunate for the cause the strikers represent if they do not conduct themselves in a manner to warrant the sympathy of the people. Disorder is condemned by the public, which will not tolerate it, no matter which side is to blame.

Extreme provocation is not accepted as a reasonable excuse. In a matter of such great seriousness, where provocation may lead to severe consequences, the one who causes a quarrel is deserving of stern punishment, but personal attempts to administer it had better be abandoned. It is better to keep one's head and suffer, perhaps, injustice, than it is to lose it and be burdened with responsibility for some greater catastrophe.

If there ever were a time when all should keep their heads, it is now.

Boy Scouts' Anniversary

This month occurred the eighteenth anniversary of the establishment of the Boy Scouts in America. It is a happy time for the youth of our land and an even happier one for their parents.

The Scouts number 650,000, are led by 185,000 men who give time and effort voluntarily and their joint activity is putting the best kind of fundations under the citizenship of the future.

Scouts are taught to be orderly and efficient in work and play, considerate, obedient, wholesome and ambitious—the very things most helpful and useful at their time of life, when future habits are being fixed.

It is a great institution. Give it a lift.

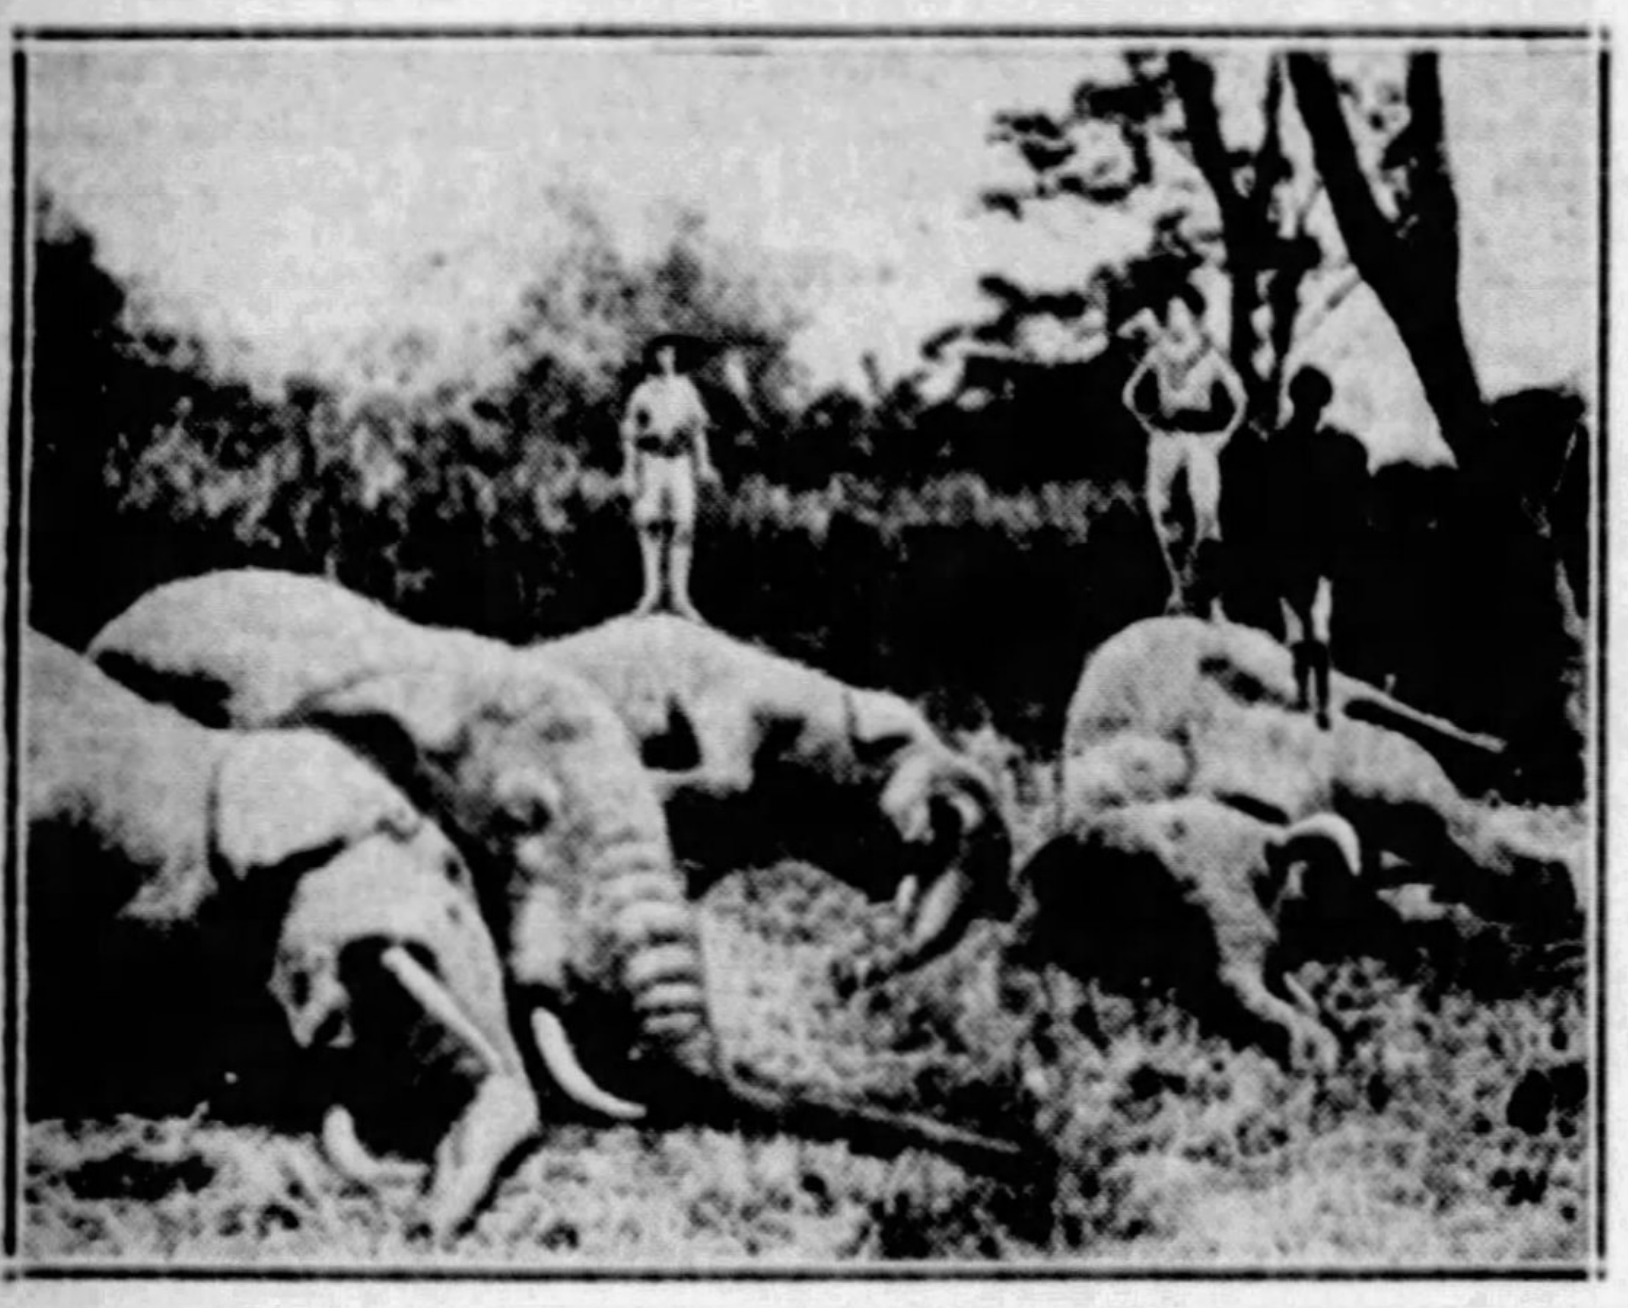
Better Pay Indicated

It is not pleasant to learn that men who do Uncle Sam's legal work and, as results show, do it very well, are receiving as average pay less than they could earn in private industry as unskilled laborers.

Continuance of such niggardly payment for good work will mean in the long run that the good workers will be attracted to other fields and the government work will suffer.

The parsimony isn't necessary and it should be stopped.

Poor Big Elephants!
What Chance Had They? None.



A FEW SHOT, TO WARN OTHERS

Some "mighty hunters before the Lord" went into East Africa on a "safari," which means a big hunting expedition, looking for big animals.

Mr. C. B. Goss and some results of the "safari" you see in the picture above. The hunters were more interested in taking photographs than in killing, although they did want a few specimens. They HAD to kill the four elephants here and another not seen in the picture, because a big herd of the huge beasts attacked the hunters, followed them through the tall grass, and would not leave until a few samples had been brought down with a couple of bullets for each from elephant guns.

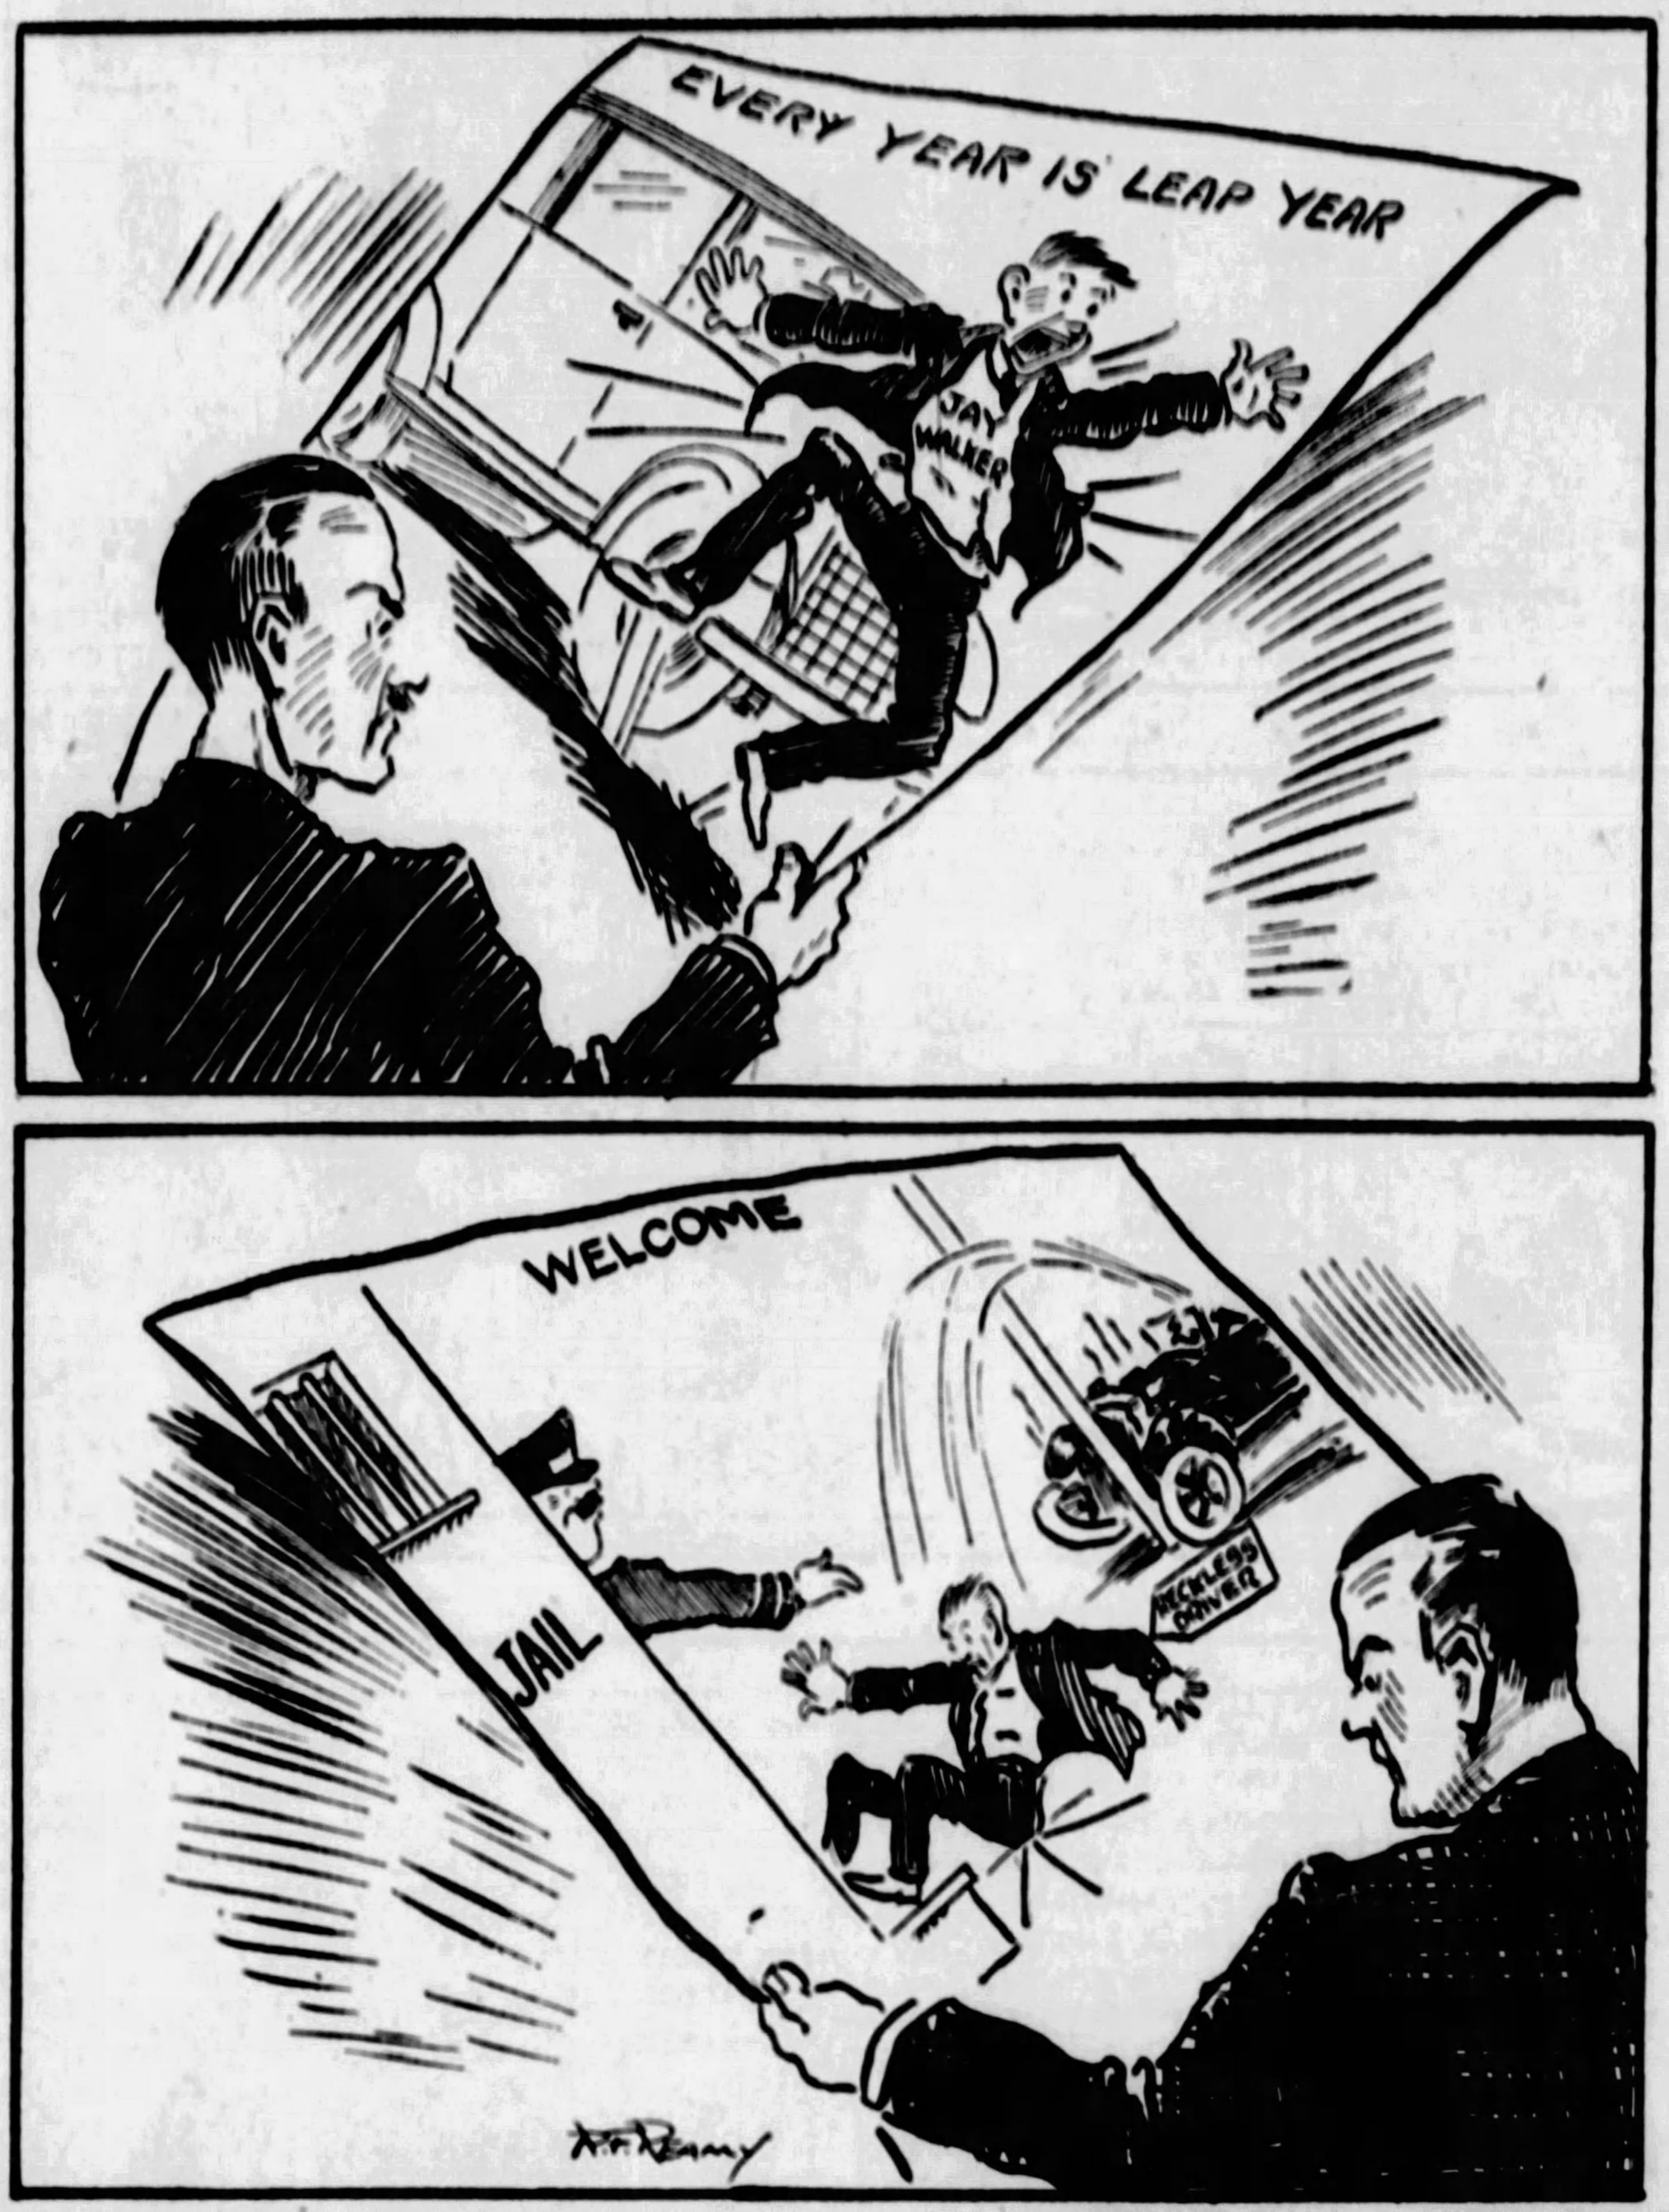
The picture reminds us of progress that human beings have made, especially in the way of killing. Such creatures as these would have filled our early ancestors with terror. There are parts of the world now where elephants walk from the jungle through a native village, trampling it under foot, and the villagers are helpless.

But while the elephant, through evolution or otherwise, has been building up his huge body, man has been building up his BRAIN and thinking power.

Starting with a sharp stick, hardened in the fire, he worked his way up gradually from sharp, flinty bows and arrows, spears, clubs. And now he has the high power gun, its bullet spreading out, inflicting a horrible wound as it enters the flesh.

And the biggest elephant marching against a hunter with good nerves is no more to be feared than a buzzing mosquito, and has less chance than the mosquito, which can fly away.

SOME VALENTINES



Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Beyond the Blue

"BEYOND the blue" was the first sentence stumbled over in a school reader that set my imagination free; free from the book, free from the teacher and the school, free to fly on its own ungoverned way, like a honey-raiding bee among the flowers. Those words awakened me to the inner world whose center is in us through its radiations toward infinity, and I can feel their first charm still. Whoever writes even a single sentence that unlocks another's mind for its owner to perceive its unused powers stands high among benefactors of his fellows.

Science in penetrating beyond the blue has satisfied even the demands of the imagination; has even surpassed it in daring flight. Beyond the blue is the universe, outside the azure curtain of this little, little earth. Beyond the one universe are more universes, looming like little illumined clouds far in the outer darkness. But all are one, still, all of one substance made, governed by one law and plan.

Perhaps we could not endure the view of the universe without the protection of that blue curtain we call the sky. The moon, which has no similar curtain, is dead, lifeless. The planet Mercury, which also seems to have none, shows no signs of life. If we could strip off the blue canopy of day, i. e., if we could destroy the atmosphere, or deprive it of the power of selective scattering of light, we should have a black sky, black as ebony, in spite of the sun; for the sunlight would not be diffused about us as it now is, the shell of air would not be illuminated around us, shadows would be black and sharp-edged, night and frost would reign behind every opaque object that intercepted the direct sunlight, and in the jet-black sky all the stars would burn with a brilliance now unknown to us, defying the sun, though it itself would appear to have been exalted enormously in radiative power. Such would be the effect of destroying the "blue."

We do not see the stars beyond the blue, though they are always there. But the moon is also beyond the blue, yet we can see her through it. On any clear day when the moon is above the horizon in the daylight hours she is plainly visible, despite the presence of the sun. She appears pale and relatively faint, to be sure, "the lonely soul of yesterday," but still when the stars are hidden by daylight she appears, though her intrinsic brightness is slight compared with that of the star beams. How is this?

It is so because the moon presents a broad surface, a circle more than half a degree in diameter, glowing with reflected sunlight, and she more than gains in area what she loses in intrinsic brightness. A star is only an immeasurably minute point of light, which cannot be magnified even with a powerful telescope. The total quantity of light shed on the earth by all the multitudes of stars scattered upon the face of the heavens is probably not much more than one-hundredth of the light given by the full moon. The effect on the eye of the light of an individual star is obscured by that of the scattered illumination of blue sunlight waves which produces the curtain of day; but the relatively large beam of light from the moon penetrates the curtain and produces its independent impression on the eye. Yet if you will look carefully at the disk of the moon in daylight you will see that the less luminous parts have a blue tint like that of the surrounding air, so that by themselves they would not be visible.

But a telescope, by increasing the amount of illumination received by the eye from a star in proportion to the square of the diameter of the object-glass, enables us to see bright stars right through the daylight curtain. And the planet Venus is sometimes so bright that she can shoot her rays through the same curtain, making herself visible to the naked eye even at noonday.

The Rhyming Optimist
By ALINE MICHAELIS

Twinkle-Toes

IN fairy-land the natives grow
No taller than a rose;
One lovely fairy you should know
Is little Twinkle-Toes.

By day she has no tasks to do;
But through the dark night hours
She fills the flower-cups with dew
In all the garden-bowers.

If any child should doubt my word,
Let him at dawn arise,
Just when he hears the first bluebird
A-singing in the skies.

And let him search the garden through.
He'll find that while he slept,
Each flower had a drink of dew
Where Twinkle-Toes had stepped.

Tales That Are Told

After Many Years

THEY were very much in love, but at length came the day when they had a bitter quarrel and parted, each resolving never to see the other again.

Years passed, and they had almost forgotten the little love affair, when one night they came face to face at the local dance. The man felt embarrassed, but said, softly:—

"Why—Muriel!"

She looked at him indifferently.

"Let me see," she said, calmly, "was it you or your brother who used to be an old admirer of mine?"

"I really don't remember," he replied, affably. "Probably my father."

Good Reason

A TREMBLING class faced the inspector as he rapped out questions like a machine-gun. But the boys were not to be caught napping, and the replies came back very well until he asked one boy whether he would prefer one-sixth or one-seventh of a lemon.

"I would prefer one-seventh, sir," answered the boy.

"One-seventh, eh?" said the inspector, grimly, and proceeded to explain that, although that fraction sounded larger, it was really the smaller of the two.

"I know that, sir," said the pupil. "That's why I chose it. I don't like lemons!"

Not Very Cheering

TOGETHER the doctors examined their patient and then retired to discuss their views, but unfortunately the door did not close properly and their conversation floated audibly to the man in bed.

"You're wrong!" said doctor number one.

"I'm right!" protested doctor number two.

Here the patient groaned loudly, and the doctors, realizing the necessity of the case, dropped their argument, but not before doctor number one made a parting shot.

"Go your own way," said he. "But I'll prove you were wrong at the post mortem!"

Ye Towne Gossip
by K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.: Recently in our home we read and discussed the following, clipped from our daily paper: "New York will welcome a celebrity with a louder huzzah than any other city in the world—and then it is through. It never repeats. Lindbergh, today on a crowded street, would not attract a corporal's guard." No one in our family agrees with its reference to Lindbergh. C. B. R.

DEAR C. B. R.
IN THE matter of welcome.
TO CELEBRITIES.
THE ONLY difference.
BETWEEN NEW YORK.
AND ANY place else,
IS THAT it can gather.
A BIGGER crowd.
AND THE bigger the crowd.
THE LOUDER the noise.
AND THE less of reason.
IT ASKS as excuse.
TO YELL its head off.
AND SO it yells.
AND IT means not as much.
AS THE group of men.
ON THE western plains.
WHO RIDE for miles.
AND SIT their horses.
BESIDE THE track.
AND A train roars by.
AND A Roosevelt.
OR WHOEVER it is.
WAVES A hand to them.
AND THEY lift their hats.
AND WATCH the train.
TILL IT is no more.
THAN A cloud of dust.
AND ABOUT the statement.
THAT WE never repeat.
IT SEEMS TO be true.
UNLESS IT is.
WITH THE yelling over.
AND THE welcomes said.
WHO INSTILLS in us.
A DEEP affection.
JUST FOR himself.
AND AN interest always.
IN HIS welfare.
AND WE have that.
IN COL. Lindbergh.
AND I'M very sure.
THAT IF today.
THE WORD went out.
THAT LINDBERGH was seated.
IN A leather chair.
IN THE Waldorf lobby.
IT WOULDN'T be long.
AND THEY'D be compelled.
TO ROUTE THE traffic.
THROUGH THIRTY-second.
AND THIRTY-fifth.
AND THEN again.
THERE'S THAT other young man.
THE PRINCE OF Wales.
WHOM WE like very much.
JUST FOR himself.
AND WE throw a fit.
IN welcoming him.
EVERY TIME he comes.
* * *
I THANK you.

A Third Eye Useful

BONES, ten million years old, dug from an English quarry, reveal that the plesiosaurus had three eyes, one on the top of its head.

It demonstrates the prodigality of nature, or the fallacy of evolution, or something.

A plesiosaurus, with three eyes, lived in a Cambrian fen where there was nothing worth seeing.

Man, the alleged acme of evolution, is limited to two eyes in an era of speeding motorists, revues, movies, modernistic art and one-piece bathing ensembles.

And with Col. Lindbergh and his fellow birdmen girdling the globe, mankind could use an eye on top of the head. It would keep the palate from getting sunburned.

New York Day by Day
by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—At 8:30 o'clock in the morning New York's midtown streets are filled with its army of office workers who by 9 o'clock are swallowed up by the great office buildings and whirled up to drudgery. They are the stenographers and clerks and they give the town a buoyancy lasting all the day.

It is Youth going to its responsibilities with a gusto and merry chatter. They often whistle, shout and sing as they race along. To them the metropolis is not the fearful ogre of popular imagination. They seem to fling themselves breathlessly into the happy daily adventure.

Mild-looking gentlemen and sedate women appear to be touched, too, by the contagion of the exhilaration. Their steps are lightened by contact. Later on the crowds may galvanize into a lunging, growling beast, but between 8 and 9 the attitude is amicable. All is right with the world.

At Grand Central and Times Square are the rising tides, erupting pell mell from subway exits and spreading wave-like through the canyon fissures that are New York's street. There is nothing at all humble about these workers. They are triumphant.

I have seen the morning avalanche of office workers in other cities and it seemed to me they "trudged along." But in New York—well, I can't explain it, but the movie title writers would probably rhapsodise: "They walk in beauty," or something like that.

Later on they may metamorphose into adding machines or typewriter automatons and be known by numbers, but you would never suspect it, watching them go to work. As a matter of fact there are good reasons for the lightheartedness.

New York office workers have the finest surroundings in the world. The majority work in sunshine, high up in clean air. They have an independence few other cities offer. Jobs are plentiful for the efficient, and they have the feeling, too, they are in the midst of things—the top of the world.

In a restaurant the other evening there came a beautiful lady, clad imperiously in cool black. She had the flushed cheeks and enchanted expression of youth, but her hair was snow-white. It seemed as though every diner paused in the meal to stare as she swept through the room. The head waiter told me the story. She is the daughter of a rich man. Three summers ago she was visiting a country estate near New York. One evening when others retired she sat on a verandah drinking in the beauty of the night. Suddenly the entire household was aroused by a ghastly scream. They found her unconscious on the verandah floor and a bat trying to untangle itself from her golden hair. That night her hair turned white.

A recent suicide of a prominent clubman, it is whispered, is the consequences of a ghastly chain of circumstances. He had fallen in love with a married woman and slowly poisoned her mind against her husband, whose gross infidelities were unknown to her. The clubman one evening learned of a certain rendezvous the husband had, and telephoned to the wife. She decided to investigate, chiefly to satisfy her mind it was untrue. She found him in the apartment of a charmer and went home and killed herself. The bachelor, upon hearing of the tragedy, sent a bullet through his head.

Saint Valentine
By DR. FRANK CRANE

There are all sorts of saints in the calendar, saints for this and saints for that. But the saint that is especially to be honored for the joy he brings to life is Saint Valentine.

He is peculiarly the saint of the young and presides over the destinies of young hearts at the mating season.

February is a dull month and one of the worst months in the year for most of us. It is cold, rainy and short. It wobbles around in the calendar and sometimes has 28 days and sometimes 29.

But this Saint Valentine's Day is set like an electric light in the midst of an otherwise darkened chamber.

No time of life is more beautiful than that time when youthful hearts begin to expand. It is the time of romance and of dreams and of hopes.

And over its swarm of beautiful fairies that infest this darkened race presides Saint Valentine.

Who can describe the enchanting fancies that fill a young man's heart as he selects the prettiest valentine to send to his lady love?

Or who can depict the flutterings of the feminine heart when she receives this valentine?

The man who has never felt the delightful pangs of early love is to be pitied and any institution or festal day that puts its stamp of approval upon love is to be honored.

Love makes the world go round.

Some one has compared it to gravitation or the law of gravitation as it is applied to souls.

It is the one thing that makes all men and women of one nationality, that makes us all human.

Saint Valentine's Day therefore is an argument for the oneness of the race, for the brotherhood of mankind. It is universal in its appeal.

Young men and maidens were making eyes at each other and holding hands 5,000 years ago and they are still at the old game.

Sometimes it seems as though St. Valentine was not much on his job, for many marital unions result disastrously.

Still I suspect that the gentleman is doing the best he can with poor human nature.

Right Angles
By ALEXANDER CAIRNS

Happy Valentine

ROMANCE runs rampant today. This is the most erotic spot in the calendar.

Love runs the hot gamut of passion today and lovers' lanes are the popular promenades of the hour.

Youth, signalling to love, flames like a beacon light, and the vocabulary of amours and affinities is put through its paces like a Derby favorite.

And all is well!

The myriads and the millenniums persist in countersigning the famous pronouncement by Henry Drummond that love is the greatest thing in the world.

Here art reaches its zenith and literature its coronal. It is the one motif universal, and like Homer is a native of many cities.

Certainly St. Valentine love is sophomoric, mostly heifer love, but we would have it so. Nothing is more tragic than twenty-year senility or wrinkled and palsied youth.

But love needs no tutor. Like a duckling it swims at birth, and like a butterfly it matures in a day.

We commiserate the person who never had the thrill of love notes in a district school and whose blushes did not precede adolescence by several gosling years.

Irrational? Yes! But what has Valentinian romance to do with reason? It is concentric with the holocaust which men call passion. Emotion and academics are as far apart as vampire and vestal, and as incompatible as silence and pandemonium.

Love, meted out by the ell-stick of reason, would celibate the sons of men and give the veil to every daughter of God.

Mute then the dirge of Madame Grundy and ring the bells, the holy and hilarious bells, of St. Valentine.

Surprise Visit Pests

IN planning your auto trip next summer don't make your itinerary with a view to getting free lodging and meals at the home of friends.

Some friends would welcome you, at any time, into their homes.

They want to see you, to entertain you.

There are those, however, whose circumstances, from one cause or another, would make it decidedly inconvenient and displeasing to them to have you stop.

Not because they don't want to see you, at all, but their plans might be sadly disarranged if you should invite yourself without consulting them.

Many persons need rest and quiet after a busy winter and they betake themselves to nearby summer resorts for the summer months.

They need the relief that cool breezes and freedom from care are sure to bring to those who relax enough to enjoy them.

Your arrival means extra work, perhaps extra help.

Call on your friends and if they want you to remain they will make it unmistakably certain to you, but don't expect or plan for it.
